SUMMARY.

The surrender of 22 German warships was completed on Thursday without incident.

Admiral Beatty met at 9.30 a.m. the main instalment of the German High Sea Fleet.

The battle-cruiser Lion and H.M.A.S. Australia occupied the positions of honour, leading the two lines of the Allied fleet.

The German warships steamed down the centre. Dead silence was observed by the Allies until they had passed.

When Admiral Beatty, on the Queen Elizabeth, steamed down the line, he met with an overpowering reception.

An American squadron operating as a British unit participated in the proceedings.

The German fleet is moored at Lago Bay, in the Firth of Forth.

It was a thrilling moment off Harwich when the first U-boat was sighted coming from the mist.

As it passed the Melampus an order was given, "No cheering or noise of any kind to be made as the U-boats are passing."

A large British airship led in the first section of the German craft.

All British guns were trained upon the U-boats to prevent the possibility of treachery.

A dramatic moment came when Admiral Tyrwhitt ordered the foremost destroyer to lead the way to England.

The U-boats steamed towards England without a word being spoken.

The White Ensign was run up on the U-boats as each submarine entered Harwich Harbour, with the German flag underneath.

Twenty more U-boats were to have been handed over yesterday, and 70 others will be surrendered at the week-end.

A German light cruiser, while on its way to surrender, struck a mine and sank in the North Sea.

Mr. H. Williams, telegraphing from Geneva, says the German revolution is quite unlike the Russian.

There is no exultation of liberty, and not the faintest sign of national repentance.

The hostile attitude to the Allies is intensified by the sense of humiliation due to the armistice.

Two trainloads of stores have arrived at Amerongen Castle for the ex-Kaiser. The occurrence has caused indignation in Holland.

Williams spends most of his time walking in the gardens and motoring. His lack of consciousness of his position amazes the Dutch.

The ex-Crown Prince and suite will be interned in a small house on the island of Wieringen, in the Zuyder Zee.

No food supplies will be sent to Germany until the Allied Food Control is satisfied concerning conditions in Germany.

Mr. Walter Long, Secretary of State for the Colonies, has addressed a letter to Sir Charles Wade on the German Colonies.

The British Government's whole support, he says, will be given to the claims of the dominions.

The German High Command sent an insolent reply to Marshal Foch's protest against acts of violence during the German retreat.

It says: "The responsibility rests with the Allies, whose armistice terms are so exacting."

The tragedy of the returning prisoners has increased the public demand for the punishment of the leading German criminals.

It is insisted that Germany shall not be allowed food till the Allies are satisfied that prisoners are better treated.

Lord Curzon replied in the House of Lords to a suggestion that the Germans guilty of crimes against British prisoners should be held responsible.

He said the Government was giving the matter attention. They were consulting with the law officers.

Sir Douglas Haig sent a wireless message to Germany pointing out the shocking lack of organisation in the release of prisoners.

The British Government, he said, cannot tolerate a continuance of this cruel treatment.

Owing to the spread of Bolshevik doctrines the United States Government has decided to continue the internment of aliens.

There are 134 cases of influenza now under treatment in the quarantine hospital.

The patients are for the most part doing well. The Medic's cases are not so virulent as those from the Atua.

The Riverina is reported to be a clean ship, but she will remain in quarantine for the prescribed time.

Arrangements have been made for 12 army nurses from the Randwick Hospital to proceed to the quarantine station.

An order has been issued forbidding any vessel to approach within 200 yards of the quarantine station.

The staff of the Health Department is hard at work upon the preparation of vaccine for preventive inoculation.

The Town Halls of the city and suburbs will be used as depots for general vaccination.

The vaccine will probably be available during next week.

Mr. Fuller stated in Parliament yesterday that steps had been taken to obtain a satisfactory pattern of masks.

This would be on view early next week, and manufacturers would be afforded an opportunity of copying them.

The ordinary medical gauze will be the main material used in the manufacture of the masks.

The Government has decided to take measures to guard against any improper inflation of prices of this material.

The Cabinet held a special meeting yesterday to consider further precautions against an epidemic.

The medical branch of the Health Department is to be reinforced by 12 medical men to be recommended by the B.M.A.

The leader of the Opposition stated in the Assembly that the epidemic was a form of plague, and was very deadly.

A contingent of Anzac soldiers will arrive to-morrow morning by two special trains from Melbourne.

The Acting Prime Minister does not approve of the removal of the quarantine station to Jervis Bay.

Old Newingtonians have decided to erect a memorial to the 83 Newingtonians who have fallen in the war.

The movement was initiated yesterday, at which it was stated that 550 Newingtonians had enlisted for active service.

Mr. Watt referred yesterday to the report that 1,000,000 tons of wheat had been sold at 4/9 per bushel.

He said definitely that no such sale had taken place.

The total cost of the Commonwealth repatriation scheme will probably be not less than £100,000,000.

The Federal Cabinet has asked the Minister for Recruiting to consider the best form of celebrating peace when it comes.

At the Primary Producers' Conference yesterday Professor Irvine read a paper on the "Financing of Rural Production."

He said it would be necessary to continue the wheat pool until they reached normal peace conditions.

The organisation of the farmers on strong co-operative lines, combined with the formation of land banks, was advocated.

A series of resolutions were adopted for submission to the Government. The problems of the immediate future were recognised.

It was affirmed that increased production was of vital importance, and must be promoted.

A firmer market prevailed for investments on the Stock Exchange yesterday, and a fair business was done at improved prices.

There was a strong demand for dairy produce. The market was well stocked with eggs.

New potatoes were in request, and consignments from the Clarence River realised to £17 ton.

Forecast:—Hot and sultry conditions generally, broken by scattered rain and thunderstorms, chiefly in the north-east districts; squally northerly to north-west to north-east winds. A cool change approaching the far south-west.

WHEN THEIR LIVES DEPENDED ON THE SAFIX MILLER OUTBOARD MOTOR.
A Customer writes:—"You will be gratified to learn that the Safix Miller Outboard Motor saved our lives during the heavy gale last Sunday. We were absolutely helpless had the motor stopped, but I am thankful to say she stuck to the work and got us through in safety. Anyone who knows the Hawkesbury River and experienced last Sunday's gale will admit that this was a marvellous feat for an Outboard Motor. Show me one with a better record and I will take off my hat to it; I am averaging about 40 miles to the gallon at about 8 miles to the hour, in a heavy boat, and am absolutely convinced that the Safix Miller is 100 per cent. efficient, and in a class of its own." (Name given on request.)
The Safix Miller Outboard Motor is 3½-h.p., speed 8 miles; weighs 70lb, equipped with Dixie H.T. Magneto, and reverse propeller. Booklet H gives price and full particulars, post free, from A. J. DADSON and CO., Box 912, G.P.O., Sydney. Showrooms, J. L. SCOTT, Ltd., 80 Hunter-street, Sydney.

SOLDIERS and CITIZENS' POLITICAL FEDERATION
MASS MEETING IN DOMAIN
for
RETURNED SOLDIERS AND CITIZENS,
on SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 24th, at 3 P.M.
Speakers: Lieut. Thompson, Lieut. Lee, Lieut. Curtis, W.O. M'Murtrie, Sgt. Eade, Sgt. Stead, and others.
Subject: SOLDIERS IN POLITICS.

OUTFITS FOR MEN AT ANTHONY HORDERNS'.

Economy, allied with excellence, is the basic principle that governs everything sold at Anthony Horderns'.
City men, and men from every part of Australia, consistently select their requirements from the selections offered in the Men's wear Departments at the New Palace Emporium.

MEN'S PALACE SUITS, READY-TO-WEAR.

Men to-day are more seriously interested in the necessities of life than in its little vanities and luxuries. In the matter of clothes they demand hard-wearing as well as good-looking, shape-retaining garments. Such suits Anthony Horderns' are offering at prices that cannot be duplicated elsewhere. They are cut, made, and finished by experts—a guarantee of their excellence. We feature two special value lines for Business Men:—
PALACE SUIT, in HIGH-GRADE TWEED and WORSTED, medium and dark shades of Grey and Brown .... 84/.
PALACE SUIT, in ALL-WOOL AUSTRALIAN SERGE, guaranteed Indigo dye .... 90/.
The Coats have 3-button fronts, hand-padded lapel, with or without breast pocket, centre seam, no vent. The Vests have medium opening and four pockets, while the Trousers have side and hip pockets, with cuffs or plain bottoms.
THESE SUITS WILL WELL REPAY INSPECTION.

OPEN-END TIES.

Seldom has it been our good fortune to offer such a wide range of Ties as that which is now on view in the Mercery Department. An inspection is desirable, as descriptions in type with names and price quotations do not convey an adequate idea either as to the wonderful variety or the excellent value. No matter what a man's particular Tie fancy may be we can suit him, and satisfy him, too, both as to quality and price. In open-end ties—the style favoured by most men—we offer ties in pleasing shades from 1/6 to 7/6 each, the latter being in dark dressy designs of Spitalfields Silk.

KNITTED NECKWEAR.

Men who favour knitted Neckwear, and their number is largely on the increase, will find an attractive assortment to select from. In real Silk, Ties are offered at as low as 4/ in fancy colours to 8/6 in self colours. They may also be had in shot spun colours, plain black, and plain white. In artificial Silk the prices range from 1/3 to 4/6. All these knitted Ties represent unequalled value, as an inspection will demonstrate.

ADVANTAGES OF MORNING SHOPPING.

Shoppers who make a practice of early morning buying have long since realised the advantages of adopting that policy. Morning shopping permits a more leisurely survey and a critical examination of the goods. It permits, too, an inspection of the big assortments we offer.

VALUE IN MEN'S BRACES.

There is no difficulty in obtaining Brace satisfaction at Anthony Horderns'. All the best manufacturers are represented in the selections, which for variety and value offered are unequalled elsewhere. Anthony Horderns' Men's Braces are offered from 1/9 for Army Braces, with leather ends and patent fasteners, to Silk Braces at 8/6. These and the in-between makes represent remarkable value.

MEN'S HANDKERCHIEFS, IN GREAT VARIETY.

That the Mercery Department offers incomparable value in Men's Handkerchiefs is shown by the consistent support accorded it by men who expect full value for their money. Big Stocks of Handkerchiefs in Cotton, Irish Lawn, Linen, and Silk are being rapidly drawn upon by patrons, who know that they cannot get such unequalled value elsewhere. Handkerchiefs in Irish Lawn, full size, are priced from 3/9 to 7/ per half-dozen, or they may be purchased singly; while the prices for Linen Handkerchiefs range from 7/ to 16/3 per half-dozen. With initial letters worked in the corner, they may be purchased for 2/11 each for medium size, or 16/3 for half a dozen. White Silk Handkerchiefs are offered from 2/6 to 3/6 each, or 3/9 with initial worked in corner.

AN EXPLANATION.

During the War we had branch studios in the various military camps, which gave us such an increase in business as to overtax our very large resources, sometimes causing delay in the delivery of our orders.

We beg to thank our patrons who bore with us during that period, and to assure them a quick delivery now that our camp studios are closed and the military business over.

Please note that this wonderful offer can only be obtained at THE CROWN STUDIOS.

We take photos. in any weather, wet, cloudy, or sunshine. Studios open daily till 5.30 p.m.

Fridays we take photos. up to 9 p.m., as good as daylight photos., and the same price.

TEACHERS MAKE THE SCHOOL.
It is an undisputed fact that the teachers make the school. The curriculum may be good, and the management excellent, but if the teachers are not experienced, conscientious, enthusiastic, and in every respect capable, it is not the school that should be selected by anyone desiring a thorough training.
Remember, tuition which does not produce practical results is dear at any price.
The success of any musical institute lies in its teaching staff. Each professor and member of the "Albert" College Staff is a highly trained specialist and a sympathetic and successful teacher.

RESULTS GUARANTEED. The size of a chick at, say, 6 weeks of age, depends largely on the elements supplied in the feed.

THORPE'S GROWING MASH with THORPE'S WEEK-OLD and EXTRA SPECIAL CHICK FOOD, provides the proper balance of all the elements required, and makes chicks develop twice as fast as chicks fed on a purely cereal ration. Thorpe's Foods are the standard Poultry Foods of Australia, and are sold in every State of the Commonwealth. There is only one reason—they give results.

NO EQUIPMENT IS TOO GOOD FOR THE LIBERTY AEROPLANE, particularly the Carburettor. Consider for a second the requirements necessary for a Vaporiser attached to a highly important Machine. It must produce rapid ACCELERATION. Ample POWER at full throttle for hours at a stretch. An even MIXTURE at all altitudes and positions—now, at sea level and horizontally, in a few minutes, at 20,000 feet and ascending vertically, and finally it must have thorough RELIABILITY and few moving parts. Such a Carburettor ought to be good enough for your engine, and that Carburettor is THE NEW VALVELESS SCHEBLER, which is the same design as used on THE LIBERTY AEROPLANE. It is impossible to describe in detail all the special features of THE NEW VALVELESS SCHEBLER. Sufficient is to say that it is a NON-MOVING PART CARBURETTOR, and a decided advance in the science of Carburetion, incorporating several new features and principles. THE ONLY MODEL ON SALE AT PRESENT IS SUITABLE FOR THE FORD CAR. IT CAN BE EASILY ATTACHED BY ANY OWNER DRIVER. PRICE £5, COMPLETE. ROBERT C. SWAN AND CO., LTD., 304 PITT-STREET, SYDNEY, SOLE AGENTS FOR WHEELER SCHEBLER CARBURETTOR CO. OF AMERICA.

HOW LONG AGO—FOURTEEN YEARS!
The motor industry was in its infancy then—so far as New South Wales was concerned, and our dealings in motor cars dates from that time.
For fourteen years we have been selling new and second-hand cars, and to the latter we especially applied ourselves, knowing that a good second-hand car was a better investment than a new car, and that the buying public would soon share our belief, we set about making all our second-hand cars "good," and so have gained the confidence of the public interested. Let us demonstrate our cars to you. Best makes in stock.

IT IS NOT GOING TO MAKE A GREAT DEAL OF DIFFERENCE.
About the other car—no matter what we say, because you most likely have ideas of your own concerning cars; but the things we can SHOW you are going to make a great deal of difference. We ask you to call upon us before making your decision. We do not claim to offer you a similar car at a lower figure, but we most certainly believe we can offer you a similar car in a better condition—in guaranteed condition inside and out. We have studied it for years, and we do not think we can offer the motor-buying public anything better than a guaranteed Second-hand Car.

"THE SENSIBLE SIX."

EASILY THE MOST ECONOMICAL
SIX-CYLINDER TOURING CAR MADE.

THE REASON FOR THE EXCEPTIONAL POPULARITY ENJOYED BY THIS WONDERFUL CAR IS PROVEN BY THE LARGE NUMBERS WE SELL.

A GALLON OF PETROL WILL DRIVE AN "OAKLAND SENSIBLE SIX," CARRYING 5 PASSENGERS MORE MILES THAN ANY OTHER CAR IN ITS CLASS, OR THEREABOUTS.

OWING TO THE FLEXIBLE POWER OF THE SIX-CYLINDER ENGINE, AND THE TOTAL ELIMINATION OF ALL UNNECESSARY WEIGHT BY SCIENTIFIC DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION, THE "OAKLAND SENSIBLE SIX" IS REMARKABLY EASY ON TYRES; 8000 MILES IS A LOW AVERAGE TYRE LIFE.

Like all previous Oakland models, the material and workmanship in this car are of the highest grade. The records for Reliability and Endurance established in the last six years by Oakland Cars are being repeated by this latest model.

HUDSON SUPER-SIX.

Performance is the only abiding proof of an automobile. In these days, when facts are so readily accessible, no one accepts mere claims.

The Hudson holds official records for speed, power, endurance, acceleration, and hill-climbing ability, and they have been verified and supplemented by the records of thousands of Super-Sixes in daily service throughout the world.

The Hudson Company did not seek to make records with the Hudson Super-Six, just to astonish by superlative feats of a man-made machine. They made those records as an intelligent guide to prospective motor purchasers—to show what the Hudson Super-Six would do in ordinary daily service.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA.

PAIGE

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL CAR IN AMERICA.

WITHOUT FEAR OR FAVOUR.

Young, Nov. 21st, 1918.

"I can tell you candidly this car surprised not only me, but others, in the manner in which it has negotiated hills, that others in six-cylinder cars have had to throw into second gear; and there is one very special rise, sharp and sudden, and bad take off, between Wallendbeen and Cootamundra—a well-known test to all cars. My Paige went over it with at least 20 per cent. reserve power left, and treated similar hills all alike. I am glad to be able to say I was never so pleased with an investment, and I have nothing but praise for my beautiful car. I will write you later, and if ever you want a reference from me the same will be given with pleasure."

The above is an extract from a letter just to hand. Come in and read the original through, and you can judge for yourself what Paige owners get from their cars, and why they all become enthusiasts—they just can't help it. The gentleman who wrote the above letter is a well-known business man, and has had two previous cars.

Your Motor Car, Motor Cycle, or Motor Lorry taken in part payment. Half down accepted on all cars. Just a little extra, and you get a "Paige." Write for Catalogue.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

A LIFETIME COMPANION.

THE BEALE PIANO.

MADE IN AUSTRALIA.

It is not generally known that all Beale veneer is cut at our own Annandale Factory. Our veneer machines cut the paper-thin slices from logs which are of full-tree girth. After cutting the sheets are put into the drying room till they are ready for use. They are then matched and paired for grain, and all defective and unsuitable pieces weeded out. Great, powerful presses are used to glue these sheets to their base, and thus permanence is assured. The better musician you are the more you will appreciate the Beale. Terms if desired, and full value allowed on your old instrument.

A GREAT TEACHER.

(BY DR. ARTHUR E. MILLS.)

On Wednesday, the 6th instant, Robert John Hinder, headmaster of the Sydney High School, died suddenly. On Friday, while Sydney went mad believing that the great war had come to an end, this great teacher was buried, and around the grave a remarkable number of citizens assembled. Men representative of all classes of the community attended: his fellow teachers, clergymen, University teachers, men belonging to the various professions, old friends, and hundreds of boys of the Sydney High School. All of these came to show their respect and their affection for their old friend. Mr. Peter Board, Director of Education, was present, and gave a short address, in which he stated that he and R. J. Hinder entered the Education Department nearly 50 years ago; later they obtained their degrees at the University together. For nearly 50 years they had been close friends. He bore testimony to his greatness as a teacher, and to the wonderful influence that Mr. Hinder had exercised upon hundreds of his scholars. He dwelt especially upon Mr. Hinder's sincerity, honesty of purpose, and unswerving loyalty. Mr. Board voiced well the convictions of all those assembled around the grave. The death of R. J. Hinder is an irreparable loss to me, for we had known one another, and had been firm friends for more than 40 years. I was one of the pupils of the small country school of which he was headmaster. There he taught the ordinary school tasks in such a way that school time, if not a continuous delight, at any rate was not time during which only irksome work was to be done. He had the gift of making any subject interesting to his scholars. He was extraordinarily enthusiastic in his work, and he evoked enthusiasm in his pupils.

He made us all feel that he had our interests at heart, that we could go to him at any time for advice and help; there was a remarkably friendly feeling between teacher and scholar. Yet he maintained a high state of discipline, not through fear, not through the use of the cane, but through mutual trustfulness. We soon learned that in all our relations with Mr. Hinder we would get a fair deal. So long as we played the game we could be sure that all would be well. He inspired us with the same motives that ruled his own life, love of truth, love of honesty in all things, and hatred of everything that savoured of insincerity; as time passed our regard for Mr. Hinder became firmer and deeper.

I remember well the day nearly 40 years ago when he left that country school. He made a few remarks, a little, simple farewell speech, and I state the simple truth when I say that more than half the scholars wept as they realised their old teacher, their proved friend, was leaving them. It was a remarkable tribute to the affection we his scholars had for him our teacher. But this was not all. He had aroused in all of us to some extent, in some of us to a great extent the desire to go on learning, to go on trying to understand—the desire, in short, to do the best we could. For my own part I can truthfully say that what I learned from R. J. Hinder in those early days has had a great influence on me throughout my life, for I loved that man then and have done so ever since.

Later on Mr. Hinder became head master of the High School at East Maitland. There for 25 years he did his best and greatest work; there he exercised an enormous influence, so that his name is reverenced throughout the length and breadth of the Hunter River district. There he prepared many of his pupils for the Civil Service, and for the University. Of his old students, many occupy high positions in the professions of law, and medicine, and engineering, but one and all of his pupils speak of "The Boss," as he was always called, in terms of the highest regard. Many showed their regard by keeping up a correspondence with him for long after they had left the school. Ex-students of his have written to him telling of their work in far-off lands—Europe, Africa, Chili, Peru, the United States, Canada, China, Japan, knowing "The Boss" would be interested, and feeling sure they would get an answer telling of the school and their fellow scholars. Some of these letters I have been privileged to read; they breathe the spirit of real friendship that existed between scholar and student. It was Mr. Hinder's greatest delight to keep in touch with his ex-pupils; very few of these, when returning to Maitland, failed to call in on their old teacher, and these meetings were a joy to both, for "The Boss" was so intensely human, he could and did find the good in every one he was associated with, and to the good he always appealed. But his was always the robust type of Christianity.

He had, too, a great fund of humour and originality, which helped him much in his dealings with his boys. A few little incidents that throw a sidelight on the character of this great teacher will, I am sure, be of interest. A small boy appeared in the school with a black eye. "Hullo," said Mr. Hinder, "Have you been fighting?" "Yes, Sir." "With whom?" "With Smith, Sir." "But Smith is ever so much bigger and heavier than you." "Yes, Sir." "Did Smith force you to fight?" "No, Sir." "You thought you could manage him, eh?" "Yes, Sir." "Well, my boy, you are a bigger fool than I took you for, so you must put up with the consequences, but let me tell you this, if Smith had bullied you into fighting, then I would have taken a hand."

One day a letter came from a fond mother telling Mr. Hinder that her boy, one of his scholars, had been waylaid by three or four of his fellow scholars and had been knocked down and had dust and dirt poured all over him. Mr. Hinder called all the boys together, and asked those who had been accused had they done what they were charged with. They pleaded guilty. Then he denounced them for their cowardice, three or four to one was no fair fight; had it been a fair go between two boys equally matched he would not have interfered, but this cowardly act called for punishment. "Boys," he said, addressing them assembled, "I have given a good deal of thought how I am to punish these young cowards who hunt in packs. Perhaps a little of their own medicine will do them good." Then directing the culprits to stand with their faces to the wall, he withdrew from beneath his coat a tin filled with fine sand, which he poured into their hair, and down their backs, amidst the loud, derisive laughter of the other pupils. What punishment, I ask, could be fairer, what punishment more just; Justice, that was the keynote of his success in dealing with his scholars.

I cannot refrain from telling one other story which illustrates Mr. Hinder's fair dealing with his scholars. A father troubled with a wayward son sent him to Mr. Hinder asking that he would keep him for six months and then give a special report as to his behaviour. At the end of six months, Mr. Hinder wrote to the father the following special report:—"Dear Sir: I could not wish for a better boy than your son while he is under my special supervision; but when not so, I learn from reports sent me by others, there is not a worse boy in the school." This letter he handed to the boy to read. "Well," said Mr. Hinder, "what do you think of that report?" "It is pretty rough, sir," answered the lad. "That is not the point," said "The Boss." "The question I want you to answer is this, 'Is it true?'" "Yes, sir," was the reply. "Very well, then, you have no occasion to growl; you have admitted that it is true, and you see for yourself I have done nothing behind your back."

What a different relation there would be between master and student if there was always this recognition of the rights of the pupil for fair dealing and justice.

A friend of mine remarked to me that he thought Mr. Hinder just missed being a very great man. I replied I held an entirely opposite view. I felt sure Mr. Hinder was a truly great man, for he had done his work with auspicious success, and had influenced the lives of hundreds of boys in such a way that they had learned to appreciate deeply the meaning of honour, truth, and justice, and fair dealing to all. Only to-day I met a returned soldier, an ex-student of Maitland High School, and we fell to discussing our loss in the death of our mutual friend. He told me that in Mesopotamia he came across a brother in arms whose face seemed somewhat familiar. "Did you not come from Maitland district?" he asked. "Yes," was the reply, "and I was at school there under 'The Old Boss.'" "Were you there, too?" "Yes, I was." "Well—shake." Straightway they felt the bond of friendship, for they had both had the privilege of being students of "The dear old Boss."

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the St. John Ambulance Association (New South Wales Centre) was held on Wednesday night.

The twenty-eighth annual report stated that a steady increase was noticeable in the amount of work done between October 1, 1917, and September 30, 1918, and the corresponding period of the previous year. Seventy-five first aid and 35 home nursing classes were held, 2407 men and women received instruction, and 2235 were successful in gaining certificates and other awards. The total number of persons who attended classes of the association since its foundation was 43,945, and of these 35,224 had passed examinations.

Regret was also expressed at the retirement of Mr. Boles R. Rainsford from the position of honorary secretary.

The first of a course of three lectures on the subject of "The Kingdom of God and Reconstruction" will be delivered by the Dean of Sydney on Monday, December 1, at the Chapter House, St. Andrew's Cathedral, at 8 p.m. The lectures are being arranged by the Australian Christian Social Union.

IN THE GARDEN.

THE MOCK ORANGE.

Attention was drawn in this column several years ago to the different species and varieties of Philadelphus, popularly known as mock orange. Since that time these desirable deciduous shrubs and more recent introductions have been planted in many parts of the State, and this season are producing a great profusion of flowers. Most of them are indigenous to North America, and the remainder to temperate climates, so that they are perfectly hardy, and suitable for cultivation both in the cooler coast areas and the colder districts. They grow from 4ft to 7ft high or more, and have large single or double pure white or pale yellow flowers, some of which are very sweetly perfumed. The single white flowers resemble orange blossoms, hence their popular name. All these shrubs are easily cultivated, thriving in any good soil in an open and sheltered situation. They show to great advantage in bloom when planted amongst shrubs of a similar height that produce red or bright flowers, or have highly coloured foliage. Their charming flowers are borne on the previous season's growth, and, therefore, the shrubs should not be pruned until they have ceased flowering for the season. Some of the best species and varieties of Philadelphus are included in the following list:—P. brachybotrys, dwarf, with large white flowers freely produced in clusters; P. coronarius, large white flowers heavily scented like orange blooms (there are some beautiful varieties of this species, including double flowering forms, and one with golden yellow leaves); P. gordonianus, white, but without perfume; P. grandiflorus, large, white, and sweetly scented (there are some very fine varieties of this species, having both single and double flowers), and P. microphyllus, dwarf, small leaves, and perfumed, large white flowers. Any well-rooted plants in pots may now be set in the positions where they are to grow permanently. Those that are planted now should be watered occasionally at the roots in dry weather until they become well established, when they will only require ordinary cultural attention.

PARIS DAISIES.

Paris daisies, or, as they are sometimes called, marguerites, originated from Chrysanthemum frutescens, a dwarf shrubby plant from the Canary Islands. There are now many varieties in cultivation, producing fairly large, daisy-like, single and double flower heads of a white and yellow colour. One of the newer creations, Mrs. F. Sanders, has single and double white flower heads, each quite four inches in diameter, on the same plant, and is strikingly effective when in full bloom. In the coast districts all the varieties produce flowers during a great part of the year, but more profusely in the hotter months. These plants can be successfully grown in favourable situations west of the Dividing Range, but where sharp frosts are experienced they will require adequate protection in winter. It is often advisable to destroy plants that have been growing in the same position for three or more consecutive years, for after that period they generally lack vigour, and are subject to the attacks of certain insect pests, which may become troublesome. Moreover, vigorous young plants produce a greater profusion of bloom, and altogether give more satisfaction than old ones. It is hardly possible to misplace these plants in the shrubbery or border, and when growing near scarlet flowering ones of a similar height they produce a pleasing effect by contrast. Paris daisies are easily cultivated plants, thriving in deep, rich, sandy loam, but do well when planted in any good garden soil. They are easily increased by cuttings made of the young wood and inserted in sandy soil. Vigorous plants established in pots may now be set in the positions where they are to grow. Beyond giving them a good watering occasionally, and pinching out the leaders in the too exuberant shoots in order to maintain an even growth in the young plants, only ordinary cultural attention is necessary to have these dwarf shrubs in perfection. The cut flowers keep quite fresh in water for several days, and are valuable for table decoration. Young plants, when grown in 7-inch or larger pots, are admirable for decorative purposes at the flowering period, which may be considerably prolonged if the flower heads are removed immediately they begin to fade.

NOTES.

The different species and varieties of bougainvillea are flowering most profusely this season, and their variously and brilliantly coloured bracts are producing a gorgeous effect, and this is particularly noticeable where these climbers are trained on walls having a north-easterly or north-westerly aspect. Some of the more vigorous bougainvilleas are now developing coarse, succulent growths, especially where they are growing in rich soils. These rank shoots should be carefully cut out or they will be likely to mar the floral display.

Such annuals as the African and French marigolds, zinnias, etc., that have been planted to produce double flowers, should occasionally be examined, and any of the plants that have single flowers should be carefully cut out, for if allowed to remain they would spoil the effectiveness of the display, and seeds saved from such a mixture of plants would be likely to produce a greater percentage of single blooms next season. Seedlings raised from the best and most carefully selected seeds of the double flowering strains will produce a certain percentage of single blooms, hence the necessity of cultivating these and similar annuals as close to type as possible. Any summer and early autumn flowering annuals that have been raised in seed beds should, when sufficiently advanced, be transferred to the borders where they are to grow, and if favourable weather and soil conditions are chosen for the operation they will soon become established in their new positions.

It is a good time of the year to plant the dwarf, compact-growing petunias, of which there should be a number of seedlings ready for transplanting from the seed bed or seed box to the open ground, if seed was sown as previously advised in this column. This newer strain rarely grows more than 12in high, and produces in the greatest profusion large, variously-coloured, richly-veined flowers on stems well above the foliage. Petunias thrive in a sunny and sheltered situation in deep, rather light, rich ground; and if grown in a bed by themselves should be set out 9in apart. They are easily cultivated, and, when once established, withstand dry weather to a remarkable degree.

Those varieties of carnation that have ceased flowering for this season may now be layered if it is desired to increase any variety. Around each plant that it is proposed to increase, place fairly rich, light soil to the depth of three inches for the layers to root in. Select only healthy, vigorous growths for layering, carefully remove the leaves from three of the lower joints of each one, then with a sharp knife make a cut half way through it immediately below the lowest joint from which the leaves have been removed, and continue cutting upwards for about half an inch, until a tongue is formed. Then embed the slit portion well into the compost, and keep it in position with a small hooked wooden peg. Layers that are put down now will, with an occasional good watering in dry weather, grow into vigorous plants by autumn, and then if carefully transplanted and cultivated will produce flowers next spring.

FRUIT GARDEN.

The summer pruning of fruit trees may now be taken in hand, and when that is skilfully done its advantages, especially in young trees, can hardly be over-estimated. It conduces not only to their longevity and the early formation of symmetrical heads, but to a much quicker development of fruit-bearing wood. The right stage to summer prune apple trees and those that bear most of their fruit on spurs is when the young wood becomes partially ripened for about half its length, and it should be shortened there or a little higher up, according to the vigour of the tree operated on. Summer pruning peach and nectarine trees will consist only in shortening the too vigorous growths that are likely to prevent the formation of evenly balanced heads in young trees, and cutting out whatever young wood is useless in older ones, for they usually do not produce their fruit on spurs. All the suckers that spring up from the root system of established fruit trees should be carefully pulled up whilst they are young, for if allowed to grow they will not only absorb much of the sap that ought to go to the development of the fruit, but will interfere with the economical working of the ground. Peach and other stone fruit trees may now be budded. Any healthy stone fruit trees that do not produce satisfactory crops may be improved by inserting on their branches buds from well tried superior varieties. Choose, if possible, cloudy weather for the operation, and when there is an abundance of sap in the trees, so that the bark separates easily from the woody part. Buds inserted under such conditions will not fail to grow. Insect pests are numerous this season, and are causing much concern to orchardists and cultivators generally. Amongst the worst on certain fruit trees is the American blight or woolly aphis, and as soon as the pest is detected prompt measures should be taken to extirpate or keep it in subjection. A simple remedy is to well brush the affected parts with kerosene emulsion diluted in two parts of water.

WESTERN SUBURBS COTTAGE HOSPITAL.

The people of Enfield are being assisted by residents of adjoining districts in taking steps to raise funds to help the Western Suburbs Cottage Hospital. The Enfield Council will, at an early date, open Henley Park, and on that occasion a carnival will be held, and the proceeds devoted to the hospital.

THE CHURCHES.

CONFERENCE ON CHURCH UNION.

By the conference which was held in the Y.M.C.A. Hall last Thursday, the movement for the union of the Presbyterian, Methodist, and Congregational Churches was further advanced. About 250 of the city and suburban ministers and officers of the Churches concerned were present during the afternoon and evening. The Rev. Principal Harper, D.D., presided. The main purpose of the conference was to discuss the proposed basis of doctrine and polity, and to give the joint committee, which had been commissioned to prepare that basis, an opportunity to meet the criticism, and receive the suggestions of leading representatives of the negotiating Churches. In this the conference was regarded as being most successful as well as in other ways. A prominent official afterwards stated that the questions were proposed and discussed in a spirit which showed that all present were thoroughly seized of the importance of the movement, and of the far-reaching influence that the conference was likely to have. Those conferring included many of the most able exponents and loyal supporters of the principles of their own particular Churches. For years many of them have been trusted leaders in Methodism, Presbyterianism, and Congregationalism, and, in view of this, their quiet determination to allow nothing to prejudice them against a movement which they are coming increasingly to feel is for the greater glory of God, was encouraging in the extreme.

As the conference was meant to be simply educative, no resolutions were tabled, nor was it sought to hamper in any way proceeding that will presently be taken in the various Church courts and councils. An expression of feeling, however, was elicited encouraging the joint committee to continue its propaganda work along the lines set out in its report. At an early date a large public meeting of an inspirational character will be held. It is also intended to confer with a combined meeting of the leading women of the negotiating Churches, and to arrange for district conferences with the ministers and leading workers of the Churches, so that those who ultimately will have to decide for or against the proposed union may do so with all the facts before them. It is also expected that conferences will be arranged in some of the more important country centres.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES.

To-morrow will be observed in the Anglican Church as a day of thanksgiving for the cessation of hostilities, and commemoration of those who have fallen during the war. The principal service will be held at St. Andrew's Cathedral, commencing at 11 o'clock in the morning, when the Archbishop of Sydney will preach. Holy communion will be celebrated in the Cathedral at 8.30 a.m. and the litany will be recited at 10.15 a.m. The Dean of Sydney will preach at night. The special form of service issued by the Archbishop for use throughout the diocese includes prayers for the King and country, for victory, and in commemoration of the fallen. After the last-named the congregation will stand during the Funeral March and the Last Post. A litany of thanksgiving will also be recited.

Arrangements have been made for a united service in connection with the American Thanksgiving Day, on Thursday next, to be held in the Pitt-street Congregational Church between 1 and 2 p.m. The American Consul-General will attend officially. The Rev. Dr. Harper will preside, and ministers of several denominations will take part in the service.

During next week the Archbishop of Sydney will hold confirmation services as follows:—Monday, Waverley; Wednesday, Burwood, Thursday, Gordon; Saturday, St. Andrew's Cathedral, 3.15 p.m.

Commencing next Friday and continuing on Saturday and Sunday the jubilee of the consecration of St. Andrew's Cathedral will be celebrated. On Friday, the eve of St. Andrew's Day, there will be a choral communion at 11 a.m., when the Archbishop will preach. This will be followed by luncheon in the Chapter House, which the Governor, the Premier, the Lord Mayor, the heads of the various religious denominations, and other representative persons have been invited to attend. At night there will be a festival evensong to special music by combined choirs. Further festival services will be held on St. Andrew's Day and the following day (Sunday, December 1).

The Roman Catholic Archbishop, Dr. Kelly, will visit the Good Shepherd Home, Ashfield, this morning and open the bazaar for the De La Salle Brothers this afternoon. To-morrow he will ordain to deaconship at St. Patrick's College, and preside and preach at the parochial mass at Holy Cross Church, Bondi Junction.

At 11 a.m. to-morrow a service will be held at St. Stephen's Church, Phillip-street, in commemoration of officers and men of the church who have fallen in the war. Permission has been granted for the wearing of uniform.

The Rev. Charles N. Lack, who for over 20 years has been engaged under the China Inland Mission, being in China during the Boxer troubles and other rebellions, when many Christians suffered death, is at present in Sydney on furlough for health reasons. He will preach at the Congregational Church in Pyrmont, where he was formerly minister, to-morrow night.

The Rev. A. H. Austin, M.A., Congregational minister of Ipswich, is in a private hospital in Sydney, having undergone an operation.

A week's special effort in connection with the Christian Endeavour movement will be made through the Methodist Church in New South Wales, commencing to-morrow. The main purpose is to commence intermediate societies. Special services will be held to-morrow. For Tuesday night there will be a rally in the Conference Hall, Castlereagh-street, when the president of the conference, the Rev. James Green, C.M.G., will deliver an address.

The executive committee of the Methodist Church has approved of the extension of the buildings in connection with the kindergarten work of Parramatta Centenary Church.

The receipts of the Methodist Work for Soldiers' Fund for the current year, which closes December 31, are:—General purposes, £520; overseas work, £900; supernumerary charges for ministers on active service, £750.

At the annual meeting of the council for missionary education the officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:—President, the Rev. G. W. Thatcher, M.A.; vice-presidents, the Rev. F. C. Philip, M.A., and Mrs. H. J. Renwick; hon. assistant secretary, Miss E. Dubig; hon. treasurer, Mr. A. G. Thompson; and organising secretary, Miss C. Fraser.

To-morrow will be observed throughout the Baptist Churches of Australia and Tasmania as Home Mission Sunday, when special collections will be taken up on behalf of the home mission work.

The Roman Catholic propaganda meeting in the Domain will open at 3 p.m. instead of 3.30 p.m. to-morrow. The subjects dealt with will be "The Divinity of Our Lord" and "The Education Question." Mr. P. S. Cleary will speak upon the latter subject.

The Church of Christ at Rockdale has purchased a property in Frederick-street, at a cost of £1000, as a site for a chapel.

"YOUR GERMAN RHINE!"

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In view of the fact that the Allied armies, including Australians, are now victoriously marching Rhinewards, and are to occupy the bridge-heads and farther bank of the river, the following lines may be of interest to Australians. They are an improvisation by Alfred de Musset of the famous song written by Nikolaus Becker, the refrain of which is "They shall not have it, our free German Rhine," and were published at the time of the Franco-German war. An attempt is made in them to preserve the sarcastic insolence of Becker's original in nearly the same measured lines:—

We have had it, your German Rhine!
Have you forgot the day?
Can a song efface the stain
Of blood that fell like rain,
When the hoofs of our horses trampled you to-day?

We have had it, your German Rhine!
See its green mantle rent,
When Conde rode in his might
And put your hordes to flight:
And be sure the sons can pass where their sires before them went.

We have had it, your German Rhine!
What could your braggart host,
When the shadow of his hand—
Our Caesar—swept your land?
And where have ye hidden them, the bones of your lost?

We have had it, your German Rhine!
If ye your annals forget,
Your maidens remember of yore,
How blithe they were to pour
The thin white Rhenish wine for the heroes they regret!

If 'tis yours, your German Rhine,
Let the liveries that ye wore
Be washed in its cleansing tide!
But speak with less of pride
Of the time when ye, like crows, fed on the dying eagle's gore.

May't flow in peace, your German Rhine,
And your towers that touch the clouds
Be modestly mirrored therein;
But dread lest your bacchanal din
Should stir the dead again in their bloody shrouds!

I am, etc.,
Nov. 18. J. W. BRADLEY.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

THE HOHENZOLLERNS.

In view of the abdication of the Emperor of Germany and the speculations concerning the future of himself and his dynasty, the appearance of "William Hohenzollern and Co." by Mr. E. L. Fox is opportune. Mr. Fox is an American journalist who visited Germany on three separate occasions, in 1915, 1916, and 1917, and, as Germany was at that time anxious to cultivate American opinion, was given exceptional facilities for seeing and doing things by the authorities. He devotes a good deal of space to the question of the Emperor's responsibility. Of course, William II. of Germany must shoulder the formal responsibility for the war, for his was the supreme power, his the hand that signed the mobilisation order. But how far was he acting on his own initiative and how far was he the instrument of his entourage, the tool of a camarilla of unscrupulous advisers? Mr. Fox does not attempt to give any final verdict, but he suggests that in the earlier years of his reign William II. had genuine leanings towards peace, that as time went on he fell more and more under the influence of the army, the navy, and the "big business" interests (the last-named of which saw in war the only method of repairing their precarious fortunes), and that at last he identified himself almost completely with the bellicose elements of Germany.

"Conceptions of the Kaiser," observes the author, "have been written, presenting him as an arch hypocrite, the greatest actor in the world, and as a madman." But Mr. Fox thinks that he is neither a charlatan, a poseur, nor a lunatic. "He is dangerously sincere," a super egotist who has supreme confidence in himself and the destiny of the German people. He is a religious fanatic, the essence of whose creed is the divine right by which he holds his sceptre and the divine inspiration of his words and deeds. He thinks himself literally above the law; he is the Lord's anointed who can do no wrong; through him the Germany that he rules enjoys a like immunity. His is a state of religious mysticism akin to that which Browning has analysed in "Johannes Agricola;" it is not madness, though it may become madness. And because of this conception of himself he takes himself very seriously both in his role of monarch and commander-in-chief. He is no figurehead. Though his general staff makes the plans, the ultimate decision always rests with the Emperor, who was often called upon to settle the final military policy. For instance, in 1915 Falkenhayn, then Chief of Staff, proposed an offensive in France, and guaranteed the fall of Verdun; Hindenburg strongly opposed this, holding that Russia should be dealt another blow, which would put her out of the war once and for all. William II. decided in favour of Falkenhayn's plan, and when the latter failed to redeem his promise relieved him of his command. The Emperor is also said to have dictated the movements which exposed the German flank in the first battle of the Marne. When the General Staff was clamouring for unrestricted submarinism and the Foreign Office was resisting, it was the Emperor's verdict that gave victory to the Staff. These three instances show the reality of his power; the major decisions were left to him, and he exercised his judgment independently, though usually with disastrous results.

In the Germany of which Mr. Fox writes, the Emperor "ever holds his hand on the war pulse." No doubt the General Staff would prefer him in Berlin, for William II. is no Napoleon. "But he spent more time at the front than at home. Wherever the situation seems critical, there goes the Kaiser to encourage his troops. Wherever a great victory has been won, there goes the Kaiser—to thank his troops. Whenever a new country has been captured, Servia, Roumania, there goes the Kaiser—to strike awe into the hearts of the captive populace, awe and respect for the Prussian eagle. Wherever an ally is becoming a little uneasy—there goes the Kaiser to stiffen weak backs and bolster tottering causes. . . . The Imperial ego is such that he believes his presence at the front is a force equal to 60,000 men, a force of inspiration," and seeing the enthusiasm with which soldier and civilian alike greeted the Emperor wherever he went, Mr. Fox wondered whether he might not after all be right. But there was another side to it. Would the people hold to him through thick and thin; would their devotion, sincere enough in victory, stand the test of adversity? In defeat the reaction might be even greater, because of the divine infallibility which the Emperor had claimed. Mr. Fox does not pretend to have the gift of prophecy, but, like others, early in 1917 he foresaw the possibility of a colossal smash in which the house of Hohenzollern would come crashing down amidst the debris of a wrecked German Empire.

The Emperor's vivid and complex personality is the centre round which all things German revolve, but incidentally Mr. Fox gives some interesting glimpses of the lesser orbs, the generals and Chancellors who have played brief parts in the war; the Crown Prince, who is by no means the fool of contemporary caricature, but a very shrewd young man, who knew the value of advertisement, and had very successfully consolidated his position in Germany. Mr. Fox holds that while the father was no actor the son was a first-rate one. As the commander of an army, he was wise enough to invite and follow the advice of more experienced soldiers. The author has also a good deal to say about the Krupps, Ballin, Prince Max, other celebrities, and their work in the war, and he closes with a note of warning. Let no one be under any illusion about Germany's determination and ability to resume her commercial activities, and recapture what she has lost. Her factories have kept going, and she will be in a position to "dump" quantities of commodities. The dismantling of the Belgian and French factories was no mere war measure, it was intended to take effect in peace as well; for it will be years before these industries get going again. For some time in Germany a commission of industrial experts has been making arrangements for the renewal of aggressive commercial expansion. Indeed, writing of 1917, Mr. Fox declares that "Germany is paying almost as much attention to the economic war that will come with peace, as she is to the war to-day." (Hurst and Blackett; Dymock's.)

THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION.

That the way in which history is taught has a profound influence on a nation's outlook, is, of course, a well-worn platitude, but its truth has never been more strikingly shown than in the attitude of the United States to England. In the preface to "The American Revolution in Our School Text Books," Mr. Charles Altschul compares the immediate and spontaneous sympathy offered to France on the outbreak of war with the more hesitating rapprochement with Britain. This surprised him, for after all their cause was precisely the same. France was bound to America by ties of traditional friendship, but any rancour that remained between America and Britain should have cooled in a century of peace. It occurred to him that there must be something which kept alive the old suspicion; he found it in the history which the youth of America learns in its schools. Mr. Altschul makes a close analysis of almost a hundred text books, old and new, in common use and proves quite conclusively that their treatment of the American Revolution is in most cases one-sided and calculated to give a distorted impression of England both then and now. Some are more misleading than others. Mr. Altschul divides them into five classes with varying degrees of anti-English bias. Their faults are those of omission rather than commission; what they say is correct enough as far as it goes, but they are apt, through ignorance or design, to leave out anything that tells in favour of England. For instance, few of them mention that eloquent voices were raised in Press and Parliament against the policy of the Government; that Pitt, Fox, Burke, and Barre, to name only a few, vigorously espoused the cause of the colonists; that the English people as a whole were so indifferent to the war that mercenaries had to be hired from Hesse. Above all, many of these historians utterly overlook the political condition of England at the time and forget that an immense gulf existed between the King and Government on the one side and the people on the other, who had [illegible] in the conduct of affairs. To suggest that the English people was responsible for the war of the Revolution is to betray an astonishing ignorance of English history. "Has the history of the greatest event in the life of our nation," asks the author, "been taught in the spirit of fair and impartial inquiry for the facts of the case or in a matter apt to implant prejudice?" The answer is obvious, but a hopeful sign is that the newer books have a much fairer perspective. Mr. Altschul welcomes this, for America should be bound to Britain by the closest of ties. Their language is common; their customs and legal procedure are derived from the same source:—"English ideas of government and the English conception of liberty are ours as well. In spite of the wars we have fought against the British we have never thought of turning to any other nation as a model for what is most essential in our public and private life. Many nationalities have been brought together in this melting pot, but the influence of all other nations remains negligible compared to that of England. She is after all the mother country, from whom we have acquired all that really counts in the long run—language, custom, political liberty, tradition." (G. H. Doran Co.)

NEW ZEALANDERS IN SAMOA.

The story of the capture of Samoa, the first German colony to fall to the British, has often been told, but Lieut. L. P. Leary contrives to dot its i's and cross the t's in "New Zealanders in Samoa," a brisk and breezy narrative, bubbling over with high spirits, and ever eager to see the humorous side of things. This expedition bore a strong resemblance to our own against Rabaul. There was the same hasty and secret organisation, the same mystery about its departure and purpose, the same rather casual discipline. In Rabaul there was a little opposition; in Apia there was none at all, for the New Zealanders were met with a message from the Governor, "The Germans refuse to surrender, but will offer no resistance." What that precisely meant no one knew—or cared. Then followed month after month of dull garrison duty, when the fire-eaters who had joined this force in the hope of seeing the first of the fighting wondered if they had been forgotten altogether. They had their chance later on. Although the capture of Samoa was a bloodless affair, events might easily have turned out very differently. As everyone knew, the Scharnhorst and the Gneisenau were somewhere about; if the convoy had fallen in with them on its way to the rendezvous at Noumea it would probably have been sent to the bottom of the sea, for the escort, the Psyche and Philomel, would have had no chance against the heavier metal of the Germans. The occupation of these islands, though unspectacular, was extremely important. Their wireless stations, part of a chain connecting them with Berlin, would have enabled them to send out shipping information to any raider; they would have been most useful bases for commerce-destroyers. Imagine, for instance, what their value would have been to the Wolf and the See Adler if they had remained in German hands. That Australasia has suffered so little from the hostile attentions of the enemy is due entirely to its promptitude in seizing her Pacific colonies. For the rest, Lieut. Leary's lively account of the expedition, the island, and its inhabitants makes excellent reading, and is besides an interesting footnote to history. (Heinemann.)

NEW NOVELS.

In the old Icelandic Sagas Mr. Maurice Hewlett has found a fine field of material, which he continues to exploit with success. "Gudrid the Fair" is based upon two kindred Sagas concerning the first discovery of America, and Mr. Hewlett claims that he has kept very closely to his originals, adding only the interpretation of character and motives, which is "the business" of the novelist. Indeed, although these misty journeys to Wineland are a fascinating subject, Mr. Hewlett admits that he is more interested in the persons who made them and the little details which were so familiar to the early chronicler that he did not say much about them. Certainly, there are intriguing lacunae in history which we should like to fill, we should like to know more of the colonies in Greenland which have vanished so utterly; we should like to have a sight of the log-books of these high-prowed ships which fared out into the unknown, sometimes to disappear, sometimes to make a precarious landfall in a new continent, sometimes to return home after incredible vicissitudes in such places as "the maggoty sea," where worms devoured the timbers of the vessel as it lay becalmed. Mr. Hewlett's reconstruction of the past is admirable, and he makes us realise that these old Icelanders were not mythical folk, but people like ourselves, with perhaps more hardihood and courage than is the allowance of the run of us. Freydis has her counterpart in many a feminist of our days; Gudrid, the thrice wed, is the wife of a pioneer and the mother of many a modern pioneer; and the roving adventurous Icelanders are one and all true to our life, even in their limitations. Throughout the story runs the romance of the old seafaring strain, which took these Norsemen from Archangel to Labrador, from Greenland to Gibraltar, and led them to the site of the modern New York centuries before Columbus dreamed of crossing the Atlantic. (Hutchinson.)

The idea of a person assuming the identity of his double it not new, but in "The Man Who Lost Himself" Mr. H. de Vere Stacpoole has worked it out in a novel way. Victor Jones is down and out after a financial misadventure, when he meets his twin image in the shape of an affable but detrimental peer. They celebrate the event by making a night of it, and next morning Jones wakes up with confused memories in Rochester's bed in Rochester's aristocratic mansion. At first he thinks that it is a joke, but the joke assumes a serious aspect when he learns that Rochester, masquerading as he, Jones, has committed suicide after bequeathing his identity to his bewildered double. Jones soon understands why the dead man did not dare to face the music, but Jones is made of sterner stuff, and resolves to see it through. He first of all deals with a blackmailer who has sucked Rochester dry, and then disposes of a predatory gang who have him in their clutches. By an audacious stroke he re-establishes the family fortunes, and, indeed, makes a much better thing out of life than Rochester ever would have done. But there is one difficulty that baffles even the resourceful imperturbable Jones. Rochester has left a wife who, scapegrace though he was, loved him much better than he deserved, and has no suspicion of the change. Jones finds this problem insurmountable; he tries to cut the Gordian knot by telling the truth, and succeeds only in having himself shut up in an asylum as insane. His escape, his subsequent adventures, and the final solution of his perplexities are told in a rattling story, brisk in action and, if we accept the initial hypothesis, entirely plausible in development. (Hutchinson.)

Although the hero of "Revoke," by Mr. William de Veer, the Dutch novelist, is a Judge, he seems to be rather an impulsive and susceptible individual. He is weary of the monotony of his work and life in a little provincial town in Java, when there appears on the scene an itinerant English general and his daughter, for whom Winter conceives a violent infatuation. Vera is not an uncommon type; she is quite conscious of her own attractions; she uses all her art to allure her victims, and then when they are thoroughly enslaved throws them over. This is what happens to Winter; but after the first moment of bitterness he takes his disappointment philosophically. After all, he thinks, even if this widow with a temperament has merely played with him, it is better so, for he can now go through life with his ideal of her unspotted. One imagines that Vera's victims do not always show so proper a spirit. The story is well told, although the final anticlimax leaves a sense of the futility of the whole thing that is precisely the impression which the author seeks to create. Beside the plot interest there are some vivid descriptions of life and scenery of the Dutch East Indies—to which, by the way, the Dutch characters habitually refer as "India" with an effect curious to the ears of the English reader. (The Bodley Head.)

FOR CHILDREN.

"Sundown Stories" contains some pleasant fairy tales by Miss Dorothy Drewett, who introduces us to the home of nursery rhymes. Here dwell in more or less harmony all the notable figures of our youthful memory, and Miss Drewett has hit upon the ingenious idea of taking each nursery rhyme where it leaves off and continuing the history. Would you know what befell Simple Simon after the affair with the pieman, or Mary and her lamb after the latter's escapade, or little Bo-peep after her sheep came home? Miss Drewett will tell you and will enable you to gratify the insatiable curiosity of children to know "what [illegible] happened next." (Tyrrell and Co.)

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

"The Pigeon," a three-act play by John Galsworthy, will be staged with Shaw's "How He Lied to Her Husband" at next Thursday's matinee of the repertory series at the Palace Theatre. Mr. Gregan Macmahon presumably plays the strongest card in the J. and N. Tait literary venture in the former of these pieces. An acute observation of human nature expressed in the terms of a poet and a philosopher, but mostly in the actual words of every-day street life, invests this play with a poignant and pathetic power. What can we do with a certain type of derelict—the man who will drink, the girl whose drink is the "joy of life" pursued to the very death, the idler who has no other fault, does not steal, talks like the sorry philosopher he really is, and in his detached way views life as a tragi-comedy which must end soon because he will not earn his daily bread? The answer is that we can do nothing. There is a beautiful character of a foolish old artist (the Pigeon), who is affectionately plucked by all these people, and his daughter Ann—she with the firm chin and heaps of goodness and common sense, who mourns over his practical Christianity, and loves and protects him like a young mother. The charitable painter takes in the street girl, frozen and wet through, one Christmas night, and paints a picture on New Year's day, in which the pretty creature is the central figure. She does not understand it a bit. But Ferrand, the incorrigible idler from Brussels, glances at it, and launches this poetical and masterly criticism upon the artist's intention: "You will have something very good there, Monsieur. You wish to fix the type of wild savage existing ever among our high civilisation. C'est tres chic, ca. In the figures of these good citizens, to whom she offers her flower, you would give the idea of all the cage doors open to catch and make tame the wild bird that will surely die within. Tres gentil. Believe me, Monsieur, you have there the great comedy of life. How anxious are the tame birds to do the wild birds good. (His voice changes.) For the wild birds it is not funny. There is in some human souls, Monsieur, what cannot be made tame."

The cultivation of music in Australia since those early colonial days when Wallace, the composer of Maritana, was followed by Mme. Anna Bishop, and that soprano in turn by a multitudinous succession of famous artists, has been an exceedingly gradual process. Nothing that has been well done has been lost, but has contributed to the permanent growth of the slowly-increasing community of art-lovers on this side of the world. Another stone in the ceaseless building-up of the musical edifice will be laid by the repetition this afternoon by the Conservatorium Orchestra, under Mr. Henri Verbrugghen, of the "Emperor Concerto," and subscribers will also hear again Beethoven's "Choral Symphony" (No. 9). The local record of these great works can only be glanced at here. Paderewski's marvellous performance of the solo in the Beethoven Concerto (1904), with a special band of 62 professional players under Signor Hazon, was nearly rivalled on two occasions by the late Mme. Carreno (1907 and 1910). Signor Hazon then conducted the fatally-named Amateur Orchestral Society, the composition of which (in those days) was practically the same as the combination now to be employed. Mr. Joseph Bradley opened the sixth season of the Sydney Symphony Orchestra with William Murdoch, a distinguished Australian virtuoso, as the soloist in the great work, and he again conducted this professional band when Leonard Borwick was the soloist in 1914. Mr. Henry Penn will play this afternoon, and may be relied on to hold the attention of his audience. The programme-notes will be especially informative, and will include the well-known story of the capture of Vienna by the French in 1809, and of Beethoven's natural exclamation, after the bombardment, on seeing a French officer—"Ach Gott! If I only knew as much about fighting as I do about counterpoint I would have settled you and the rest of your crew long ago!" As regards the Ninth Symphony, as in the case of the Concerto, it was performed at the Town Hall with the Sydney Symphony Orchestra. This splendid band supported the Sheffield Choir and the four solo vocalists who came with them from England, and Mr. Bradley conducted the united bodies. This was an important event in the most important festival ever held in Australia, the conductors of which were Dr. Coward and Mr. Charles Harriss. The instrumental movements had been rendered some years before by the A.O.S., but the Choral Finale was then omitted owing to the difficulty of forming a special choir.

The writer of "A Woman's Letter," continuing her round of the London theatres in September, describes "The Law Divine" (an allusion to Shelley's "Nothing in the World is Single"), by H. V. Esmond, at Wyndham's Theatre: "The author, an accomplished actor with strong emotional gifts, played the lead in this play, a domestic comedy-drama, and as such not likely to come unscathed through the fires of fate caused by the war. The story deals with Jack Le Bas, a novelist, wounded at the front, and given a billet at the War Office, and his wife, Edie, whose arduous work on comforts committees has obliged her to instal a telephone in her bedroom, which rings at all hours of the night. The tone of the play is very up to date, and brings in Claudia Meriton, an advanced young woman with all the modern freedom of thought on sexual questions, emphasised by the excitement of the war. She perceives that Le Bas is flirting with a young widow, and that he and his wife, at variance over the telephone, are likely to drift apart. It becomes her mission to speak her mind plainly on the subject to an elderly, old-fashioned, and rather plain spinster, who is the wife's devoted friend. She does this so drastically, moreover, informing the poor shrinking one that as she has never been loved by a man she can't possibly know what life is, that the lady quite breaks down. In a few words, the elder woman confides indirectly to the audience that, in fact, she knows very much what it is, and was quite heart-broken over a serious love-affair in her youth. As usual, the modern, and too often unsympathetic, girl has proved a blunderer and a nuisance. There are in the piece two young sons of Mr. and Mrs. Le Bas, delightfully drawn, who somehow hamper Mr. Le Bas's progress with the widow, and the mother of the latter, fearing her daughter may cause a scandal, puts Edie on her guard. The telephone is promptly banished to make room for two; an air raid brings the wedded pair together again, and in a pretty love scene all ends happily. The part of Edie was beautifully played by Miss Jessie Winter, and Mr. Esmond, who wrote the part of Jack Le Bas for Mr. Gerald Du Maurier (now in the Irish Guards), made every point with the greatest skill."

The Royal Sydney Apollo Club are now busily preparing for their Christmas concert on December 18, the novelties at which will be a new setting of Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," by Alfred Hill, and the same composer's "The Farmer's Revenge," also for the first time, and said to be marked by a great deal of local colour. "King Olaf's Christmas," Mendelssohn's "Fest Gesang," in which occurs the melody adapted in England by Dr. W. H. Cummings to Charles Wesley's hymn "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," and popular part-songs will also be rendered. Early in the new year the Apollo Club will have for its rehearsal quarters the concert-room of the Highland Society's fine clubhouse in Phillip-street, which will suit the members in many ways. In making this departure from the Conservatorium rooms the committee records their cordial appreciation of the hospitality extended to them by the Director, registrar, and staff. The Royal Sydney Apollo Club is now on the up grade, with the war at an end and absent combatants shortly expected back. Their objective, a chorus on the old basis of 100 tenors and basses, should be reached during next year. The singers will doubtless bear in mind the fine epigrammatic utterance of Beethoven's they have adopted, "Music alone ushers man into an intellectual world ready to encompass him, but which he may never encompass."

The Rev. Andrew M'Callum will be inducted to the charge of the Dubbo Presbyterian parish by the Presbytery of Orange on Wednesday.

CHAPTER XVII.—Continued.

"I must find it, I must," the unseen man went on. "I'd give a thousand pounds to put my hand on it at the present moment. A thousand pounds! Why, I'd give five years of my life. I must come here every night till I can lay my hands upon it. Devilish awkward, too, with the police always prowling about the house. Now, let me see. I stood just here, and she stood just over there at the moment when we parted. And I know I had it in my pocket at the time I crossed the park. Curse the thing, I must be within a foot of it, I must ——"

Archenfield stepped forward, illumination had just come to him in a flash. A second or two before he had been full of horrible doubt, horrible disloyalty towards the woman whose cause was so near his heart, but he saw clearly enough now. From his pocket he took a torch of his own, and turned the blazing light full upon the other man. He saw a figure in evening dress covered with a light dust coat; he saw a thin, rather dissipated face, and an ugly mouth, half concealed under a straggling moustache.

"Good evening," Archenfield said. "Can I help you? I am a friend of Mrs. Molyneux, and I should like to help you if I can. Your name is Flint, I think."

"Th-that's right," the other man stammered.

"And you've lost something? Yes, I see you have. I heard you say so just now. I have lost something, too, and we might possibly be able to help one another. For the moment it doesn't matter what I am in search of, but if you are looking for a small gold box with a blue enamel bird on the outside, why, in that case——"

"By Jove," Flint cried. "You don't mean to say——. But you are wrong, sir; I am looking for a silver cigarette case."

With that Flint turned and disappeared in the bushes. Chim Fang's hand descended on Archenfield's arm suddenly.

"Look, master," he said quietly. "Look at the blind. There is somebody in the house yonder."

CHAPTER XVIII.

THE OTHER MAN.

But Archenfield was not listening, he was hardly conscious of that iron grip upon his arm. Just for that moment his thoughts were very far away from the secluded corner of that quiet garden, for in imagination he was following the man in the evening dress whose footsteps were still audible in the distance. For it seemed to Archenfield that he was on the verge of a fresh discovery. At any rate, he had learned something.

"Did you notice that fellow's manner, Chim Fang?" he asked. "You know why I am here—in fact, I don't think there is anything that I have not told you. You know all about the gold box, and the conditions in which it was lost. What do you make of that man?"

"A bad man," Chim Fang said solemnly.

"Oh, a bad man beyond the shadow of a doubt," Archenfield agreed. "A dissipated fellow, furtive and underhanded, and palpably dishonest. He carries his character in his face. But that is not quite what I mean. Did you notice how confused he was when I turned my lamp upon him? He was startled, of course, but I attached nothing to that. He was frightened; he was shaking from head to foot, and almost speechless with fear. And when I asked him if he was looking for a gold box, his face suddenly lighted up with pleasure. He was taken quite off his guard under the impression that I had found it, and then his natural cunning came back to him. You heard him say that he was looking for a silver cigarette case, which was a lie, Chim Fang. He was looking for the gold box, and just for a moment, he thought that I had found it. Well, so I have, but not quite in the manner he thought. Now, why should he suddenly deny himself, why should he declare that he was searching for something else? I don't know why, but we have got to find that out. Upon my word, Chim Fang, the deeper I go into this matter the more mysterious it becomes. Here is a man looking for a piece of property, which, no doubt, he has honestly come by, which must be nothing but a novelty for him; yet though he needs it desperately he goes the length of denying its existence to the very man who can give it back to him. Why? This is a most intricate problem, Chim Fang."

To all this Chim Fang listened solemnly and without comment. He merely shrugged his shoulders, and pointed again in the direction of the house.

"Somebody in there, master," he said.

"Eh, what?" Archenfield exclaimed. "Somebody in the house; I think you said that before, didn't you? I was thinking of something else."

"Yes, master," Chim Fang went on. "There is someone in the house. Someone in a house that is supposed to be locked up and empty. If you will look, master, you will see the flicker of a light presently."

Archenfield turned his face eagerly towards the dim outline of the house, and presently in one of the windows of the ground floor there was a flicker that was gone almost as soon as it had come. Again the tiny glow appeared, as if behind the blind in one of the downstairs windows somebody was moving about with a torch in his hand. The mere sight of it thrilled Archenfield to his finger-tips.

He was not afraid, though he was strung up, and conscious of a tight feeling in the region of his heart. He had come into this business with no expectation of danger, and with no thought of finding any unseen forces up against him. He had taken up Cecil Molyneux's case much as a detective might have done, and because he was always in sympathy with those who were wrongly accused. But he had no idea then of what was in store for him in the way of peril. But he knew now, and the knowledge of it did not sway him from his purpose by a hair's breadth; still he realised that his nerve was not what it used to be, and that he would require all his courage before this black business was finished.

"You are right, Chim Fang," he whispered. "You are right, as you always are. There is some one in the house beyond the shadow of a doubt, some one who is up to no good, and I think you and I could give a pretty shrewd guess as to the nationality of yonder intruder."

"A countryman of mine," Chim Fang said.

"Of course. And perhaps more than one. They are here in search of the treasure that Mr. Robert Molyneaux must have hidden somewhere, and probably they are looking for the precious manuscript as well. So we'll just go and spy on them, Chim Fang. It will be a risky business."

Something like a chuckle broke from the Chinaman, and he tapped the pocket of his coat significantly.

"Oh, you brought a revolver with you, did you?" Archenfield asked. "That was very thoughtful of you, Chim Fang, all the more so because you know how to use it, and I don't. My education in firearms has been neglected; a revolver in my hands would probably be more dangerous to me than it would be to the other man. But come along."

Very cautiously they made their way across the lawn until they stood presently right under the shadow of the house and close to the window behind which, from time to time, the light was still flickering. As a matter of fact, the light flickered in three windows, behind the green blinds and the muslin curtains which stood out ever and again in their delicate tracery as the gleam from the torch flashed upon them. Archenfield had been in the house before, and his keen powers of observation told him that this room must be the library. He and Chim Fang stood there for a moment or two, flattened against the window, but they could make out nothing, neither could they hear the slightest sign of anyone in the house.

It was intensely still and silent as they stood there, and not too dark now that their eyes had become accustomed to the gloom. There was no sound to be heard save the occasional barking of a dog in the distance and the bleat of a sheep every now and again in some adjacent pasture. For quite five minutes they stood there, until Archenfield gave the sign, and they moved round hugging the shadow on the wall tightly until they came at length to the front door.

"We had better go inside," Archenfield whispered.

As he spoke, the branch of a tree that almost touched the house, and which hung within a few feet of a stone balcony outside one of the bedroom windows began to sway backwards and forwards as if disturbed by the wind, though it was absolutely still, and then it seemed to Archenfield as if a shapeless body were suddenly impelled forward over the edge of the balcony. The bough ceased to sway, and all was silent again.

"What was that?" Archenfield whispered. "Your eyes are better than mine. Did you see anything?"

"A man," Chim Fang said. "A man there, up the tree. He swung himself forward and dropped on the balcony."

"Then we have no time to lose," Archenfield said. "Let's get inside at once, and see what is going on. We must run the risk of running across this tree-climbing acrobat, and assume that he is another intruder who has nothing whatever to do with the one downstairs. Still, we shall have to be careful."

(To be continued.)

THE SOLDIERS' CLUB.

Chaplain-Colonel Stacey Waddy delivered an interesting lecture at the Soldiers' Club on his experiences on active service. The lecturer was introduced by Colonel Lyster. The guests included Dr. Mary Booth, the members, and various circles associated with the club.

WOMEN'S COLUMN.

BABY WELFARE CAMPAIGN.

That the public may have some idea of the training and probable duties of the mothers' aids which the Baby Welfare Society proposes to establish, the following may be of interest:—The object and aims of this corps of helpers is to assure the care and assistance of mothers and babies in their own home. The president has therefore, with the advice and assistance of a number of well-known medical men, caused to be set down the following notes. It is to be clearly understood that these proposals are merely tentative, and will be altered or amended as it is found necessary. The main idea, however, has been pronounced excellent and practical by several of the leading children's doctors.

The aids are in no wise to be regarded as nurses, but simply as assistants, trained to understand how to correctly carry out the instructions of a clinic-trained nurse. They will, it is hoped, be culled from girls such as those who are members of the Y.W.C.A., the G.F.S., and the V.A.Ds., and will not be less than 18 years old.

Training will take place at the hospitals where infants form the great bulk of the patients, and here, under an A.T.N.A. matron, specially trained in children's ailments, the aid will put in one month. Here, she will learn the simple care of infants, preparation of their food, and details of their proper clothing. Aids will also attend a series of lectures by duly qualified physicians upon such subjects as simple physiology and anatomy, process of digestion, respiration, and such first aid subjects as are given to St. John's Ambulance Brigade students. Red Cross certificates to count in the above cases.

They will also learn simple remedies to be given in case of accident or illness, until the arrival of a medical man. They will recognise signs of infant ailments, and be prepared to dress simple wounds, to prepare rooms for minor operations, take temperatures, and do any simple bandaging that may be required.

Their training in general hygiene will enable them to preach the doctrine of pure air, to advise the best place for infants, and position of cot, and most suitable cradles. They will be able to advise mothers as to pre-natal dangers, seeing to their proper nourishment, etc., and, later, to the general care of baby, its bathing, general infant nursing, warmth, bedmaking, preparation of food, and the handling and lifting of the babe.

This work will occupy six months under the direction of a district or clinic nurse, and such six months' work will be voluntary. In return, it must be remembered that the aid is obtaining valuable training free of all cost to themselves. At the end of their six months' service there will be a practical and theoretical examination, after which successful candidates will receive the certificate of the society as highly trained mothers' aids.

The object of this training is two-fold, but the most important part of it from the girl's point of view is that it trains her so that when the time comes that she marries and has children of her own she will know how to take care of them, and by her medical knowledge gained during her voluntary training will be able to save herself much anxiety, suffering, and danger. Secondly, she is supplying assistance to suffering womanhood, the national value of which it is difficult to estimate.

WAR CHEST DAY.

A bright programme is promised by the Cheer-oh Girls at the concert which they are giving to-night at the Repertory Theatre in aid of the "Herald" and "Mail" stall. The tickets are 2s and 1s each, with an additional booking fee of 6d on the 2s tickets, and may be obtained at Paling's or from the secretary, "Herald" Office. These ladies have made for patriotic purposes £8300 to date.

The New South Wales Women's Hockey Association is having a produce stall in Hunter-street on War Chest Day, in connection with the Amateur Sportswomen's League of Help. Donations may be left at the Sports Club, Hunter-street, addressed to the hon. secretary, Miss Maybury.

The following ladies have taken charge of the fancy section of the "Herald" and "Mail" stall, No. 168, Martin-place, on War Chest Day:—Mesdames Maiden, M'Coy, A. E. Phillips, Vaughan, M'Millan, and the Misses Asher and M'Credie. A specialty is being made of beach hats and all sorts of dainty articles suitable for Christmas gifts.

The Digger Boys, the band of returned soldiers attached to the Lonely Soldiers' Depot, Castlereagh-street, will assist in the War Chest Day collections, and are working in connection with the "Herald" and "Mail" stall. Everyone is asked to spare a coin for this party of lads, who have done their share in the firing line, and who are now anxious to assist in providing comforts for the mates they have left behind.

The Used Newspaper Depot, 16 Carrington-street, Wynyard-square (Mrs. David Elliot, hon. secretary), will hold a stall for War Chest Day in Pitt-street, near the Exchange-building, and would be very grateful for gifts of jams, preserves, fancy work and goods, and children's clothing, etc. Gifts may be left at the depot.

Mrs. Vincent MacAuley will be in charge of the Golden Victory Mascotte stall, outside Hoffnung's, on War Chest Day.

Australia's Victory Bells, a most attractive novelty, will be sold at one of the stalls of the Red Cross Book Depot, which will be conducted by the Tuesday Workers, Mesdames Mark Sheldon, P. R. Kenna, L. J. Davies, and all the assistants. These bells are selling rapidly, and may be bought at 5 Wynyard-street, on War Chest Day, November 28. They will be sold at Victory Bell stall, outside Messrs. M'Dowell and Hughes, George-street, near Martin-place.

A penny trail will be held on the footpath from the Nurses' Home, 95 Ridge-street, North Sydney, to Milson's Point. Please save your pennies for our mile of coppers.

The hon. organisers of War Chest Day request that ladies who propose to have concert parties in connection with their stalls in the city should furnish particulars at once to the hon. organisers, Dalton House, 115 Pitt-street, so that provision may be made for proper registration and control.

It is notified that auctioneers on War Chest Day must be authorised, and wear an official badge. The names and addresses must be supplied to the hon. organisers for registration.

WEDDINGS.

Rev. Mickiem officiated at the marriage of Claude Jenkins-Phillips of South Australia, and Nellie Moss, daughter of Mr. Louis Moss of Canterbury, Sydney, at St. James Church on November 2. The bride who was given away by her father (late A.I.F.) wore a frock of ivory crepe de chine and georgette with touches of silver at the corsage. A shirred tulle train lined with pink, the customary wreath and veil and shower bouquet of white roses and pale pink carnations, completed the toilet. Miss Estelle Mariette attended as bridesmaid and wore a frock of sand-shaded voile, inlet with filet lace, and a black tulle hat. Her bouquet of pink carnations and sweet peas, and a gold bangle were gifts of the bridegroom. Little Alfie Dawes, dressed in white satin and silver lace, acted as page. After the reception, which was held at the Fresh Food and Ice Coy.'s rooms, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips left for the mountains where the honeymoon was spent. The bride travelled in a fawn suit, and hat of jade green. She carried a gold chain bag, the gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Fayette Perry, the well-known actress, was quietly married at St. Peter's Church, Eastern Hill, Melbourne, on Tuesday, to Mr. James Alison, of Sydney. The Rev. Canon Hughes performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Alison left for New South Wales on Wednesday. Miss Perry was appearing in the revue "Everybody's doing it" at the Tivoli Theatre and participated in her last performance on Monday evening.

A wedding was celebrated at Footscray Parish Church, Kent, England, on September 9, between Mr. Harold P. J. Marr, only son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Percy Marr, of Arncliffe, Sydney, and Miss Lilian Frances Henderson, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Henderson, of Footscray. The rector, the Rev. George Berens-Dowdeswell, M.A., officiated. The bride wore a gown of white georgette crepe, with tulle veil, and wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet, and wore a gold bracelet, the gifts of the bridegroom. The bride was attended by the Misses Ada and Ivy Spillman (her nieces) and Miss V. Kalland. The chief bridesmaid (Miss Kalland) wore a dress of mauve eollenne and ninon, with cap of mauve tulle; and the Misses Spillman wore mauve voile dresses, with tunics of mauve silk, and black lace hats trimmed with band and bunch of mauve Bebe ribbon. They all carried bouquets of pink roses, with mauve streamers, and wore gold brooches, the gifts of the bridegroom. Mr. James Harper, of Arncliffe, acted as best man. A reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents. Later the bride and bridegroom left for Shanklin, Isle of Wight, where the honeymoon was spent, the bride travelling in a navy tailor-made costume and black velours hat. Amongst the guests were four Australian soldiers, friends of the bridegroom, and several Australian munition workers.

ENGAGEMENT.

The engagement is announced of Miss Gladys Mugliston, second daughter of the late Dr. Mugliston and Mrs. Mugliston, of Neutral Bay, and Mr. Harold H. Rickards, of Carlton Lodge, Whalley Range, Manchester.

LAW REPORT.

IN EQUITY.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

A CITY MISSION.

Cuthbertson v Attorney-General.

Members of the Pitt-street Congregational Church about 38 years ago subscribed about £1900 with the object of establishing a City Mission in Sydney connected with the church. Land for the purpose was bought and conveyed to certain persons, but no trusts were declared. In 1895 the survivors of those to whom the land had been conveyed declared certain trusts, but there were doubts as to the validity of the declaration, owing to the length of time that had elapsed since the mission scheme was originated. Recently the members of the Church who had declared met and passed certain resolutions dealing with the matter. These were now submitted to his Honor for endorsement. The proceedings were initiated by William Neville Cuthbertson and other Church members. The Attorney-General was nominally joined as defendant.

His Honor approved of the resolutions in question, and made a confirmatory decree. Mr. F. J. Bethune, instructed by Messrs. Gill and Oxlade, appeared for the plaintiffs.

INDUSTRIAL FULL COURT.

WAGES ABOVE LIVING RATE.

NORMAL PRACTICE RESTORED.

The action to be taken by the Court upon the declaration by the Board of Trade of the living wage for adult males in the Metropolitan area as to the scale of diminishing increases was expressed in reserved judgments in which their Honors were agreed. The Court had invited argument upon the question wheher the scale of increases applied by the Court to wages above the living wage should be abolished, and whether, if preserved, it should be modified. Mr. Justice Heydon said that having heard the parties and considered the matter, the Court had come to the conclusion that in all future awards the scale should be disregarded and the methods reverted to which were in use before its introduction. The scale was introduced by the Court in judgments of November 6 and 29, 1916, as a measure proper to meet the conditions which had arisen under the war. The war was now, happily, practically over, and though the conditions to which it gave rise still to some extent existed, and though it had left consequences which would probably weigh heavily upon us for a long time to come. the Court had felt, on reviewing the whole position to the best of its power, that there was no longer sufficient reason for applying an abnormal rule, the child of abnormal circumstances, to the wage earners of the community. They thought it unnecessary to set out their view of the various details of the situation on which they had come to this conclusion. Whilst the war was on, not only had its existing burdens to be provided for, but it hung over the future like a threatening cloud whose contents of possible disaster could not certainly be estimated by anyone. Now, though the ravages of the storm remained, the war cloud itself had passed away. If other perils were to succeed it they must do their best to deal with them as they arose. For the present, they are thankful to say, they could relieve the wage earners of the sacrifices imposed by the scale of diminishing increases.

DISTRICT COURT.

(Before Judge Docker.)

ARBITRATION MATTER.

Under the Workmen's Compensation Act his Honor was asked to arbitrate in a matter between George Percival Batty, of Cooper-street, Waterloo, boot operator, and his employers, Barton, Smith, and Barton, Ltd., of George-street, Erskineville, boot manufacturers. It was stated that on May 4 last Batty, while working on the brushes of a boot machine, struck a screw with a hammer in order to remove it. A bit of the screw flew off and hit him in the left eye, which was severely injured. His employers, the present respondents, paid him 36/ a week from the date of the accident, and also certain fees for medical attendance. They had ceased the weekly payment on the ground that Batty was now fit to work. This the latter denied.

His Honor found in favour of the employee, and directed the respondents to continue the weekly payment to him of 36/. Mr. A. R. J. Watt, instructed by Messrs. Cecil A. Coghlan and Co., appeared for the claimant; and Mr. D. S. Edwards, instructed by Messrs. Salwey and Primrose, for the respondents.

QUARTER SESSIONS.

Judge Backhouse dealt with the following matters at Quarter Sessions appeals, Queen's-square, yesterday:—

Leslie Cecil Lambert, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzlement and two charges of larceny, was brought up for sentence. He was ordered to be imprisoned for 15 months on each charge, the sentences to be concurrent. Mr. J. W. Abigail appeared for accused.

Judge Backhouse varied the punishment imposed on Frederick Clark and William Mason, who were sentenced to three months' imprisonment on a charge of stealing, at the Central Police Court, on October 8. His Honor fined each accused £15, with £3/3/ costs. Mr. G. Martin (instructed by Messrs. Wilson and Harriott) appeared for Clark, and Mr. J. W. Abigail for Mason.

DEATH OF MR. JAMES ALCORN.

The death took place at Kangaloon on Thursday night of Mr. James Alcorn, chairman of directors of the Berrima District Farm and Dairy Company, Ltd. Mr. Alcorn had been a director of the company since its formation over 27 years ago, and was closely identified with every forward movement in the dairying industry. He was an ardent supporter of co-operation, a cause he championed for many years.

LATE MR. C. H. DIGHT.

The remains of Mr. Charles Hilton Dight, at one time representative of Singleton in the Legislative Assembly, who died at Burwood were interred in the Church of England cemetery at Singleton, after a service in All Saints' Church. The chief mourners were Mr. J. G. Dight (brother), Captain-Surgeon W. B. Dight and Mr. F. J. R. Dight (nephews), and Miss Collett (niece).

The deceased was born at Clifford, in Singleton district, in 1843, being the third son of the late Samuel Billingsley Dight. After leaving school in 1860 he went to his father's station, Carroll, on the Namoi, and in 1870 went to Tucka Tucka, on the M'Intyre, where he remained for 12 years, returning then to the Namoi for another six or seven years. He went to Singleton in 1890. For a number of years he was vice-president of the Northern Agricultural Association, and at the time of his death was the oldest surviving member of that body. He was churchwarden of All Saints' Church, Synod representative, and a member of the church council. In 1898 Mr. Dight opposed Mr. (now Sir) Albert Gould, who had represented the electorate for 12 years, and succeeded in winning the seat in the Legislative Assembly. In 1904 he was opposed at the general election by Mr. James Fallick, the present member, and suffered a defeat by 70 votes. He was a senior magistrate, having been appointed a justice of the peace in 1870. In 1871 he married Miss Jane M'Dougall, of Dunolly, who survives him. There is no issue of the marriage. In addition to Pelerin, his Singleton home, he had interests in grazing and other properties in various parts of the State.

DEATH OF MR. J. O'CONNOR.

Mr. J. O'Connor, elder son of Mrs. E. H. O'Connor, of Milton, Bellevue-road, Double Bay, has died at Christchurch, New Zealand, while on a business tour.

REAL ESTATE.

The Real Estate Market was rather quiet this week. After the great peace celebrations people had hardly settled down to sober business methods again, and, in addition, it was the off week for indoor auctions; yet, take the week as a whole, there was a fair number of sales recorded, and a good many inquiries for suburban residences, which are rather difficult to obtain in certain districts, such as the eastern suburbs and the North Shore line, where the inquiry for first-class properties at reasonable rates is greater than usual.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench held their weekly auction yesterday. The attendance was large, and Mr. Gregg handled a fairly attractive list of suburban properties, also several blocks of land within the city boundary. Competition was good for a number of these properties, and Mr. Gregg sold a house in Watkin-street, Newtown, for £750; two cottages in Leamington-avenue, Newtown, for £800; and a cottage, Mitchell-street, North Sydney, for £275. He refused an offer of £1400 for a cottage at Lewisham. For a cottage at Petersham bidding reached £800, but the property was also passed in. A bid of £900 was declined for three houses at Redfern, and a cottage at Erskineville was passed in at £300.

During the week this firm sold by private contract the following properties:—Shop property, fronting Percival-road, Stanmore, for £3000; shop and dwelling, fronting Perouse-road, Randwick, £1750; six allotments at the Station Estate, Wentworthville, at prices ranging from £6 to £10 per foot (£1334); two allotments of land, Parramatta-road, South Annandale Estate, for £740; dwelling, fronting Bourke-street, city, for £700; cottage, fronting Glover-street, Leichhardt, for £650; block of land, Tindale-road, Artarmon, for £200; block of land, Pine-avenue, Five Dock (Russell Lea Estate), for £162; two allotments, Mead's Estate, Enfield, £240; three allotments, Sunrise Estate, Granville, for £121; lot, Hampton Court Estate, Ryde, at 17/6 per foot; and a cottage, Juliett-street, Enmore, £900.

During the week Messrs. Raine and Horne disposed of the following properties:—Seven allotments of the Montpelier Estate, Neutral Bay, at prices from £3 to £3/10/ per foot (£1111); allotment, Condamine Estate, Manly, at 15/ per foot; allotment, Northbridge, at 30/ per foot; two allotments, Coral Estate, Manly, at 35/ per foot; two allotments, Double Bay Heights Estate, at 30/ per foot; and an allotment, Miriam Hills Estate, Ryde, at 15/ per foot.

Stanton and Son, Ltd., reports having sold the following properties during the week:—Brick cottage, with frontage of 54ft to Parramatta-road, Haberfield, £1460; brick cottage, No. 95, with frontage of 29ft to Park-avenue, Ashfield, £785; brick cottage, with frontage of 51ft to Nicholls-avenue, Haberfield, £1345; pair semi-detached cottages, with frontage of 51ft to Hinks-street, Randwick, £800; brick cottage, with frontage of 40ft to Farleigh-street, Ashfield, £800; brick cottage, with frontage of 47ft to Lucas-road, Burwood, £950; brick cottage, with frontage of 53ft to Parramatta-road, Haberfield, £1425.

Stanton and Son, Ltd., will hold their next sale in the association rooms on Tuesday, December 10. Their list on this occasion includes some fine properties, amongst which are Alcock's-building, at the corner of York and Barrack streets, city; block of flats, known as Kelburn Hall, Elizabeth Bay-road; a well-known property, Earl's Court, Manly, and vacant land at the rear, fronting Gilbert-street; a modern residence on Manning-road, Double Bay, known as Mornington. The city property at the corner of York and Barrack streets is comparatively a newly-erected structure, and consists of a basement and seven floors, has a frontage of 46ft to Barrack-street, and a depth of 84ft along York-street. The building is at present leased to Alcock Bros., Ltd., at £1600 per annum.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman this week sold a factory site at the corner of Kensington, Morehead, and M'Evoy streets, Waterloo, for £4100; also a cottage, Cheltenham-avenue, Cheltenham, for £800; a cottage, Blackheath, £550; and land in Harbour-street, Mosman, with a small weatherboard cottage on same, for £305.

Next Wednesday this firm will bring under the hammer, in their rooms, a very fine list of city and suburban properties in the estate of the late W. E. Sparke. There are properties in George-street, centrally situated; also properties in Pitt-street and at the corner of King and Sussex streets, Oxford-street, Clarence-street, Erskine-street, George-street West, and at Kensington and Woollahra. This sale is already attracting a good deal of attention.

Messrs. Arthur Rickard and Co., Ltd., report a week of satisfactory business. The main purchases were made in the districts of Bankstown and Five Dock, and consisted of good residential sites. At Glen Innes, on the Furracabad Estate, two fine farms changed hands at a satisfactory figure. Several seaside blocks also found buyers at Mona Vale and Narrabeen.

Hugh Duff and Co. (A. T. Carpenter) had a good attendance at their sale on Thursday, when there was bidding for nearly every lot submitted. The sum of £1300 was refused for a property in Banksia-road, Bellevue Hill; also £1300 for a cottage in Birriga-road. For land at Bellevue Hill, the bidding rose to £5/17/6 per foot; and £6/10/ was also declined for land at Malvern Hill. During the week the firm sold a pair of cottages, Victoria-road, Marrickville, £800, pair of cottages, Darley-street, Neutral Bay, £1025; and a block of land, Nicholson-street, Chatswood, for £350.

During the past month Mr. C. Monro has disposed of the following properties in the Sutherland and Cronulla districts:—Weatherboard cottage, Parramatta-street, Cronulla, £1000; 10 acres, weatherboard cottage, Sylvania-road, £1000; two lots, Gloucester-road, £500; one lot, Craig Estate, £330; 20 lots, Trivia Estate, £750, 31 lots, Miranda Heights Estate, £3740; 40 lots, Harnleigh Estate, £2733.

There are quite a number of subdivision sales set down for this afternoon. One that is attracting a good deal of attention, and is likely to draw a big gathering, is the sale on the heights of Vaucluse, to be conducted by Messrs. Arthur Richard and Co. The estate is suitably named the Crown of Vaucluse, for the land is amongst the highest in this picturesque district, just off the tramline, and on the Sydney side of the Lighthouse. From many parts of the estate very fine views of the harbour and right out to sea are obtainable. The roads have been formed, and footpaths made, with kerb and guttering added, right through the estate. There has been a big demand for plans, and the sale ought to prove a successful one.

Messrs. Raine and Horne have a sale this afternoon of the Pearl Bay Estate at Mosman. The land is situatel just off the Old Spit-road, and two minutes from the Spit tram. It comprises 37 allotments, some of which are practically water frontages facing the 100ft reservation to Pearl Bay. It is also convenient to the city, being a matter of about 40 minutes run, and only 15 minutes from Manly surf. The terms extend over five years.

Messrs. Hugh Duff and Co. (A. T. Carpenter) will offer this afternoon on behalf of the Intercolonial Investment Co., Ltd., one of the best known estates in the County of Cumberland, known as Cleves Estate, owned and occupied by the Blaxland family for many year. It is situated on the Parramatta River, right opposite the beautiful property of the Walker Hospital. There are 80 splendid building allotments, which are elevated, and commanding splendid views of the Parramatta River, and easily accessible by train and tram.

Messrs. Richardson and Wrench will, this afternoon, submit the Harbour View Estate at Manly. The land overlooks the Spit, and is near the Public school and the churches. It is about five minutes from the electric tram.

The same firm will to-day offer the Kingsland Estate at Bexley, on the hill, opposite the Salvation Army Boys' Home, and about 10 minutes from the tram. This is excellent building land.

Another sale by this firm to-day will take place at Campbelltown, where the Kershiler's Estate will be offered. This land is but a few minutes from the railway station, and has been subdivided into 28 choice building sites. City water is laid on to the district.

Messrs. Hardie and Gorman have a sale arranged for this afternoon at Croydon. It is the Rockleigh Estate, which will be submitted. This subdivision, which is situated in a fast improving suburb, comprises 17 choice building sites, also a residence, known as Rockleigh. A motor 'bus from Burwood to the city passes the estate. The terms have been made easy.

Messrs. R. T. Forsyth, of Sydney, and Soper Bros., of Katoomba, will conjointly offer a number of properties at Katoomba this afternoon.

Messrs. H. W. Horning and Co. will, this afternoon, offer business and residential sites right at the Punchbowl Railway Station.

DO YOU WANT HIGHER PRODUCTION?

When you want the best information you should go to the man who is in the best position to give that information; that is, the SPECIALIST.

Goodalls have made a long study of PRODUCTION, and have PRODUCTION SPECIALISTS attached to their staff, whose experience is yours for the asking.

Without any cost to yourself you can have explained to you those MACHINE TOOLS which are specially designed and built for accuracy, speed, ease of operation, and to give long, efficient service. Those Machines which can put through several operations at one setting or performance. You will be told frankly just what machines you particularly require, and a machine would not be recommended that would not soon pay for itself.

Higher production means higher profits. You should get busy and look into this question. Don't forget Goodalls are PRODUCTION SPECIALISTS.

ON THE LAND.

THE CROW.

(BY W. M. SHERRIE.)

In a note to the writer, Mr. A. S. Le Souef (director of the Taronga Park Zoological Gardens) suggests that an effort might be made through the Press to collect "information on the status of the crow and its economic use, or otherwise, in Australia." This has already been done in America, where a publication has been issued entitled, "The Crow in its Relation to Man." The conclusions arrived at are both interesting and instructive:—"When feeding on injurious insects, rodents, carrion, etc., and when dispersing the seeds of beneficial plants, the crow is working largely for the best interests of man; when destroying small reptiles, wild birds, amphibians, poultry, crops, etc., when molesting live stock, and distributing their diseases, and spreading the seeds of noxious plants, the bird is one of the farmers' enemies. The misdeeds of which the crow has been convicted greatly outnumber its virtues, but these are not necessarily of real importance; much of its damage to crops and poultry can be prevented, while the bird's services in the destruction of insect pests can ill be spared. At the same time, no policy can be recommended that would allow the crow to become so numerous that its shortcomings would be greatly accentuated. As the capabilities of the crow for both good and evil are great, it is believed that an extermination of the species would have ultimate consequences no less serious than over abundance."

As Mr. Le Souef reminds us, our problem is somewhat different from that of America, owing to the great number of sheep in districts where crows are most numerous. For many years the crow has been regarded in this country as an unmitigated pest, and more especially among sheep and lambs. In recent times, however, this view has come to be modified in some measure. Readers may be again reminded that there are three species of crow in this State. These are the hazel-eyed crow (Corvus coronoides), the small-billed crow (C. bennetti), and the Australian raven (C. marianae). The last-mentioned species has white eyes, and is generally credited with being the principal agent of destruction, so far as this family is concerned, among sheep, the smaller insectivorous birds, and poultry. But lately a doubt has arisen as to whether the white-eyed and the hazel-eyed crow are not identical, the distinctive colouration in this respect being due to difference of age and development.

It appears that Mr. Gregory Mathews has recently gone into the matter, and has come to the conclusion that in New South Wales only one species of crow is concerned. His view is that the hazel eyes eventually become white. If the predatory habits of the birds are identical, it does not matter much whether they are of the one species or not. But the question has not yet been definitely settled; it is said to be still under consideration. In this connection it is interesting to turn to the recently-issued Science Bulletin No. 15, "The Food of Australian Birds," in which special reference is made to the crow. Only 38 crows were dealt with—and obviously this is too few to permit of any definite conclusions being arrived at, since the diet of practically all birds varies to some extent with the season, the prevailing conditions, and the difference of locality.

The analysis of the stomach contents of these birds showed that occasionally they consumed "wheat, maize, and oat grains, and field peas." Their depredations in this respect, however, were insignificant. As regards animal food, apart from carrion, mice were found in three crows, grasshoppers in six, the larvae of various moths (in one case cutworms) in five, and blowfly maggots, or pupae, in two; but the amount of these pests destroyed by the crows does not really amount to much, though the Entomologist states that he considers it one of the most valuable insectivorous birds in the western country, as well as being a scavenger. The latter statement is the chief point in its favour. Summed up, as a result of these investigations, the crow may be said to be, on the negative side of the ledger, negligibly injurious from the point of view of eating crop grains; on the positive side of the ledger, somewhat useful, as occasionally destroying mice, grasshoppers, moth larvae, and blowfly maggots, and very useful in helping to dispose of carrion, thereby tending to prevent the breeding of blowflies therein. As a set-off to the latter the experience of sheepowners that crows frequently destroy the eyes of tired or enfeebled sheep or lambs acts as a grave counter-check to its value."

It is wisely pointed out that, in striving to estimate the value of the crow, local circumstances must be taken into consideration, just as is the case with not a few of the species of birds, about whose usefulness there is no doubt. But more information is needed. What we should strive for is a more exhaustive examination of the food habits of the crow over the whole of the State. Mr. Le Souf has suggested that valuable and instructive results might be obtained if, over a period of, say, a year, people in the country would take out the crops of crows, dry them, and send them for scientific examination. This well-known naturalist has intimated his willingness to undertake the work of examination of the contents of the crops if they are sent to him at the Zoological Gardens, Mosman. In view of this proposition we would appeal to country people to take the matter up, and to give what assistance they can in enabling us to determine the economic status of the crow in his State, as it has been done in America.

THE WOOL TRADE.

WORKING AT HIGH PRESSURE.

Appraisements have been proceeding at high pressure, and the leeway of last week, owing to the armistice celebrations, has been made up. The sixth series of the season in Sydney, limited to 45,000 bales, will be completed on Monday next, and the seventh entered upon, without any break, on the following day. The wools catalogued have been drawn from a wide area of the State, and chiefly from the north-west, west, and Riverina, together with a few attractive clips, or portions thereof, from the south. A considerable proportion of the wools reflect the effects of the droughty conditions that have prevailed in the north-west and west. Riverina has been favoured, and the wools from there generally have been sound, well-grown, and in excellent condition. There has been a fair showing of crossbred, but merinos have preponderated. The display of scoured has only been a moderate one. Among the notable brands appraised this week was the Kenilworth over AFW over Yass, from Yass, that realised up to /27¼; the Dirnaseer, from Cootamundra, to /26¼, for 13 bales AAA h; and the AB over Landgrove, from the same district, to /25¼, for 56 bales AAA com w and e. AN AMERICAN VIEW.

Early last month the American wool trade was giving attention to some of the problems that will have to be solved after peace is declared. It is highly probable that when open markets are resumed in the Commonwealth the United States will buy practically all its Australian and New Zealand wool direct. In the meantime, America is discussing the difference in price that its manufacturers have to pay for Australasian wools compared to users in the United Kingdom. This is a phase of the raw wool position and the purchase by the British Government of the clips that is becoming prominent in America. The subject was referred to in the Boston "Commercial Bulletin" on October 5 as follows:—"More or less discussion of post-war competition has been in progress, and the feeling appears to have been rather pronounced that our Government should take some decided stand with reference to post-war trade, especially as regards wool textiles. There are not a few members of the trade who are querying the wisdom of remaining in the trade at the close of the war in view of the disparity in the prices of raw material between this country and Great Britain. Obviously, the advantage in the procurement of raw wool rests all with the British manufacturer, who has been able in spite of the tremendous demand for military fabrics from his own machinery to send out of Great Britain, together with the decided assistance of the British Government, considerable quantities of woollen goods, and of these not a small quantity has found its way into this country. It goes without saying that it is just as encumbent upon our own Government to take some precautions against post-war competition as it is for the British Government or the French."

INTERSTATE CENTRES.

Appraising has been proceeding in Melbourne and Geelong, and although some of the Western Victorian wools are somewhat disappointing, some high prices have been secured. The Turkeith brand, in Geelong last week, was appraised to /29¼ for four bales AA, which was the highest price for greasy so far for the season. Other brands went up from /27 to /28¼, and scoured to /44¾. Western district wools show a falling off in the size of the fleeces, the sheep cutting from a pound to a pound and a half less than last season. The merino clips from the coastal and South Australian border districts are finer, and more thinly grown than last season, but the crossbred bids fair to be equal to last season.

PRODUCERS' CONFERENCE.

RURAL FINANCE.

The Primary Producers' Conference, promoted by the Royal Agricultural Society, was continued yesterday at the Education-buildings. Mr. A. E. Hunt, M.L.C., occupied the chair.

Professor Irvine (Professor of Economics, Sydney University) read a most interesting paper, "The Financing of Rural Production," which was followed by the delegates with close attention. The subject was exhaustively treated, in the first part dealing with the question of financing the stocks of wheat still on hand. The professor stated it would be necessary to continue the wheat pool until they reached normal peace conditions. It might be necessary for the Australian Governments to guarantee a minimum price for wheat for two or four years. The present banking system was criticised, and also other means of financial assistance. The organisation of the farmers on strong co-operative lines, combined with the formation of land banks was advocated. The establishment of a State Agricultural Bank was necessary. The advance department of the Government Savings Bank was the beginning of such an institution. The Government should be asked to institute an inquiry, so that they might be well informed as to the difficulties under which farmers might now labour as regards finance. Then a committee might be appointed to draft a scheme, and for the consideration of Parliament. Meantime, the farmers might well begin to organise into co-operative groups. (Applause.)

Interesting papers were read also by Mr. H. M. Somer on "Other Agricultural Industries," and by Mr. H. W. Potts on "Agricultural Education."

Mr. P. Board (Director of Education) said agricultural education was one of the fundamental necessities for successful agriculture. The great need was a propaganda campaign to convince a lot of people in Australia that what they believed was true.

Professor Stewart (Veterinary Science, Sydney University) emphasised the need for improving the position of veterinary science, and directed attention to the bill now before parliament. He moved: "In the interests of pastoral industries, the Government be urged to expedite the passage of legislation for the regulation of the practice of veterinary science in this State." The motion was carried.

Mr. Valder (Under-Secretary and Director of Agriculture) said it was most important that they should get men as agricultural inspectors who were born and bred on the land. He asked their help in getting agricultural students for the agricultural college and university.

Lieut.-Colonel Hurley, C.M.G. (Trade Commissioner for New South Wales in London), said they had lost hundreds of thousands of pounds through carelessness in marketing produce. They must co-operate beyond the confines of the State and carry right through to the consumer, when the producer would reap the full value of his product.

RESOLUTIONS.

A series of resolutions, officially prepared, and adopted by the conference for submission to the Government, set out that they were intended solely to be helpful to the public interest. The problems of the immediate future were recognised, and it was affirmed that increased production was a vital necessity, and must be promoted. The Federal and State Governments were entreated to give the gravest consideration to the subject, and the conference undertake to urge all primary producers to carry on with renewed vigour and determination. It was suggested that Government interference with producing interests ought to be limited to meet well-proven needs, and not be decided upon except after friendly consultation with expert and representative men enjoying the confidence of the producers. Regarding the sale and marketing of many of their staples, it was affirmed that every effort should be made, consistent with prudence, to bring about a return to normal conditions. It was considered that the wheatgrowing industry should receive considerate treatment for a fixed term of years by means of a guaranteed minimum price to be paid in cash, sufficiently high to induce a revival in the industry on an extended scale. The extension of systematic education on the most modern and approved lines was urged, and the extension of the work of the Department of Agriculture largely upon the lines of the great and successful departments of Canada and of the United States; and the engagement of capable and well-trained men to reinforce the staff of the State department, and to organise its extended functions advocated. Great stress was laid upon the necessity for obtaining "first-class" men for this important work. Inducements to specially chosen students by means of open scholarships, or Public Service cadetship, as well as by the assurance that adequate salaries will be paid upon proof of satisfactory service, were urged. The Commonwealth and State Governments were entreated to take united action without delay to obtain the services of competent scientists and experts, to investigate and to suggest or provide remedial measures in regard to pests and diseases affecting the primary industries.

LISMORE SHOW.

LISMORE.—The thirty-fourth exhibition of the Lismore Agricultural Society was opened in fine weather. The proceeds this year go to the Lismore Hospital. The attendance for the opening day was very good. Competent judges say the show of cattle was one of the best for many years. Illawarra and Guernsey cattle were particularly strong compared with the previous years, but Jerseys showed a falling off. The pigs were better than has been seen for several years. Considering the season, there was a fine show in the pavilion of horticultural products and farm produce.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1918.

To-morrow and on Monday the citizens of Sydney will have an opportunity of welcoming back a number of those Australian soldiers who enlisted during the opening months of the war. It is unnecessary to say that their welcome will be enthusiastic and sincere. In their standard of bravery and of ability there has been no distinction between the first recruits and later reinforcements. It is the glory of the Australian force that as each new detachment joined the army in France, in Egypt, or in Palestine it immediately assimilated the tradition of courage, of endurance, and of good comradeship established by the soldiers already there. But these men now returning were the first to see their duty and to do it. While the rest of us could persuade ourselves that other obligations were more pressing or that other men were freer, they knew that the appeal of their country was addressed to them personally, and found it irresistible. They and their comrades have gained a distinction beyond any decoration, military or civil. The catastrophe that fell suddenly on the world in 1914 found many men preaching or professing the ideals of justice and patriotism. These men realised that the final test of faith and devotion and of manhood is the willingness to fight for ideals and to sacrifice home and comfort and future prospects in order to do so. In their welcome to-day the Australian people will remember the long series of hardships and of exploits in which the Australian forces have participated since the earliest divisions set sail. Neither they nor their friends could have imagined what their ordeal would be or how long it would last. It is their great honour that no order has tried their courage too high, no task has seemed so formidable that they would not attempt it. The landing, Lone Pine, Fleurbaix, Pozieres, and Bullecourt required not merely an unquestioning obedience, but courage which persisted when the full extent of the danger had manifested itself. The stand before Amiens demanded an imperturbable mind in the midst of all the signs of defeat. These men deserve our welcome not because they were more distinguished than others in these battles, but because they were the first to show the spirit which made successive victories possible. To each and all of them any public demonstration will be of secondary importance to the welcome into their own homes. The memory of the public demonstration, moreover, would soon pass away if it were not followed by a proof of its sincerity. Australians know that they owe to their soldiers not only their safety and their victory, but their place of honour among the nations of the world. Time alone can prove the nature of their gratitude. It must be shown both by the reception of returned soldiers into their old place in society and by repeated consideration and forbearance. There is no doubt of the disposition of the great majority of the Australian people. On all sides of political life they insist that the Government shall do the utmost in its power to give the returned soldier a place in civil life equal to or better than the one he left. They will pardon mistakes in the application of this principle, but they will not pardon hesitation or niggardliness in adopting it. It is admitted that there has been no hesitation either in the Government or among those members of the public whom it has called to help it. There have been mistakes and disappointments, but they have not been caused by lack of generosity, and they have not been more numerous than should have been anticipated from the complicated and novel character of the problem. To find the most appropriate calling for men whose lives have been dislocated by years of active service is a task of the utmost difficulty. Criticism of those entrusted with it should be governed by recognition of two principles—that no Government could remain in office if it did not recognise the claims of Australian soldiers as paramount to all others, and that it is in the interests of the soldier himself that he should find a place as soon as possible in the working life of the community.

When these men went away Australia was a united country, swept by patriotic feeling and determined to punish the enemy who had but lately revealed his true character. Through their services Australia has been able to play a far greater part in the success of the Allied cause than any of us anticipated. On their return they will find their country not only divided between two irreconcilable factions, but attacked from within. It would be a disaster if the evils of the party system were to be increased by a competition for soldiers' votes. But the soldiers can bear witness both in politics and industry to the dangers ahead of a country which puts its domestic quarrels before the needs either of progress or of defence. Australia has an opportunity of profiting by the lessons of the war without suffering its hardships. The first of those lessons is that a nation absorbed in political compromise which refuses to face the consequences of its own acts is bound to suffer terrible disasters before it can preserve its existence and its freedom. Among its many lessons the war has taught us the need for unity for the community in sacrifice which unity involves, and for the abandonment of those political manoeuvres which have been taken as a substitute for national work. If the returned soldiers can keep the consequences of such methods before us they will be a welcome force in politics. They, too, can remind us of the penalty which participation in the war has imposed on us, as well as on every other country. It has taken the best of our manhood. From the day when the first Turkish shells were directed against the expeditionary force we have been losing men who are irreplaceable. Every profession, every calling has lost the best of its younger men. The physique of the country has been weakened, its development has been retarded, the forces available for the solution of its industrial and scientific problems have been seriously diminished. There are two methods by which the Australian people may show their gratitude for those who have fallen in their defence, as well as for those who return. They must see to it that parents and wives and children do not suffer for the patriotism of their kinsfolk, that no parent or wife goes in want, that no child has an inferior education to that which his father would have given him. They must throw themselves into the service of their country with such energy as will to some extent compensate it for their loss. There must be a return to the spirit of 1914, which has been slowly weakening while these men have been adding glory after glory to the name of Australia.

HONOUR TO NELSON.

The armistice has been a hard pill for Germany to swallow; an arrogant and merciless race is now tasting something of the humiliation which it has in the past inflicted on other nations, and which it confidently hoped to inflict on the Allies at the end of this war. The withdrawal of the "invincible" army and the cession of the left bank of the Rhine are a sufficient confession of defeat, but to many Germans the bitterest part of the capitulation will be the terms which demanded the surrender of the German fleet. The German army, whatever its faults, fought with tenacity and courage for more than four years; the German navy went into eclipse with the unhappy distinction that many of its personnel had never seen a shot fired against the enemy. This was the fulfilment of the boasts of those who drank to "The Day" when they should meet the British fleet; this was the destiny of the second navy in the world. History has never seen such an ignominious anti-climax. The German navy was a mighty instrument welded for one end, and one alone; it was the outward and visible sign of the ex-Emperor's declaration that "Germany's future lies on the water;" it was admittedly a weapon forged against Britain; it represented a combination of labour, ingenuity, training, and technical skill the cost of which can hardly be estimated. What was the result of all this endeavour? It led but to the surrender which is going on to-day. We have no desire to crow over a beaten foe, but the record of the German navy is not brilliant. Much was expected of it; it accomplished little. In the survey of the war it has few actions to its credit and only one victory. Only once, at Coronel, did it invite battle. Of the other naval engagements on any scale, the fighting was begun by the British and broken off by the Germans. Heligoland, Coronel, the Falklands, the Dogger Bank, and Jutland is the complete list of naval battles. The rest of the naval history of the war is concerned with small raids and counter-raids, duels between individual ships, affairs of outposts, occasional commerce-destroyers who slipped through the cordon and had a lively if brief existence—and the submarine campaign. Germany claims, or used to claim, that her navy had three successes to its credit—Coronel, Jutland, and the submarines. We acknowledged the first; we hoped and believed that the second and the third claims were mere bravado. This turns out to be true. For Jutland and the failure of the submarine campaign Germany has paid a terrible price. Captain Persius, who is well-informed and has no reason now to conceal the truth, admits that Jutland once and for all shattered any dreams ever cherished by the German navy of beating the British. We proclaimed our losses; Germany hid hers, and now we know the reason of her reticence. Equally disastrous was the submarine venture. The submarines took us by surprise in their filthy work, and for a time they undoubtedly produced a serious situation. But they did not reckon on the spirit of the British people and the resource of the British navy. The figures now published show a continuous curve of approximation between the construction of submarines in Germany and their destruction "somewhere at sea."

The British navy, too, has no great number of major actions to its credit, but that is not its fault. Its grievance throughout the war has been that it has lacked a target. It had its own idea about Jutland and fervently hoped that von Scheer would repeat his experiment. It has had a lot of the unadvertised drudgery of the war, and it has paid perhaps a heavier toll. But if its losses in ships and personnel have been greater than that of the German navy it is because it has exposed itself to infinitely greater risks. It has been reticent to the point of taciturnity; only now do we begin to hear whispers of its exploits. But in a general way we knew that the British navy was proving itself more than equal to its task. The German navy had been created with three definite functions. It was to prevent Britain from sending an army oversea in the first place; to attack the outposts of her Empire in the second; and, in the third, if Britain still proved obdurate, to starve her into submission. None of these things happened; the British navy saw to that. The armies of Britain and Greater Britain have fought in three continents; and the navy has guaranteed that they should be transported, fed, and reinforced; the Allies have reason to bless the activities of the navy which was never too pre-occupied to spare convoy and guard freight for their urgent necessities. The neutrals found that under British protection alone could they receive the freedom of the seas which Germany asked by word and denied by deed. The British navy is proverbially modest, but it has a record which will speak for itself down the ages. It did not get the battle for which it was eager, but it fought ten thousand inconspicuous battles all over the seven seas, gladly paying the price of our freedom. And now comes the reward to those brave men whose spirit will rejoice even though they are not bodily present. The German fleet has at last come out—under the white flag. Its surrender will inspire future painters with a gallery of subjects, but two pictures will be unforgettable. One is the procession of great capital ships which will pass between the British lines on their way to internment. The other is the scene in Admiral Beatty's cabin where, seated, with a portrait of Nelson behind him, he met the German delegate. A portrait of Nelson behind him—that is what Germany misses in her naval inspiration. Her seamen may be courageous and clever, but they lack tradition; they have not got that instinctive knack of the sea which can only be won by inheritance. "A portrait of Nelson behind him"—there could be no more fitting touch than that his presence should preside at our triumph. And through his eyes gazed the long line of British admirals who helped to make the British fleet and inspired our victory to-day:—

Effingham, Grenville, Raleigh, Drake,
Here's to the bold and free!
Benbow, Collingwood, Byron, Blake,
Hail to the Kings of the Sea!
Admirals all, for England's sake,
Honour be yours and fame!
And Honour, as long as waves shall break,
To Nelson's peerless name!

Admirals all, they said, then say
(The echoes are ringing still),
Admirals all, they went their way
To the haven under the hill.
But they left us a kingdom none can take,
The realm of the circling sea,
To be ruled by the rightful sons of Blake
And the Rodneys yet to be.

INFLUENZA.

300 MEDIC CASES.

PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES.

There are now nearly 300 cases of influenza in quarantine from the transport Medic. According to Dr. Elkington, they are mostly doing well. Fifty-nine cases were landed yesterday from the vessel. Of that number, 16 are classed as serious cases. It is stated that the Medic cases generally are not nearly so virulent as those from the Atua.

The schooner Marora was released from quarantine yesterday.

An official announcement last night was to the effect that no names of cases on the transports would be available until this morning or Sunday at the earliest, consequent upon the pressure of work at the station. The public are assured that information respecting cases will be made available at the information bureau as early as possible. "The work," said Dr. Elkington, "is of such a character at the quarantine station, and the staff are kept so busily occupied, that, while all salient matters are recorded, detailed reports respecting individuals are not available, except through the information bureau. We are dependent upon the military medical officers for the compilation of the information regarding sick troops."

While the Riverina is apparently a clean ship, she will be kept in quarantine for the prescribed time. This is for the purpose of permitting the development of any cases that might be incubating.

The work generally at the quarantine station is proceeding satisfactorily, according to Dr. Elkington.

The quarantine authorities have arranged with Colonel Sinclair, P.M.O., to obtain the services of 12 army nurses from Randwick. The arrangement was for their departure for the station yesterday.

INFORMATION BUREAU.

The quarantine information bureau will be kept open until 5 p.m. to-day, and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

MEDIC CREW.

The following were given during the afternoon as the names of the members of the crew of the Medic in hospital:—Horace Pain (very ill), Martin Ryan (ill), Albert Hadlow (ill), Chas. Bowring (ill), Jas. Thomas (very ill), Jas. Harvey (very ill), Jas. Lorimer (very ill), Jas. Lacey (very ill), Walter Carlyon, Fred. Limbet (very bad), Jas. Thurston (ill), Reginald Brissen (ill), R. Rennie (ill), Wm. Boyle (very ill), Wm. Ely (very ill), Herbert Mahoney (ill), Alex. Wilson (very ill), Ernest Britian (ill), Mark Gibbs (ill), C. Parry (ill), Geo. Taylor (very ill), Geo. Buckley (ill), Thos. Whittaker (ill), Jas. Blundle (ill), Jas. Chalmers (ill), Wm. Wilson (very ill), Wm. Ritchie (very ill).

This gives a total of 27 cases so far, or a total, together with the Atua (64) and Manuka (43) cases, of 134 cases on the afternoon bulletin. This is quite apart from the troops.

ATUA AND MANUKA CASES.

The cases reported as critical from the Atua were: Arthur M. Bliss, Frank Orton (very critical), W. S. Rosemond, W. S. Rannau, and Jas. Sakulse; and from the Manuka, Frank Roberts (very ill), S. F. Saunders (very ill), and H. Wayne (very ill). All the others from both those vessels, it was reported, were improving.

PUBLIC TELEPHONE BUREAUS.

It is probable that some action will be taken in the direction of closing public telephone bureaus.

VACCINE NEXT WEEK.

The Health Department expects to have a quantity of vaccine available next week. The department, it is stated, is making it as fast as possible.

AN OFFICIAL WARNING.

Dr. Elkington states that reports have been received from the quarantine station that Manly ferry boats pass unnecessarily close to the quarantined vessels, and that papers have been thrown on board. Pulling boats have also come near the vessels. He desires it clearly to be understood that any vessel, boat, or person coming within the prescribed boundaries or otherwise becoming exposed to any risk of infection, or communicating in any unauthorised way, will be arrested and placed in quarantine. The management of the Manly ferries, it is further stated, has been warned with reference to this matter. Full supplies of newspapers and other reading matter have been arranged for the troops on the Medic and Riverina through the Comforts Fund and the Red Cross. Supplies of hospital comforts are also being contributed by these organisations for the sick men.

MOVEMENT OF BOATS.

Captain Brownlow, District Naval Officer for New South Wales, in exercise of the powers conferred upon him by the War Precautions Act, has ordered that no vessel, launch, or boat of any description shall approach without authority within 200 yards of the quarantine area or any quarantined vessel at anchor.

It is further ordered that no boats or launches of any description will be allowed to move about the waters of North Harbour, Manly, or Spring Cove during the hours of darkness without authority.

PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES.

Dr. Elkington pointed out yesterday, in reply to a question, that the quarantine service was using, to the fullest possible extent, every means which could be devised for preventing the disease from getting ashore, and using it, wherever the need arose, all around the Australian coast.

DR. ELKINGTON'S POSITION.

Inconvenience has been caused to the Acting Chief Quarantine Officer (Dr. Elkington) by reports that he is in residential control of the quarantine station. This is incorrect. Dr. Elkington's duties as chief quarantine officer-general are administrative, and the medical work of the quarantine station is conducted by special medical officers. In any case, it may be pointed out that all precautions are taken to prevent the accidental conveyance of disease by medical officers or others. The function and purpose of the quarantine service are to protect the public from disease introduced from oversea, and it may be accepted that the service will not create risk.

TUESDAY'S CONFERENCE.

The following is a copy of a telegram sent to the Acting Prime Minister yesterday by the direction of the Colonial Secretary (Mr. Fuller):—"Deputation of editors of daily and weekly papers in Sydney waited on the Minister for Health this afternoon and requested him to convey to the State Cabinet their strong opinion that representations should be made to you that the conference of medical officers proposed to be held in Melbourne on Tuesday should be held in Sydney on Monday or Tuesday next. Cabinet agrees to forward the request, and adds its opinion that delegates should leave Melbourne in time to meet in Sydney on Monday or Tuesday. Sydney is the most suitable place for the meeting, being the chief centre of quarantine measures at present. Reply urgent."

It was pointed out by the deputation that if the conference were to be held in Melbourne it would mean the withdrawal from Sydney of the principal medical men at a most critical time, and that, with Sydney the chief centre of quarantine activity, it was the proper place for the conference.

MUNICIPAL ACTION.

At the meeting of the Petersham council on Tuesday, the council's inspector was instructed to communicate at once with the Chief Medical Officer of Health with a view to obtaining all possible information concerning the influenza epidemic, in order that necessary action might be taken to combat any outbreak of the disease in the municipality.

THE V.A.D.'S.

Volunteers are being called among the Voluntary Aid detachments, N.S.W. Division, for work at the various vaccination centres in case of an outbreak of Spanish influenza. With the view of fitting them for their task, the Health Department will arrange a series of lectures on sterilisation, etc., and the first lecture will take place at the Anzac Buffet at 8 o'clock on Monday evening, when volunteers will be enrolled for service. This is merely a precautionary measure.

NO ATMOSPHERIC CONTAGION.

The statement that Spanish influenza infection is transmissible through the air has attracted the notice of the Minister for Public Health. The statement suggests that the presence of cases in the quarantine area at North Head constitutes a very real and direct menace to persons outside. For this reason Mr. Fitzgerald has made inquiry of medical experts, and is in a position to state with confidence that there are no reasonable grounds for apprehension that the organisms of this disease can be conveyed aerially from cases or contacts—that is, from the quarantine area at North Head to individuals outside that area.

CABINET'S DECISION.

A CONSULTATIVE COUNCIL.

MEDICOS AND LAYMEN.

Another special meeting of the State Cabinet was held yesterday to consider further precautions against any epidemic. It was decided to constitute a Consultative Council in the following way:—

(1) The medical branch of the Health Department, under Dr. Paton, to be reinforced by 12 medical men, to be recommended by the British Medical Association. The new body will be called the Consultative Council.

(2) An administrative committee to be appointed, with Mr. John Garlick as administrator, to relieve the medical council of all organisation detail work during the continuance of the epidemic.

(3) The administrative committee to comprise the following representative citizens:—Mr. John Garlick (Under-Secretary of Local Government), Alderman Joynton Smith (Lord Mayor), Mr. C. E. D. Meares (president of the Chamber of Commerce), Alderman A. D. Walker (president, Chamber of Manufactures), Mr. W. Morby (president, Labor Council); three representatives to be elected by the National Council of Women; Mr. D. Benjamin (president Master Retailers' Association and chairman of the Ambulance Association), Lieutenant-Colonel Murdoch (of the Red Cross Society).

It is hoped that a State-wide organisation of the most up-to-date character will be completed rapidly.

The staff of the Health Department is hard at work upon the preparation of vaccines for purposes of preventive inoculation. The Town Halls of the city and suburbs have been placed at the disposal of the health authorities by the Mayors and councils, and these will be ready as depots for general vaccination when the vaccine is available, probably during next week. Doctors and nurses will be in attendance when the vaccines are ready, and will proceed during stated hours to carry out the work. In order to prevent the dislocation of the general services of the country, vaccines will be supplied to employers who, it is understood, will arrange for medical men to vaccinate the staffs of these establishments.

The Minister for Public Health has called together the Mayors and presidents of the municipal and shire bodies in the metropolitan area. They will meet on Tuesday next at 10 a.m.. The councils are the health authorities under the Local Government Act, and will co-operate heartily with the Government in all measures to combat the epidemic.

Newcastle and other large towns will be organised for preventive purposes, as well as Sydney.

Mr. John Garlick is Under-Secretary of Local Government. He was appointed to an administrative position in connection with the plague outbreak in 1901, and acted as organiser for the Citizens' Vigilance Committee, which, in view of the incapacity of the then City Council, was called upon to undertake the stamping-out of the epidemic. Connected with the Vigilance Committee were two members of the present New South Wales Cabinet—Mr. Garland and Mr. Fitzgerald.

MASKS FOR THE PUBLIC.

Prior to the adjournment of the Legislative Assembly yesterday afternoon Mr. Fuller, Chief Secretary, speaking as acting leader of the Government, said:—

"Our medical advisers inform us that should influenza break out in our midst, masks will considerably diminish the risk of infection. Steps have been taken to obtain a satisfactory pattern, and this will be on view early in the week, when manufacturers will be given an opportunity of copying it. The ordinary medical gauze will be the main material used in the manufacture of these masks. So that there will be no attempt on the part of anybody to make fortunes out of the possible misfortunes of the community, the Government has decided to take steps to guard against any improper inflation of prices of this material. Quotations have been obtained to-day from the various firms. The prices quoted are those which must rule should an abnormal demand arise. If necessary, the Government will ask the Necessary Commodities Control Commission to declare to-day's prices as the maximum at which this material may be sold, and will seize stocks at this price. I give this warning now, so that anyone making any rash speculations in this or any other material used to combat the epidemic, will understand that they do so at their own peril."

The leader of the Opposition (Mr. John Storey) said the epidemic was not influenza, but a form of plague very deadly in its effect. The Government should refuse to allow vessels with influenza aboard to come into Sydney. They all wished to see their soldier lads back, but the health of the community was the first consideration. They all knew the deadly effects of the disease in New Zealand, and if anything like that happened in New South Wales it would be nothing more or less than a calamity.

The Chief Secretary said that Dr. Cumpston (Federal Quarantine Officer) would arrive on Saturday, and the State authorities would confer with him.

The directors of Union Theatres, Ltd., announce that precautions are being taken at all the theatres under their control against the possibility of an influenza outbreak. The theatres are being thoroughly sprayed with antispetic at least three times daily, and special care is being taken in regard to the staff.

MILITIA CAMPS.

IMMEDIATE DISBANDMENT URGED.

Attention has been called to the serious danger that would exist in the militia camps where some thousands of young men are undergoing military training, in the event of Spanish influenza extending beyond the quarantine boundaries. It is pointed out and emphasised that an outbreak in one of the camps would in all probability spread with great rapidity, and the danger would be all the greater by reason of the fact that a considerable proportion of the youths have been refused for service in the A.I.F. on medical grounds, and would therefore be likely to be more susceptible to attack. In the circumstances, it is strongly urged that the immediate disbandment of the camps is a precautionary measure of the utmost urgency.

PERSONAL.

At the Sydney University Union the board of directors tendered a farewell dinner to Captain E. R. Holme, M.A. The president of the union, Mr. W. J. Bradley, B.A., eulogised Professor Holme's recent work for the union and the Sydney University Company, and on behalf of the gathering wished him success in his appointment as chairman of the committee of the Australian Universities for the training of students in the A.I.F. during demobilisation. Captain Holme leaves for London by the Sonoma to-day.

Squadron-Commander Frederick Esk Sandford, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Sandford, formerly of Lithgow, has been awarded the Royal Air Force Cross in recognition of his experimental work.

A private cable message received by Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Dexter, of Abbey-street, Randwick, states that their son, Lieut. J. Dexter, of the 53rd Battalion, has been awarded the Military Cross.

At the close of the fourth law term yesterday, the Full Court (Mr. Justice Pring, Mr. Justice Sly, and Mr. Justice Ferguson) admitted the following as solicitors of the Supreme Court of New South Wales:—Stephen Ahern, James Birnie Jackson, Edward Ralf Mann, B.A., LL.B. (Syd.), and Joseph Glen John Richards. Mr. Pike applied for the removal from the list of barristers at his own request of Ernest Clark and his admission as a solicitor. The application was granted.

The Director of Health, Dr. Cumpston, left Melbourne yesterday for Sydney to consult with the New South Wales Cabinet on matters relating to Spanish influenza and quarantining arrangements.

Driver F. A. Cowper, of the Field Artillery, son of Mr. F. R. Cowper, solicitor, of Sydney, was admitted to the Beaufort War Hospital, Fishpond, Bristol, early this month suffering from bronchial pneumonia in a severe form. It is an interesting fact that Driver Cowper is one of 64 descendants of Governor King who have served in the present war.

Mrs. Holmes, of Bowral, has received advice that her husband, Lieut. Bryan E. Holmes, of the Royal Field Artillery, formerly a sugar planter at Veisaru, Fiji, recently died of pneumonia while on active service.

THE GERMAN NAVY

SURRENDER TO ALLIED FLEETS

LONDON, Nov. 21.

The surrender of 22 German warships was completed to-day without incident.

The German fleet is moored at Lago Bay, in the Firth of Forth.

The battle-cruiser Lion and H.M.A.S. Australia occupied positions of honour, leading the two lines of the Allied fleet through which the surrendered German warships passed.

It is officially announced that Admiral Sir David Beatty met, at 9.30 this morning, the first and main instalment of the German High Sea Fleet surrendering for internment.

The Allied fleets were in two columns, six miles apart. The Germans steamed down the centre. Dead silence was preserved by the Allies until they were past, but when Admiral Beatty, on the Queen Elizabeth, steamed down the line, he met with an overpowering reception. A similar demonstration greeted the French admiral.

A German destroyer struck a mine while crossing the North Sea.

According to a Copenhagen report Kiel messages claim that all the warships demanded under the armistice left their harbours before the 18th, therefore Heligoland will not be occupied. Anglo-Swedish shipping routes have been reopened.

A report from New York states that a German light cruiser, while on its way to surrender, struck a mine and sank in the North Sea.

An American squadron operating as a British unit participated in the surrender of the German fleet.

HOW THE U-BOATS CAME TO HEEL.

Admiral Sir Reginald Tyrwhitt's light cruiser squadron met the submarines at the appointed rendezvous, 20 miles off Harwich, and conveyed them to an anchorage six miles from Felixstowe, where the destroyers Firebrake and Melampus, each carrying 10 submarine crews, took over and occupied them. They then proceeded to Harwich.

It was a thrilling moment off Harwich when the first U boat was sighted, coming from the east. As it passed the destroyer Melampus an order, very characteristic of the British navy, was given: "No cheering or noise of any kind is to be made as the U boats are passing."

A large British airship led in the first section of the German craft. Two German Red Cross boats followed, then came the large U boats, escorted by the destroyer Red Gauntlet. Other U boats following, each with their hatches open, and with no flags or German crews on deck, were similarly escorted.

The fourth U boat was a 300ft submarine cruiser, elaborately camouflaged, with six and eight inch guns, and a crew of 23 on deck.

Throughout all British guns were trained upon the U boats to prevent the possibility of treachery, though there was no likelihood of this, as the guns were trained fore and aft, in accordance with the terms of surrender.

A dramatic moment then came. Admiral Tyrwhitt, from the flagship of the Harwich patrol, sent up a signal ordering the leading destroyer to turn and lead the way to England. He ordered the U boats to follow. The Germans obeyed, and thus the surrender was accomplished, the U boats steaming towards England without a word spoken. Each British cruiser then turned and followed the U boats towards Harwich.

When 20 miles from shore, British crews were put aboard the U boats to take them into harbour, the German sailors remaining on deck. The White Ensign was run up as each U boat entered the harbour, with the German flag underneath. Hospital ships took the German crews back to Germany after each commander had signed a declaration that the submarine was in running order, the periscope intact, and the torpedoes unloaded.

The Admiralty instruction that there was to be no demonstration of any sort in the presence of the U boats were carried out to the letter.

Twenty more will be handed over to-morrow, and 70 others at the week-end.

Throughout, the weather was good. The fog lifted, and the sun shone while British lieutenants boarded the U-boats followed by tars. Each lieutenant exchanged a formal salute with the German captain, who produced papers, which were inspected. A British crew was sent below to see that the machinery had not been tampered with. The Germans had their kits ready packed. Some anger was shown when they learned they had to go to Harwich Harbour as prisoners instead of going aboard hospital ships and immediately returning to Germany. Some German officers wept as their boats passed into the hands of the conquerors. Another was much upset because he held out his hand to a British officer who ignored it. Even the crowds of civilians on Harwich Quay received the Germans without a word, and treated the Huns of the sea with the contempt they deserve. Only when all the U-boats were safely in harbour were the Germans sent to the hospital ships.

All correspondents agree that the most remarkable feature of the ceremony of the handing over of the German submarines was the absence of any demonstration. "Der Tag" passed entirely according to plan. The submariners made no effort to put difficulties in our way, although there were some minor displays of protest. One commanding officer, when a British lieutenant leaped aboard the submarine dashed his marine glasses on the deck in a fit of passion. Another ignored the British officer's salute, and walked abaft the conning-tower without speaking, after he had signed the papers; but most behaved decently, and one talked freely.

The crews showed little interest in the whole business. Their chief anxiety was to return home. The majority of the officers were sprucely dressed, but there was little smartness about the men's appearance. They were mostly wearing dingy, brown working clothes. There were no signs of lack of discipline. The men waited on their officers as usual. A great quantity of pots, pans, and crockery, and many sacks of potatoes, besides innumerable loaves of dark bread, were transferred to the transports.

INTERNED IN HOLLAND.

An Amsterdam message says: Eleven torpedo-boat destroyers from Antwerp arrived at Hansweert and were interned.

HISTORIC NAVAL REVIEW.

An inspiring scene was provided by Wednesday's historic naval review. The Royal despatch boat passed along miles of war vessels of every description—submarines, destroyers, minelayers, airship vessels, mystery ships, so-called "hush" cruisers, leviathan battle-cruisers, and battleships. All the crews manned ship, and greeted the King with tremendous enthusiasm. The American vessels at one point were on the starboard, while vessels belonging to the Australia and New Zealand class were on the port; but there was no distinguishing between the heartiness of the greeting. The Australia flew the Commonwealth flag as well as the white ensign.

GERMANY.

ORDERLY REVOLUTION.

HOSTILITY TO ALLIES.

LONDON, Nov. 21.

Mr. Harold Williams, telegraphing from Geneva, says the German revolution is quite unlike the Russian. There is no exultation of liberty, and not the faintest sign of national repentance. The hostile attitude to the Allies is intensified by the sense of humiliation due to the armistice, for which the Allies, and not the old German rulers, are blamed.

The discipline of the German people is surprisingly good. They are only concerned to adapt their efforts to the new conditions. The Soviets of the soldiers and workmen are willing to assist in the maintenance of public discipline. The Bourgeoisie are forming councils, and business men and intellectuals are seeking representation in the central Soviets. The sanctity of private property is emphasised by a monotonous reiteration of the number of marauders shot.

It is noteworthy that not a single manifesto by any German monarch has been issued formally announcing his abdication.

It is reported from Amsterdam that the "Tagliche Rundschau" declares that over 200 people were killed by an explosion in a factory at Cologne following an unsuccessful attempt by the revolutionaries to persuade the workers to strike.

BAVARIA UNEASY.

The Bavarian Government, fearing that the power of the Spartacus group, which is getting the upper hand in Berlin, will extend to southern Germany, requests the Berlin Government to use the utmost severity against terrorism, otherwise Bavaria will proclaim her independence and negotiate for a separate peace.

THE ARMISTICE TERMS.

An Amsterdam message says that Prince Lichnowsky through "Vorwaerts," appeals to Lord Lansdowne, Viscount Grey, Mr. Asquith, and many personal friends in England to use their influence to moderate the armistice terms which, if executed, will cause misery, starvation, and anarchy.

NO FOOD SUPPLIES YET.

The Ministry for Food announces that no food supplies will be permitted to be sent to Germany until the Allied Food Council has satisfied itself concerning the conditions in Germany.

KAISER'S EFFRONTERY.

DUTCH AMAZED.

The Amsterdam correspondent of the "Daily Express" says that two train loads of stores have arrived at Amerongen Castle for the ex-Kaiser, including large quantities of benzine, petrol, flour, tea, and coffee. The occurrence has caused indignation in Holland, where some of these commodities have not been seen for many months.

William spends most of his time walking in the gardens and motoring. The Dutch authorities frustrated his intention of visiting the military flying camp in Soesterberg. William's lack of consciousness of his position amazes the Dutch. Count Bentinck and family publicly announce that they are only entertaining the ex-Kaiser at the Dutch Government's request.

The Amsterdam "Handelsblad" says the ex-Crown Prince and suite will be interned in a small house on the island of Wieringan, in the Zuyder Zee.

TO THE RHINE.

THE ALLIED ADVANCE.

A French communique on Wednesday stated: We passed Givet, where 8000 Allied prisoners were collected, occupied Neuf Chateau and Etaples, reached St. Avold and Saarbrucken in Lorraine, and Obernai south-west of Strassburg, in Alsace. We occupy Neuf Breisach, Huninge, and St. Louis, on the left bank of the Rhine.

An American communique states: The Third Army crossed the German 1914 frontier and entered Luxemburg. We progressed further in Southern Belgium, and reached the line of Gandritigen, Welmeringen, Dudelange, Mondercange, Antel-bas, and Grandel.

DISORDERLY RETREAT.

An Amsterdam message says that West German newspapers describe the pellmell retreat of the German soldiers. They commandeered trains, even the roofs and footboards of carriages being occupied. Some were killed while passing through tunnels, the hopeless disorder being reminiscent of the terrible scenes in Russia. Pillaging and looting are going on. Soldiers frequently attack the local gendarmerie.

The German High Command sent an insolent reply to Marshal Foch's protest against acts of violence during the retreat. It says: "The responsibility rests with the Allies, whose armistice terms are so exacting that it is impossible adequately to protect our own and enemy populations."

THE UKRAINE.

ANTI-BOLSHEVIK SUCCESS.

The Washington correspondent of the "New York Times" says the greatest satisfaction is evinced in official and diplomatic circles at reports of the overthrow of the Ukrainian Government by General Denikine's anti-Bolshevist troops. It is pointed out that Denikine's success will greatly facilitate the handling of Russian problems by the Allies.

FINNISH COAST BOMBARDED.

Helsingfors reports state that three Russian warships flying the red flag bombarded Vikalla, on the Finnish coast, for three hours.

THE AMERICANS.

ARMY IN FRANCE.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 21.

A Washington message states that when the armistice was signed the United States troops in France totalled 1,900,000. The Americans brought 900 locomotives and 13,000 freight cars from America to France, and 50,000 motor vehicles. They constructed 800 miles of railway.

UNDESIRABLE ALIENS.

In answer to a question as to what steps the Government was taking to prevent the influx of German and other undesirable aliens after the war, Sir George Cave (Home Secretary) stated that directly peace was declared the Government would send back all undesirable interned aliens, and would introduce a bill immediately to prevent them returning, also to secure the same power of exclusion as during the war.

IN CRUEL PLIGHT.

BRITISH PRISONERS.

A SHARP PROTEST.

LONDON, Nov. 21.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Bonar Law, in the House of Commons, said Sir Douglas Haig had sent the following wireless message to German headquarters:—"Information has reached the British Government of the shocking lack of organisation in the release of the prisoners, who are returning on foot, miserably clothed, without food, without escorts and guides, resulting in lamentable sufferings and mortality. The Government cannot tolerate a continuance of this cruel treatment, and must insist on adequate arrangements being made by the German authorities, with whom the full responsibility lies, otherwise we shall be compelled to take this into account in any question of revictualling Germany or satisfying the requirements of the German population." The Government and Sir Douglas Haig are ready to forward food and clothing and transport to the prisoners' camps. Our Allies are being asked to co-operate.

The Quartermaster-General states that the arrangements for the repatriation of war prisoners are working satisfactorily. Sixteen hundred have arrived at Dover and 600 more are expected to-night.

Two hundred and eighty-five officers and 2922 men have arrived at Hull. Also over 5000 have arrived in the area of the Fifth Army in France.

The tragedy of the returning prisoners has distinctly increased the demand of the public for the punishment of the leading criminals, including the Kaiser, and the insistence that Germany shall not be allowed food till the Allies are satisfied that prisoners still held in Germany are better treated.

The subject is attracting more attention in England than the general election. Many writers declare that the Hun's soul is unchanged.

Lord Curzon, replying in the House of Lords to a suggestion that the Germans guilty of crimes against our prisoners be made personally responsible, said the Government was giving the matter attention. They were consulting with the law officers.

It is reported from Copenhagen that Dr. Delbruck, Herr Naumann, and other German Conservatives and politicians have asked the Government to appoint a committee consisting of prominent neutrals to investigate the allegations of the Allies that Germany has violated international law, and request that an investigation be conducted regardless of the rank and dignity of those implicated.

PEACE PROBLEMS.

QUESTIONS FOR CONFERENCE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.

The Paris correspondent of the Chicago "News" says that before the Peace Conference is convened the Allies must agree upon three principles—first, shall the conference be open or secret; second, equality of economic treatment of all nations; third, a league of nations, with reduction of armament.

Thereafter the conference will proceed with the discussion of all the remaining questions, including the disposition of territory on the west bank of the Rhine, whether Germany shall annex Austria, the future status of the German colonies, whether small States shall be encouraged to federalise, the new boundaries of restored nationalities, and how restoration and indemnities shall be effected.

WILSON'S CRITICS.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS ATTACKED.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 21.

A Washington report states that Senator Watson, attacking President Wilson because the Government had taken over the cables, said that if President Wilson attended the Peace Conference the Government would be able to suppress everything it desired regarding Wilsonian activities abroad.

Senator Reed attacked the League of Nations as the most monstrous doctrine ever proposed by an American President because it embroiled the United States in European troubles.

FREEDOM OF THE SEAS.

The "New York Times," in an editorial article, says:—"President Wilson's principle of the freedom of the seas is not accepted unanimously in the United States because "the principle goes beyond the latest authoritative American declaration concerning the matter as laid down at The Hague Conference in 1909. It is asserted had President Wilson's principle been endorsed during the war the Allied nations could not have conquered Germany. It is further declared that the application of the principle would have indefinitely prolonged the American Civil War."

AUSTRALIANS REPATRIATED.

Captain N. G. Blanchard (of Sydney), 20th Battalion, who has arrived from Holland, had a lengthy and varied experience of prison camps in various parts of Germany, including strafe camps at Strohn and Nierkechen. The officers were treated with every imaginable indignity, particularly from Commandant Niemeyer, at Strohn.

Among the repatriated is Lieutenant A. M'Gown (of Sydney), 13th Battalion. Both officers are in good health.

Of 37 other ranks who have arrived in Ripon, 75 per cent. were captured at Fleurbaix in July, 1916. They include:—

Sgts. Bonnett (Temora), Ridley (East Melbourne), H. Simpson (Sydney), Collett (Perth), Cole (Bendigo), K. Newman, Curphey (Melbourne), R. White (Glenelg), M'inerney (Kapunda), Vidern (Adelaide), Speakmate, and M'Curley, 54th Battalion; Shirley, 55th Battalion.

Corporals L. Bailey, A. Mason (Sydney), Eads (Coogee), W. Robinson (Gawler), Stringfellow, 55th Battalion; Stanton, 53rd Battalion.

Privates Dearman and A. M'Donald, 16th Battalion.

SINN FEIN LITERATURE.

The police raided the Sinn Fein headquarters in Dublin and seized election literature. They also arrested Brennan, a Sinn Fein election agent.

AUSTRALIA AND AMERICA.

Sir T. B. Robinson (Agent-General for Queensland) presided at the Australian and New Zealand Club's luncheon to General Biddle, commander of the American army in the United Kingdom, and Admiral Robison, of the American navy. General Biddle, responding to his health, said the American and Australian soldiers had entered the war for the same cause, and friendships had been formed between them which he believed would continue.

QUEENSLAND LAND LAWS.

At a meeting of the New Zealand and Australian Land Company, Ltd., in Edinburgh, Mr. David Murray, chairman, condemned the Queensland Labour party's land rental proposals as confiscatory. The military party in Germany treated a solemn engagement as a scrap of paper, and similarly the Queensland Bolsheviks would treat pastoral property statutes as empty words.

SOUTH AFRICAN POLITICS.

CAPETOWN, Nov. 21.

A Maritzburg message states that considerable comment has been aroused by a letter addressed to the president of the Women's Union by Mrs. Botha Reid, daughter of the Prime Minister, in reply to an election circular from that body. Mrs. Reid says: "What you hopelessly fail to do is to view the present political situation in South Africa in its true perspective. While you are immersed in petty politics, local option, and social reform, disruptive forces are gathering which will shake the union to its foundation, and sweep your organisation out of existence."

LATE CABLE NEWS.

We occupied Zitterherm, Phalsbourg, and Gotteshelm, in Lorraine; and Neuf Briesach, Huningue, and Merkolshum, in Alsace.

CONDITIONS ON TROOPSHIP.

GRAVE ALLEGATIONS.

SWEPT BY INFLUENZA.

LONDON, Nov. 21.

The Australian naval authorities are instituting an inquiry into conditions aboard the troopship Baramba, which has arrived at London. She carried over a thousand men from Victoria and South Australia, the majority infantrymen, also a railway section, and about 100 sailors for the Australian navy. Overcrowding gave rise to serious complaints. The deck accommodation was such that the men below were only able for short periods to take exercise and play games on the deck in instalments. The bath accommodation was deficient, and there was frequent shortage of washing water.

Influenza broke out after leaving Capetown. The epidemic swept the entire ship, 800 being sick at one time. The hospital accommodation was limited, and patients were lying everywhere on the decks and hatches.

During six days between Capetown and Sierra Leone the outbreak was at its height. There were 25 deaths, six occurring on one day. The chaplain held a funeral a day. Medical supplies were inadequate, and were quickly exhausted. The two doctors worked manfully. Many men in the medical sections became ill, and volunteers attended the sick.

Conditions were speedily ameliorated after arrival at Sierra Leone, where the vessel remained a week awaiting escort. Fresh supplies of drugs were obtained. Within two days most of the sufferers were convalescent.

The Baramba continued her voyage with a large convoy under escort of the cruiser-destroyer Britannia. She picked up a flotilla of destroyers in the Bay of Biscay, upon which the Britannia departed for Gibraltar. The Britannia was torpedoed and sunk an hour later.

Men aboard the Baramba state that the vessel was in a filthy condition before she left Australia. The planking covering the iron decks was so badly laid and the interstices filled with dirt, that it was impossible to clean it. Meat was cut up on the deck. When some of the planking was lifted a seething mass of maggots was found. The vessel was quite unsuitable for 800 men to sleep in her single 'tween decks.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

The following naval official statement is published in connection with the foregoing message:—The actual number carried in the Baramba on this voyage was 997. The vessel has previously carried 1258 without complaint, and is one of the best troopships in the service.

EX-GERMAN COLONIES.

BRITISH ATTITUDE.

Mr. Walter Long (Secretary of State for the Colonies), in a letter to Sir Charles Wade (Agent-General for New South Wales), dated 14th inst., says: "I understand you and your colleagues entertain some anxiety regarding the position of the ex-German colonies. I am authorised by the Prime Minister to tell you that when Mr. Balfour and I spoke on the subject we had the entire approval and assent of the Prime Minister and his colleagues in the Government. The Government's whole support will be given to the claims of the Dominions. The Prime Minister has already made this perfectly clear to the representatives of the Great Allied Powers at Paris."

INTERNMENT IN U.S.A.

A Washington message states that owing to the spread of Bolshevik doctrines in the United States the Government has decided to continue the policy of internment of aliens.

NORTHERN HUNGARY.

Fighting continues in Northern Hungary between Czech and Magyar troops. It is reported that Polish troops summoned the fortress of Posen to surrender, and also to surrender the whole province.

MACKENSEN'S ARMY.

An Amsterdam message states that Mackensen's army has broken up into several parts, and is marching west, 20,000 via Kronstadt, and 35,000 via Orsova.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

King George and Queen Mary will visit Paris during November.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Bonar Law stated that the Military Service Act would lapse from the date of the ratification of the peace treaty.

The Government has declined to release conscientious objectors from their present employments, as it would confer an advantage over the soliders and sailors.

Sir Leo Chiozza Money, M.P., has joined the Labour party.

An aeroplane was used in an election campaign for the first time on Sunday. A candidate alighting in a constituency near London distributed leaflets.

Mr. Bonar Law, in the House of Commons, outlined the gratuity scheme for ex-service men. A private will receive £5 for the first year, and 10s monthly thereafter to five years. The maximum gratuity to non-commissioned officers will be £39.

Oxford University has accepted an endowment of £25,000 for the establishment of a Marshal Foch professorship of French literature.

Lord Curzon, when moving in the House of Lords for leave to introduce a bill to increase the staff of the Labour exchanges, said that a million people would be out of work in a week, and there might break out civic disorder unless provision were made to re-employ them.

A Washington report says President Wilson signed the Emergency Agricultural Appropriation Bill with a rider providing for national prohibition from July 1, 1919, until the American army is demobilised.

HISTORIC MEMORIALS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The historic memorials committee, which deals with the collection of historic memorials of representative men, has decided that the art advisory board, as originally constituted, and the personnel be dissolved, and a new board, consisting of Mr. G. V. F. Mann (chairman) and Mr. M. J. M'Nally and Mr. Will Ashton, be appointed.

WAR NOTES.

SURRENDER OF ENEMY WARSHIPS.

There has never been, in this or any other war, a more spectacular confirmation of a claim of complete victory than the surrender of the German warships to the British fleet, which is now going on. The imagination can reconstruct, from the correspondent's descriptions, the thrilling spectacle of the units of German naval power coming sullenly across to the long, grim, grey lines of waiting British ships. Fittingly has it been called "The Silent Navy." Silently it received the puppyhood jeers and defiance of the Kaiser's new fleets; silently it held and guarded all the Seven Seas; and silently it has received the surrender of the warships of the beaten and cringing German Empire. It should be understood that the whole of the German navy is not being surrendered—only enough of it to reduce Germany's naval strength to a negligible quantity. Under the armistice terms she has to surrender six battle-cruisers, which are probably all the ships of this type she has. She has also to give up 10 battleships. It was calculated that she had from 16 to 20 Dreadnoughts and 23 pre-Dreadnoughts, but according to a cablegram published yesterday Captain Persius, the German naval writer, says that, owing to shortage of metal, all Germany's pre-Dreadnoughts had been dismantled. Therefore she is now left with perhaps 10 Dreadnoughts. The Allies also demanded eight light cruisers and 50 destroyers out of Germany's fleets of some 40 cruisers and 150 destroyers. Germany will therefore retain a considerable number of light warships, but not enough of either light or heavy vessels to allow her to remain a potential danger. It appears that the submarines are being surrendered off Harwich at the rate of 20 per day. As the armistice calls for the surrender of the whole submarine fleet of 160 vessels, the process of delivering up these hated commerce-destroyers will probably occupy some days.

BOLSHEVIKS AND THE ALLIES.

As soon as the Allies are free from the urgent and important duties laid upon them under the armistice, they may be expected to apply themselves to the problem now provided by Russia. Conditions in Russia have been demanding the attention of the civilised world for some time, but the Allies have been too busy drawing the teeth of militaristic Germany to do much else. Three expeditions, however, have been closing in on the Bolsehviks—from Murman, Archangel, and Siberia—and when Germany is made harmless the Allies will be able to extend and develop these enterprises, if that is their desire. It is unlikely, however, that they will elect to organise any big move against the Bolsheviks, either from the north or the east, now that the Black and the Baltic Seas are open to them. The British now hold the Dardanelles and command the Bosphorus, and that their ships may now freely navigate the Black Sea is shown by the fact that British troops were recently landed at the Roumanian port of Constanza. To-day's cablegrams indicate that the route into the Baltic is rapidly being cleared. The Allied expedition which has its base at Archangel appears to be meeting Bolshevik assaults on a considerable scale on the Dvina River. This force is not in an enviable position. The White Sea is now frozen over, and Archangel will remain completely cut off from communication with the Allies, except by wireless, for several months. It is to be hoped that the troops there, which appear to comprise mostly British and Americans, will not be attacked in such force as to render reinforcements and supplies necessary. The need for relieving the pressure on this force, together with the world-wide demand that some semblance of order be restored to Russia, may induce the Allies to act as soon as they are finished with Germany. If so, they will probably make their base on the Black Sea, which is not partly frozen, like the Baltic, in winter. There is not there the necessity of having treacherous Germans in their rear, as would be the case in the Baltic, and, further, many of the pro-Ally elements of Russia are gathered in the south-east, near the Black Sea.

VALUE OF BAKU OILFIELDS.

If the first occupation of Baku, on the western shores of the Caspian Sea, was of short duration, there is no reason to suppose that the British and Russian troops, which were recently reported to have arrived there, will not achieve their aim on this occasion. It has previously been pointed out that the restoration of normal conditions in this region would have an important effect upon the reconstruction of economic life in Russia. Even although the Allies no longer need her military co-operation in order to effect the defeat of Germany, the restoration of law and order in Russia is essential if the peace of Europe is to be completely secured in the near future. "Oil," wrote Mr. N. Nordman in the "Westminster Gazette" on the occasion of the first arrival of British troops in Baku, "plays a very important part in Russian industry. Before the Russo-Japanese war the total output of crude oil in Russia amounted to 700 million poods. During the disturbances of 1905 the oil wells were partly destroyed, with the result that their output considerably diminished. But shortly afterwards the production increased again, and in 1913 it amounted to over half a milliard poods (i.e., not quite 10 million tons). Three-quarters of the oil production of Russia is concentrated in the Baku region . . . the rest coming from the Grozni fields and Maikop, in the north-west of the Caucasus, from Emba (north of the Caspian Sea), and a very small quantity from Turkestan. . . . The export of Russian oil chiefly consists of its by-products, while as fuel it is almost entirely consumed in the country. The extremely large consumption of oil as fuel is a marked characteristic of Russian economic life, and it is for this reason that the production of oil is of such great importance to Russian industry, and also to what may be termed the backbone of the Russian economic system—the railways. In 1912 the Trans-Caucasian railway used 15 million poods, and the Vladi-Caucasian railway 17 million poods."

DEPORTATION OF ALIENS.

The announcement that it is the intention of the British Government to deport, immediately peace is declared, all undesirable aliens who have been interned will be read with interest in all the British dominions. The question "What shall we do with our interned aliens?" has been discussed in Canada, South Africa, and New Zealand, as well as in Australia, but no conclusion has been reached, and guidance has been awaited from the mother country. The problem is by no means solved yet. It is to be presumed that the disposal of an interned alien is entirely in the hands of the self-governing dominion in which he lived and which interned him; but it is probable that the fate of the men taken from the conquered German colonies and interned in the dominions will be decided by the Imperial authorities, at whose disposal the colonies are being held. New Zealand, for instance, holds a considerable number of Germans from Samoa, and the total of prisoners from German South-west and East Africa now in South African camps must be very great. The whole subject, apart from certain political considerations, is likely to be a source of argument in the future, when the usual British reluctance to force even a hint of injustice upon anyone will be in conflict with the wishes of those who feel a natural resentment against the men who plotted against us while they lived in our midst, and who are determined that such a thing shall not again be possible.

LABOUR SHORTAGE.

DEMAND EXCEEDS SUPPLY.

A report by the Acting Director of the State Labour Exchanges for October, submitted to the Minister for Labour and Industry yesterday, shows that 1454 persons sought employment, while there were 2225 applications from employers for labour. A total of 1672 persons were sent to employment, and there was at the end of the month a surplus of 600 demands over the supply of labour available.

ANZACS ON LEAVE.

ARRIVING TO-MORROW.

A contingent of Anzac soldiers will arrive to-morrow morning by two special trains from Melbourne, and friends and relations who have tickets marked "L" from the Staff Officer for Invalids, will be admitted to the Anzac Buffet at 9.30 a.m. to meet the N.S.W. men.

The Queenslanders will remain on the station, where their relations may see them on the platform. They will leave by a special train at 10.13 a.m. after morning tea. The voluntary aids on duty will be:—Meet trains: The Record V.A.D. Anzac Buffet: North Ashfield V.A.D. Tea on station for Queenslanders: Cooking V.A.D. There will be no men aids on the train journeys.

Motor cars numbered on the Red Cross register from 231 to 346 are required to be at the Chalmers-street entrance to the railway station at 9 a.m. to-morrow.

The honorary organiser of strong posts (Mr. Downs Johnstone) announces that the men will be met by the State Commandant (General Lee) and Headquarters Staff, the Lord Mayor, and the Government representatives on arrival at the Central Railway Station at 9.12 a.m. and 9.35 a.m. to-morrow. Bands will be in attendance, and the procession will move at 10 a.m., and proceed via Eddy-avenue, Rawson-place, George-street, Martin-place, Moore-street, Castlereagh-street, Bligh-street, and Bent-street, entering the Domain in Macquarie-street for the Anzac Buffet. Other bands will be stationed at important points en route, and a full muster of all strong posts representing the various municipalities will assemble to give the heroes an enthusiastic welcome. It is anticipated that many thousands of city and suburban citizens will join in the welcome, and that the whole of the city will be beflagged and decorated for the occasion. A special invitation is extended to all bands to participate in the welcome.

The reception committee reports that on leaving the Anzac Buffet the men will be given leave until 10 a.m. on Monday.

MONDAY'S RECEPTION.

The returned Anzacs will assemble at the Anzac Buffet, Domain, at 10 a.m. on Monday. A procession will leave the Domain at 11.15 a.m. The route of the procession will be from Anzac Buffet, Domain, via Queen's-square, Macquarie-street, Hunter-street, Pitt-street, Martin-place, George-street to the Town Hall. His Excellency the Governor will represent his Excellency the Governor-General, and will take the salute in Macquarie-street, near Parliament House. On arrival at the Town Hall, the men will be greeted by a fanfare of trumpets. Short speeches of welcome will be made by the Governor, the Lord Mayor, and representatives of the Federal and State Governments. A luncheon in the basement of the Town Hall will be given to the returned Anzacs, and two relatives of each.

Mr. Downs Johnstone announces that he has made arrangements with the Minister for Education for the Public school children to witness the parade and civic reception on Monday. For the convenience of the children the entire area from the Registrar-General's Office (including the whole of Macquarie-street) to Hunter-street, and from Macquarie-street to the "Herald" Office in Hunter-street, will be reserved for the scholars of the metropolitan Public schools.

All strong posts usually occupying the positions outside the line of march will take up their positions in Pitt-street, from the "Herald" Office to the corner of Martin-place, and any of the positions between the Town Hall and Martin-place in George-street. Macquarie and Hunter streets will be closed to traffic from 10 a.m. on Monday. In Martin-place strong posts will assemble as usual, and in addition the Mutual Life and Citizens' strong post (with choir) will occupy the band stand, and will be in association with the Commonwealth Bank and G.P.O. strong posts. The Returned Sailors and Soldiers' Imperial League will line Martin-place, and boy scouts will act in a similar capacity in George-street, from Martin-place to the Town Hall. The Marcus Clark, Ltd., strong post (with choir and orchestra) will take the position between Queen Victoria Markets and the Town Hall. Bands will be stationed at different points en route.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

It has now been decided to grant the returning Anzacs 60 days' leave in Australia, and a sustenance allowance of 3s a day.

STATE PARLIAMENT.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BILL.

Remarkable progress was made in the Legislative Assembly yesterday afternoon with the Local Government Bill. Thursday's sitting was resumed at 2.30 p.m., thus avoiding questions and other preliminaries. In a little more than two hours the remaining 234 clauses were dealt with, only two or three being postponed as contentious. There was practically no debate, the proceedings consisting of the Chairman of Committees reading the titles of the clauses and declaring them carried on the voices. A record for legislative work was established.

The bill consists of 713 clauses. There still remain to be dealt with the clauses dealing with the broad principles of local government, such as the franchise, and the method of imposing rates and taxes. These will be taken next week, but the Government does not propose to ask the Legislative Council to deal with the bill until next session.

At 5.10 p.m. the House rose until 4.30 p.m. on Monday next.

WAR CHEST DAY.

On War Chest Day, next Friday, the officers of the Department of Labour and Industry will control a stall at 78 Elizabeth-street. All the usual stall features will be embraced, and a lucky dip giving good prizes will be a specialty. Raffles will be conducted throughout the day, and a concert party will be in attendance. Arrangements have been made for supplying morning tea, lunch, and afternoon tea, on the first floor of the building (University-chambers), and musical items will be rendered in the lunch-room.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association will hold a gift evening to-night, at Central-lane, city. Rabbi Cohen will be present, and Lieut. Keysor, V.C., and Corpl. Cant. V.C., have promised to attend. The association will have a stall on War Chest Day at the Imperial Arcade, Pitt-street. Gifts are invited.

Miss Rose Lyons has arranged an entertainment to take place at St. James's Hall on Tuesday next, in aid of War Chest Day.

Mr. A. A. Hall, secretary of the Commercial Travellers' Association, desires to notify members and their lady friends that a musical gift evening will be held in the club rooms this evening. Members are asked to provide gifts towards the furnishing of the C.T.A. stall on War Chest Day. The programme is being arranged by Mr. Roy Allen.

The 19th Battalion Comforts Fund will decorate and stock stalls in Rowe-street on War Chest Day, and a big return is expected from their work. They are making a special effort to provide goods suitable for Christmas presents.

On War Chest Day the 17th Battalion Comforts Fund will have a stall at both entrances to the Theatre Royal.

RAILWAY AND TRAMWAY SERVICE.

The executive committee of the Amalgamated Railway and Tramway Service Association has asked the Government to appoint a Royal Commission of a non-legal character to inquire into and report upon railway and tramway affairs. Increases in freights and fares, the "dissatisfaction of the public with the railway and tramway services," and the "seething discontent of employees, and wholesale resignations from the service, are amongst the matters put forward by the association as demanding investigation. "The association," stated the general secretary in his letter to the Premier, "is confident that an impartial investigation into railway and tramway affairs will be as resultful as those conducted at the instance of the Federal Government into the military and naval administration, and as productive of revelations calling for immediate and drastic action as the inquiry conducted by Mr. G. Mason Allard into the State Public Service."

A mass meeting of railway and tramway employees has been called by the association to consider this matter and the "one big union" scheme, and will be held at Bowen-buildings at 8 p.m. to-day.

JERVIS BAY SITE.

MR. WATT SAYS NO.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Acting Prime Minister, Mr. Watt, in answer to a question by Mr. Riley (N.S.W.) in the House of Representatives, said that he had discussed by telephone with Mr. Fuller, in the absence of Mr. Holman (Premier of New South Wales) the suggested removal of the Sydney Quarantine Station to Jervis Bay; and had pointed out the impossibility of accepting such a suggestion, and of locating the quarantine station in a wholly unsuitable area. A conference would be held with the New South Wales Government on Tuesday, and the Director of Quarantine (Dr. Cumpston) would leave for Sydney to-night if necessary.

DR. ARTHUR'S COMMENTS.

Dr. Richard Arthur, M.L.A., speaking to one of our representatives yesterday remarked:—"The Federal authorities are making a sad muddle of this quarantine business, simply because they refuse to accept advice. The suggestion made by the State Government that Jervis Bay should be used as a camp for contacts was an excellent one, and should have been adopted at once. What are they doing instead? They are segregating indiscriminately at North Head cases and contacts of what seem to be two entirely distinct diseases, or at least two distinct forms of a condition known by the same name. The men from the Medic cannot be prevented from coming in contact with the passengers and crews of other vessels in quarantine, and yet I say without hesitation that if there have been 160 cases of influenza on the Medic, and that they have all been slight, then this is not the same disease that is ravaging the cities and camps of New Zealand. If this be true, the bearing of it is that it is absolutely unwarrantable to expose the rest of the troops landed from the Medic to the possibility of being infected by what is known as Spanish influenza. Two quarantine stations—one for the patients and contacts of the virulent disease, and the other as an observation and testing ground—are needed. Jervis Bay would serve the latter purpose admirably. The same position may arise with the second contingent of Anzacs who arrive next week. Are they to be dumped into the North Head station simply because what may have been only ordinary influenza has broken out on board? An exactly similar position might have come about during the smallpox epidemic in 1913. This was a mild form of the disease with no mortality. But suppose a vessel had come into Sydney Harbour with cases of true malignant smallpox on board, and the patients and contacts had been landed at North Head to mix with the cases and contacts that were already there. What would have been said if a number of the local contacts had caught malignant smallpox and died? The sooner Mr. Watt and his advisers abandon this 'not possible' attitude and accept commonsense proposals from whatever quarter they come, the better for New South Wales and for their reputation."

CORRESPONDENTS' VIEWS.

Mr. George D. Allen writes, as secretary of the Yass-Canberra-Jervis Bay Railway Decentralisation League, protesting against any proposal to remove the quarantine station to Jervis Bay. He says it would be detrimental to our future naval policy, and adds:—"If it was a mistake to place the quarantine station at Sydney, the first port of the State, why repeat the blunder by placing it at Jervis Bay, on the shores of which in the near future it is obvious a great maritime city will arise? Broken Bay, on the other hand, is admirably suited for the purpose mentioned. Situated within 20 miles of Sydney, it is handy to both Sydney and Newcastle, with ample deep water for anchorage, and plenty of land available for the erection of the station. With the demobilisation of the military camps, there is an abundance of material for the speedy erection of all the buildings necessary, and herein lies the surest and quickest solution of the problem at present perturbing the minds of the health authorities."

L. Montgomery, Hunter's Hill, writes commending the leader in yesterday's "Herald" regarding the suggested removal of the quarantine station from the present site, and adds:—"It cannot be denied that distance lessens the risk of escape of contacts. Still there is the greatest risk, and if any do escape, no punishment is severe enough for them." He also emphasises the desirableness of people using straws at all soft drink fountains, and the danger, especially at the present time, of people expectorating on footpaths and in other public places.

MONARO BY-ELECTION

BRAIDWOOD, Friday.

The poll to-morrow for the Monaro by-election is expected to be a heavy one, as a result of the strenuous advocacy by the Nationalist and Labour supporters. There are 60 polling places, and practically every outlying centre has been visited and thoroughly worked. Much depends upon the attitude of the small farmer. There is also a big silent vote in the larger towns. Whatever the result it will probably not be an overwhelming victory for either side. The Premier put in a strenuous time to-day motoring from Araluen to Braidwood, thence to Gundillion and back again, and he made his final address at Braidwood this evening. He motored on to Goulburn after the meeting, and will arrive in Sydney on Saturday morning.

MURDER TRIAL.

QUESTION OF IDENTITY.

CAPETOWN, Nov. 21.

Evidence for the prosecution in the trial of Percy Dargin for the murder of a fellow-clerk named Glanville closed to-day. Cross-examination was chiefly directed at shaking the evidence of a witness living in the vicinity of the murder, who stated that on the night of the murder a man knocked at the door at a late hour asking the way to Valkenburg Asylum. Witness and his wife identified the accused as the man.

In the cross-examination of the police, it was stated that a few days after the murder a man named W. Dennk Ward, who had been at Valkenburg Asylum, left Capetown, and proceeded to Kimberley, where he committed suicide. At the inquest evidence showed that he went to a tailor to get a suit of clothes cleaned, and warned the tailor against letting the police know, as the police were after him. The tailor had since died from influenza.

An attendant at Valkenburg Asylum said that Ward was there as a voluntary boarder, suffering from drink. A porter at an hotel where Ward stayed said that the morning before Ward left Capetown he noticed a change in his demeanour, and he appeared suffering under great anxiety.

SCHOONER FOUNDERS.

BUNDABERG (Q.), Friday.

The schooner Scout, whilst being towed by the steamer Warooka from Marble Island, near Mackay to Maryborough, sprung a leak yesterday between Gladstone and Bundaberg, and foundered. The captain and crew escaped in boats.

RETURNED SOLDIERS.

At the committee meeting of the New South Wales branch of the Returned Sailors and Soldiers' Imperial League of Australia, held on Thursday last, a resolution was carried, stating that all information or inquiries by returned soldiers could be obtained gratuitously at the headquarters of the league, Macdonell House, Pitt-street, Sydney, or through any of the 45 other branches in the State of New South Wales, and that a special investigating officer was employed at the league's headquarters to deal with all such matters.

It was also resolved,—"That this league desires to place on record the indignation and contempt of its members at the motion of friendliness to enemy subjects passed at the One Big Union Conference, and also wishes to record its disapproval of the attitude of similar conferences, and particularly the Perth Labour Conference, in practically proposing to abandon the struggle at the time when the Allies' prospects were of a gloomy description."

PASTORALISTS' AWARD.

MELBOURNE Friday.

Parties to the proposed variation of the Pastoralists' Award spoke to the minutes of Mr. Justice Higgins's determination in the Arbitration Court. His Honor said he would adopt the weekly average computation to ascertain, under the clause, what female cooks should be paid a minimum rate. Mr. Grayndler, for the Union, asked that, as a difference of 21s had been proposed, to be made between the adult found rate, and the adult not found rate, in fixing 42s as the weekly pay with keep, the same rate should be preserved as to pay for youths, boys, and boundary-riders. That would make the not found pay for youths 41s and not found pay for boys under 17 years old 36s, and the not found rate for boundary riders 61/. His Honor agreed to do that. His Honor ascertained that both parties saw no objection to the variation proposed to be made coming into force at the end of the present month.

WHEAT SALE.

INDIGNANT STATEMENT BY MR. WATT.

"SICK AND TIRED OF ATTACKS."

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the House of Representatives to-day Mr. Lynch (N.S.W.) asked whether, in view of the imminence of the establishment of a fourth wheat pool, the Government would take steps to prevent "the wholesale robbery of the genuine wheat grower" by preventing gambling in wheat scrip. Mr. Watt said that he was not very sure that there would be a wheat pool next year. Unless certin things were cleaned up the Government did not propose to be embarrassed by the constant attacks, and to be treated like a band of bandits trying to rob the farmer when it was doing its utmost to assist the wheat grower. He was heartily sick and tired of the many attacks which were being made on the Government, when it was endeavouring to discharge such an important national function.

MR. GRAHAME'S EXPLANATION

The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Grahame), referring to the denial by the Acting Prime Minister, Mr. Watt, of the statement that a sale of wheat at 4s 9d per bushel had been made by Mr. Hughes, said yesterday that the apparent contradiction was due to a difference of opinion as to what actually constituted a sale.

Mr. Grahame repeated his statement, as published in the "Herald" yesterday, that three months ago the Australian Wheat Board had authorised Mr. Hughes to sell wheat to the British Food Commission at 4s 9d per bushel. The offer was made, and not withdrawn, and recently the British Food Commission gave notice that it wanted to clinch with the offer. The Wheat Board was bound by that notice, and at its last meeting had decided unanimously, with the full support of the wheatgrowers' representative, to adhere to the original offer.

Mr. Grahame added it was these facts that had caused him to say the wheat had been sold. Mr. Watt possibly did not regard them as constituting the actual sale. He had telegraphed the information to Mr. Watt.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Reference was made in the House of Representatives to-day to the declaration by the Minister for Agriculture in New South Wales (Mr. Grahame) that a million tons of wheat had been sold in London at 4s 9d per bushel. "I saw the statement," said the Acting Prime Minister (Mr. Watt), "and immediately telegraphed to the Premier of New South Wales (Mr. Holman), giving him my views of the matter, and asked him to state what justification there was for the statement."

NO SALE.

CORRESPONDENCE TABLED.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

All the correspondence between Mr. Hughes and the Government since March last relating to wheat was tabled in Parliament. It shows that no sale has been made. Commenting on it, Mr. Watt said:—"All the different Governments have co-operated with a wonderful seal all through this critical time, and if you can get to the back of the best wheat minds of Australian growers or dealers who understand the truth of the situation, they will admit that if it had not been for this co-operative work which the Governments and banks and the growers have joined in, their wheat, instead of being worth four or five shillings a bushel, would not be worth an old hat. (Hear, hear.) It is just as well that the farmers should understand that I do not blame the farmer, because he is a busy man, with his nose to the plough, the reaper, and the drill; but he has been badly led or misled, and is not in a position to judge these things, and they have constantly represented to him that the Government has been bent on robbing him instead of helping him, with the result that he has given no credit to the Commonwealth or State Governments, who have been handling the matter. Until this particular matter of the false statements is cleaned up by a frank admission by members of the board who have made statements, I intend to see that the Prime Minister does nothing further to sell the wheat in London. We cannot go on being treated like pickpockets when we are doing our best as public trustees.

Mr. Lynch (N.S.W.): The majority of the growers are behind you.

Mr. Watt: Perhaps they are. There is a limit to our patience, and the mode and incessancy of these attacks must stop. I will go further, and say that I am looking forward not only to the sale of the wheat we have in Australia, but of the wheat that is still growing. If the grower in the four wheat-growing States believes that he can attend to this matter better than the Government, this Government, at any rate, is prepared to help him take charge of the whole wheat problem himself. Questions of stacking, preserving, reconditioning, shipping, selling, and financing are involved. It is a gigantic business, and if the farmer thinks he can do it better than we can, and provide a better return for himself, let him take it on. Any proposition of this kind will receive prompt and sympathetic consideration from this Government. We will, of course, clean up the old stocks, but I will give an open invitation to the farmers to open a new wheat pool of their own for the coming harvest. Until there is a complete understanding for the new season there will be no future pool in which the Federal Government will join, but if it becomes perfectly clear that the farmers want us to go on doing the work, we will do it as well as we are able, and do it. I hope, with true farmers' representation on the Central Board. I do not want the farmers, however, to think that there is any doubt about the guarantee which has been entered into. That contract will be observed, and as prompt and as full payment as the circumstances and resources of this country will allow will be made.

NEWINGTON COLLEGE

WAR MEMORIAL.

The old boys of Newington College have rendered a magnificent service to the Empire. Eighty-three of them have made the last great sacrifice, and old Newingtonians who were unable to go to the front, as well as those who have returned, yesterday decided to erect a fitting memorial. To initiate the movement a luncheon was held at Farmer's. Mr. Henry Gorman, who presided, mentioned that it was just 52 years ago since he left the college.

After an eloquent address by the headmaster (Rev. C. J. Prescott, M.A.) all joined heartily in the school song, especially the lines:—

Some in war have striven,
Some their brains have given,
Some have fought in manly sport,
And all were by a common impulse driven.

Mr. Gorman said that 550 Newingtonians had offered themselves for the noble work of preserving civilisation. That spoke well for the training received at the college. Of the 550, no fewer than 122 had received commissions. (Applause.) He was in full sympathy with the proposed memorial, and would substantially assist the fund. (Applause.) Subscriptions would be thankfully received by the hon. treasurers, Messrs. Eric S. Kelynack and W. H. Fletcher.

The Rev. C. J. Prescott declared that the last four years were the most heroic in the history of Newington College. (Applause.) But by that he did not intend any reflection on the previous record of the college or those associated with it. It was generally admitted that a war such as that now ending would not recur for generations—even for a century. (Applause.) Had the call come earlier the very old boys would have responded, but their sons had proved that they were of the same stock. (Applause.) Newingtonians who had gone to the front had won six D.S.O.'s., 17 Military Crosses, three D.C.M's., 10 Military Medals, four Croix de Guerre, one Servian Gold Medal, one Order of the British Empire, and one Companionship of the British Empire. On the slopes of Gallipoli, in Mesopotamia, and "somewhere in France" there were 83 little wooden crosses which marked their own and the nation's loss. (Applause.) The enlistment figures were staggering. Out of 27 boys who had gained the Wigram Allen Scholarship 21 had joined the colours. Of the college cricket eleven ten had responded to the call. (Applause.) The other figures were equally good. They owed a great debt to the masters of the college. (Applause.) What manner of men would old Newingtonians be if they did not commemorate the glorious deeds of their college chums, who had done so much for freedom, King, and Empire. (Applause.) The other great Public schools intended to erect memorials, and Newingtonians should make theirs worthy of men who had given their lives for their country. (Applause.)

Mr. P. B. Colquhoun, M.L.A. (president of the Old Boys' Union) hoped that something worthy of the school would be erected. The additional accommodation proposed by the council would enable the school to do even better work in future. The memorial would do honour to those gallant lads who had fought and died, and who had brought honour to the old school, to themselves, and to their country. (Applause.)

FEDERAL SESSION.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the House of Representatives to-day, Mr. Higgs (Q.) made the request that the Government should immediately cable to the Minister for the Navy (Sir Joseph Cook) to seek verification of the Press statement that he had not seen Mr. Hughes for three months.

The Acting Prime Minister (Mr. Watt) said that a cablegram had been despatched on the previous day dealing with the matter. He could not disclose its contents, but the object was to obtain for the Government the exact facts.

The Acting Attorney-General, Mr. Groom, in moving the second reading of a bill to extend the period of the operation of the War Precautions Act, said a sudden cessation of all the governmental and semi-governmental activities which had arisen during the war could not be accomplished without grave danger to the financial and commercial life of the country, and to the serious disturbance of social and economic conditions. Under the War Precautions Act regulations had been framed for defence purposes to supplement the powers given by the Defence Act for the control of enemy subjects, for allied defence problems, for the national safety and wellbeing, and the prevention of internal troubles. It was proposed to extend the operation of the Act for six months after the issue of the peace proclamation. The Director of Munitions had reported that the industries with which he was associated would have to remain under control for some time after peace if confusion were not to be brought about. Similarly the Shipping Controller had reported that a sudden termination of the control of shipping would be disastrous to Australia's interests, and that it would have to continue for six months or longer. The central wool committee's activities would have to continue for some time, as the British Government had bought the Australian wool clip for one full season after the close of the war, and a serious condition of things would be brought about in the community if, immediately on the declaration of peace, the whole of the industrial, commercial, and financial operations of the Government were to cease. The dairy produce pool committee had been elected to office until June 30, 1920. It had to be remembered, too, that under the War Precautions Act there were certain moratorium provisions, for an extension of which the farmers had asked, and there would be serious hardships if there were to be a sudden foreclosure of mortgages on the homes of soldiers and soldiers' dependents. The Government proposed to take immediate action to repeal regulations and orders as they became no longer necessary, and to remove governmental control as soon as possible, as it became practicable and advisable.

The debate was resumed on the Defence Bill, which had been received from the Senate. The bill contains a provision to give men of the reserve military forces the same rights of seniority as those of the active military forces. Provision is also made to enable the Government to call up part of a class of the forces instead of the whole of the class. The bill also provides power for inflicting punishment of death in cases of murder.

Progress was reported, and the House adjourned at 4.30 till 3 p.m. on Tuesday.

INCREASED WAGES.

BOILERMAKERS AND ENGINEERS.

The Iron Trade Employers' Federation of New South announces that the Industrial Arbitration Court has, in response to the application of the Iron Trades Employers' Association of New South Wales, decided that the increase on the previous minimum rate of wages for boilermakers shall be to 1/9½ per hour, which is equal to £4/5/6 per week, an increase of 7/6 per week.

The association also states that as the Court has also been approached by the Iron Trades Employers' Association to settle what increase should be paid to the engineers, whose present rates are practically the same as the boilermakers were, it is very probable that a similar increase, viz., 7/6 per week, will be decided upon by the Court, an increase which the employers are quite willing to accede to. Such increase would raise the minimum wage of the lowest machinist in the engineers award, viz., drillers, to 1/4½ per hour, equal to £3/6/6 per week, whilst the highest paid mechanics, viz., forgers, would go up to 1/10½ per hour, equal to £4/11/6 per week. The association hopes therefore that all parties will abide by the awards of the Court, and prevent any interruption to the work of the country at such an important time as the present.

BOILERMAKERS CAUSE TROUBLE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Acting Minister for the Navy (Mr. Poynton) received advice to-day that the boilermakers engaged in the shipbuilding operations at Cockatoo Island, Garden Island, and Walsh Island were creating trouble and breaking some of the terms of the agreement. He had no further particulars, but he had instructed the managers of the various yards to stand firm by the agreement.

ARRANGING PEACE DAY.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Federal Cabinet has appointed the Minister for Recruiting, Mr. Orchard, as chairman of the provisional committee, to consider the form of celebrating peace, when it arrives, throughout the Commonwealth. He will be assisted by representatives from the Defence and Naval Departments in making proposals, so that, if peace is signed in the new year, a scheme, in which the whole of Australia will participate, will be arranged well in advance.

BRISBANE, Friday.

The secretary of the Returned Soldiers and Citizens' Political Federation telegraphed to the general secretary in Melbourne asking him to approach the Minister to grant leave to returned soldiers in the Commonwealth service on November 29 and 30, in view of the peace celebration in Queensland. A reply received conveyed the information that Mr. Watt, in reply to the request, had said the Federal Government would not permit a State Government to dictate what holidays should be granted.

CASUALTIES.

Mr. John Winter, aged 64, was eating a hurried breakfast at his home in Eglinton-street, Lidcombe, on Friday morning, when a bone stuck in his throat. His wife tried to remove the obstruction, but failed. Dr. Furnival was then sent for, but the man died before he arrived.

Allen Thomson, 27, a fireman, attached to the North Sydney Fire Brigade, was found at his home at Walker-street, North Sydney, last night with his throat cut. The Civil Ambulance conveyed him to the Royal North Shore Hospital.

Shortly before noon yesterday John Whyoski, 64, a pensioner, living in Flinders-street, Darlinghurst, was discovered lying on the floor of his bedroom at that address with a bullet wound in the head and another in his side. He was taken by the Civil Ambulance to Sydney Hospital and admitted by Dr. Pfeiffer.

Edgar Ray, 15, a telegraph messenger, living in Westbrook-avenue, Wahroonga, was riding a bicycle on his way to work yesterday morning, and when descending a hill in Eastern-road, Wahroonga, the fork on one of the wheels broke, throwing him to the ground. The Civil Ambulance took him to the Royal North Shore Hospital, where he was found to be suffering from concussion of the brain. He was admitted by Dr. Leeds.

BERRIGAN.—In July last, when a rapid rise in the Murray River took place, an elderly man named James Bourke was missed from Yarrawonga. Fears were then entertained that he had been drowned. On Wednesday his body was found at Bruce's Bend, six miles down stream, near Mount Gwynne, where it had apparently been deposited by flood waters.

SERIOUS BUSH FIRES.

PARKES, Friday.

Serious bush fires have occurred in the district. On Wednesday afternoon a fire at Mr. J. M'Millan's farm, Sparling Swamp, destroyed three sheds and about 25 tons of hay, as well as drill, grader, sulkies, harness, and other material; two horses which were in the stable were burned, one very seriously. The loss was not covered by insurance. The same night a fire occurred at Mr. R. H. K. Wood's farm, Kirkeys, when three stacks of hay, about 10 tons of chaff, and a chaffcutter were destroyed. Another fire occurred at Mr. Stephen Barber's farm, when a large shed, two harvesters, cultivator, a chaffcutter, and 600ft of timber were consumed.

FATAL MINING ACCIDENT.

IPSWICH (Q.), Friday.

A fatal accident occurred at Noble Vale Colliery No. 1, the victim being a pithead man, L. Llewellyn, single, aged 23. Deceased, who was only recently appointed to the position, had gone down to the loading stage, and was watching the oiling of the machinery which operates the tumbler, when he put his head over the outer framework of the tumbler, which came down and jammed his head between the tie rod and outer frame. Llewellyn was conveyed to the general hospital, where he died during the day.

Dalton House, 115 Pitt-street.

All those who are anxious to seek news of sick, wounded, or missing men are invited to call or write to the above address, and the Red Cross will try to help them. LANGER OWEN.

COUNTRY NEWS.

BYRON BAY.—The central Repatriation Committee in Sydney has been notified by the Byron Shire Repatriation Committee that unless cases of returned soldiers recommended by the local committees are satisfactorily adjusted the whole of the local committees will resign. Senator Millen has telegraphed to the local secretary asking for particulars regarding the trouble, having seen some reference to the complaints in the press. He has been supplied with particulars.

CULCAIRN.—The Culcairn Cheer Ohs visited Walla Walla on Wednesday night and gave a concert in aid of local the Repatriation Fund, and about £25 was realised. Only recently £347 was raised in Walla for the same fund.

GOULBURN.—At the last meeting of the Goulburn Chamber of Commerce it was resolved to protest to the Forestry Department against the defoliation of trees at Paddy's River for eucalyptus extract. The chamber decided to communicate with the country chambers of commerce objecting to the policy of the Government in building houses in Sydney for letting purposes unless the cost was authorised and borne by the municipality affected.

MOSS VALE.—Moss Vale Red Cross flower show was held in the Centennial Hall. It was opened by Miss Fairfax, who was presented with a bouquet by Miss Marjorie Osborne. The proceeds amounted to nearly £200. Both Miss Fairfax and Mrs. E. E. Row paid a tribute to the Red Cross nurses at the front. Miss Fairfax also presented first aid certificates to a number of successful candidates who had been coached by Dr. F. C. Stevenson.

MUSWELLBROOK.—In the District Court, before Judge Fitzhardinge, J. Leard appealed against the taxation of costs in a case heard at the last sitting of the Court. The appeal was dismissed. In the case in Divorce Jurisdiction, Kennedy v. Kennedy, adjourned from the last sitting of the Court for more evidence to be called, his Honor found the issues of marriage and adultery proved. Before the Court adjourned, Mr. A. B. Shaw, on behalf of the members of the legal profession, referred to the fact that his Honor was about to retire, and acknowledged the courtesy, ability, and patience with which he had conducted the business of the Courts under his jurisdiction, and hoped that he would be long spared with his ripe experiences to continue to give good service to his country.

RAILWAY INVENTIONS.

The Railway and Tramway Suggestions and Inventions Committee, which inquires into various suggestions brought forward by the railway and tramway staff, reports remarkable progress during the last 12 months. Over 680 suggestions were received, of which 542 were finally dealt with, and of these 97 were adopted, equal to 18 per cent., as compared with 15 per cent. the previous year, and 6 per cent. the first year. The grand total received to date is 1840.

The Railway Commissioners have greatly increased the amounts of bonuses payable for accepted suggestions, the result being that an amount of £1436 was paid to the men last year, as compared with £240 during the previous 12 months. In addition to this an amount of £90 was expended by the Commissioners on behalf of their employees for patent office fees to protect inventions for which bonuses were paid, and which the patentees are at liberty to dispose of in the outside market.

The suggestions cover a wide range of subjects—labour-saving appliances, safety devices, economy in stationery, improvements in operation of the service, etc.

FINANCIAL.

THE BIG LOAN POLICY.

Mr. Holman, the State Premier, has declared to us, in the course of the Monaro election campaign, that his policy is still that of the big loan. With the first few days of peace he hopes for a return of the time when he will be again able to approach the financiers in London; or does he hope to obtain some of the money which, if the war continued, the Commonwealth would receive from the people for war loan purposes? The plea is that the big loan policy is necessary in order to provide work for the returning soldiers. It is a good plea if justified, but is it justified? The country is crying out for labour. There is a demand everywhere for labour. Even where employment is slack, as along the waterfront, a great revival is looked for on the proclamation of peace, releasing shipping for the ordinary trade of the world. The problem will be not to find work for the men who return, but to persuade them to settle down to work. They have been used to a different kind of work, some of them for years. Habits which they adopted under compulsion they cannot change in a day or even a month. It will be necessary to treat them tenderly and patiently. They cannot settle down to work at once, the majority of them. There must be some roving. The spirit of self-responsibility must be allowed to grow again. It cannot be regained all at once. But the way to do it is not by starting a boom in public works. We know that in our own State there are many new works to be started by private enterprise for new manufactures. All these will absorb labour. Many of the men from the front were men on the land. They will all be wanted back on the land, and there are many others, too, from the front who will want to try their fortune. Shall we have sufficient labour for extended private enterprise and extended public works construction? As Mr. Holman proposes again to increase the loan expenditure, it is interesting to go back a dozen years and ascertain the amount spent each year and the holder of the office of Premier at the time. It may be given thus—

Year ended June 30.	Premier.	Total. £	Per head of Population. £ s. d.
1907	Mr. Wade	1,056,553	0 13 10
1908	Mr. Wade	1,965,329	1 5 2
1909	Mr. Wade	2,906,507	1 16 8
1910	Mr. Wade	3,246,640	2 0 3
1911	Mr. Wade and Mr. M'Gowen	3,921,758	2 7 9
1912	Mr. M'Gowen	5,401,103	3 5 7
1913	Mr. M'Gowen	7,703,594	4 6 8
1914	Mr. Holman	9,126,844	4 19 8
1915	Mr. Holman	6,996,107	3 15 1
1916	Mr. Holman	8,173,104	4 7 6
1917	Mr. Holman	6,862,179	3 13 6
1918	Mr. Holman	4,487,511	2 7 7

Taking the years singly it will be seen that Mr. Holman was responsible for all the heaviest expenditure.

That there must be a reasonable public works policy everyone will admit, but the temptation to spend as much as the loan markets will furnish us with has in the past eight years been overwhelming. We have paid higher and higher interest for the money we have borrowed, higher and higher prices for the material, and higher and higher wages for the use of those materials. The heavy borrower can never borrow on so good terms as the borrower of moderation, who sees to it that he gets his money's worth from the amount he borrows.

One defect in our present system of public accounts is that from year to year we do not know the amount to which we are committed to in the way of Public works. For the ordinary member of Parliament it entails some searching through gazettes and Auditor-General's reports to ascertain what amount has been spent on even a single work of any magnitude during the year. It would only be by a great amount of labour that he would be able to ascertain what was spent on each of the works under construction. Nor is there any means of ascertaining what amount of expenditure is still required to complete a given work. If the loan expenditure were carried out in a business-like manner there would be presented to Parliament returns with the Estimates showing the amount spent on each work in previous years, and the amount required to be spent in order to complete each work. The aggregate total of the latter statement would give what the country is committed to, and we would be in a better position of judging of the wisdom of further expenditure.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

The demand for Christmas groceries continued brisk yesterday. Brazil nuts brought 1/7, soft shell almonds 1/10, and new season's walnuts 1/2. Jordon almonds commanded up to 4/6. Dried and tinned fruit cleared in big parcels at full rates. Sales of lemon peel were made at /7½, and citron peel at 1/, and of orange peel at /8½ per lb. Tinned fish were regarded as good property. Salmon realised to 23/6, and 14/6 was paid for kippered herrings.

Heavy manufactured metals continued quiet.

Brewers' goods were in fairly good demand, but stocks were exceedingly light. There was again an unsatisfied inquiry for prime quality Victorian malt for shipment to the East. Last week small orders were booked at from 9/9 to 10/ on rail Sydney, but this business could not be repeated. Only very limited quanities of 1918 Tasmanian hops were available, and holders wanted 1/9 per lb delivered Sydney. The 1919 crop was wanted for shipment to the East, and some big sales were pending. The prices quoted for the 1919 crop were high compared with those current 12 months ago, but were nevertheless much below the ruling price for the 1918 crop. Penang leaf isinglass was in strong request, and deliveries were made out of a shipment recently arrived at from 7/9 to 8/. Other grades were off the market.

The copra market was uncertain, but £29/10/ for sun-dried in bags appeared to be a fair quotation.

MINING.

A distinct break in prices of shares in mining companies producing industrial metals was noted on the Stock Exchange yesterday. Copper and silver-lead concerns bore the brunt of the decline, and tin propositions also weakened considerably. The weakness of the market had a depressing effect also on gold ventures. In the copper group Mt. Morgan fell 1/9 to 25/9, and Hampden declined 1/ to 15/9, while Mt. Lyell eased 1/3 to 26/9, Mt. Cuthbert sagged to 5/9, and C.S.A., paid, sold down to 20/. Broken Hill interests were visibly lower also. Hills dropped /9 to 56/6, and Norths sold 1/3 lower at 56/3. Junction, con., slumped /7 to 6/2, and Junction North receded /3 to 11/9, and a decrease of /4½ was noted in British. Other silver-lead issues were quoted on a weaker basis. A feature of the reaction in tin scrip was the fall of 1/6 to 16/ in Carpathias. An agitation amongst a section of shareholders for a reconstruction of the board is said to be taking definite shape. Vegetable Creek sank /6 to 8/11, and Pond's Creek figured /9 down at 4/6. Kampongs were again in keen request owing to further buying in notices, and prices held firmly. Among other Malayan enterprises lower prices were realised for Ratrut and Tongkah Compound. Mt. Dudley figured prominently in the gold collection, and closed /5 higher at 5/9 after some purchases said to be based on good reports from the field. Westonias met a sick market. Deeps sagged /2 to 14/9, and Consols were substantially lower in quotations. The mine manager of the Consolidated mine announced by wire "the mines inspector wanted stronger timbers in the main shaft between the No. 1 level and the surface. All small timbers will have to be removed and replaced by stronger sets similar to those put in lately. The mine must close down till this work is completed, and it will probably take about four weeks." Mammoth Molybdenite figured /3 firmer at 4/9.

NOTES.

The C.S.A. furnace was in blast for 168 hours during the week ended November 20, and smelted 1113 tons of the company's ore, and 124 tons of purchased ore, averaging 7.1 per cent., which produced 209 tons of shipping matte, containing 43 tons of copper.

The mine manager of Mt. Cuthbert, N.L., reports that at the Kalkadoon leases in the main shaft at the 250ft level he has struck the lode 49ft west of the old level, and penetrated 4ft in limestone, carrying chalcopyrite, the present face assaying 3 per cent. copper.

YETHOLME MOLYBDENITE FIELD.

It is reported from the molybdenite field at Yetholme that the Mammoth Company, running three shifts with a ten-head battery, has been averaging the treatment of 360 tons of stone per fortnight for a return of 25cwt of concentrates, this figure being exclusive of the concentrates in slime, which is cleaned up once a month. The mining operations have been extended by the connection of the two main drives running north, and by subsidiary drives running west from No. 2 main tunnel. Many hundreds of feet have been driven in this way. The working area has been cut into small blocks, on the pillar and stall system. The ore is reported to have been uniform in value. The company is arranging to work on a larger scale by installing additional treatment units. The Broken Hill Proprietary Company is continuing extensive test work on the Mammoth Blocks on the eastern side of the field, over which it has an option. Tunnels have been driven, and the diamond drills are about to be put down. The water supply is being taken from the Mammoth's four-mile line of pipes.

MATRICULATION PASSES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I have read with much pleasure in the "Sydney Morning Herald" the motion which the Senate of the University propose to consider at their next meeting. The concession as detailed, if granted, will be greatly appreciated by parents and students, and in order that it may be of the greatest value it is most desirable that the results of the Leaving Certificate Examination be made known as quickly as possible to give students who have failed in any matriculation subjects the time necessary for preparation for the March examination. It is to be hoped that the authority controlling the Leaving Certificate Examination will likewise give this matter their careful consideration. I am, etc.,

AMUSEMENTS.

CRITERION THEATRE—"MADAME X."

The emotional French drama, "Madame X.," will be revived for five nights and a matinee at the Criterion to-night, with Muriel Starr as the hapless heroine of many sensational adventures. The cast will include Frank Harvey, Louis Kimball, Arthur Styan, Sydney Stirling, Misses Norma Mitchell, Bertha Ballinger. The plan is at Paling's.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE—"KATINKA."

"Katinka" is still proving a theatrical lodestone at Her Majesty's, where an extra matinee is notified by the J. C. Williamson direction for to-day. Phil Smith as the bustling Hopper, Leslie Holland, Reg. Roberts, Gladys Moncrieff, and Florence Young are in the cast.

PALACE—"EYES OF YOUTH."

There will be afternoon and evening performances of "The Eyes of Youth" at the Palace Theatre, where Emelie Polini continues to draw large audiences as the crystal-gazing heroine.

PALACE REPERTORY MATINEE.

John Galsworthy's "The Pigeon" will be staged for the J. and N. Tait repertory matinee at the Palace Theatre next Thursday, preceded by Shaw's "How He Lied to Her Husband." "The Pigeon" will include: Wellwyn (artist), A. E. Greenaway; Timson, Eardley Turner; Ferrand, Gregan MacMahon; Ann, Monica Scully; Mrs. Megan, Esther Mitchell; the Canon, Cecil Brooting. "The Pigeon" is referred to in "Music and Drama." Plan at Nicholson's.

TIVOLI THEATRE.—"TIME, PLEASE."

This afternoon and evening "Time, Please," the popular revue produced early in the season, will be revived at the Tivoli Theatre with the strong cast now available, which includes nearly all the former principals. Uproarious laughter is sure to follow the humorous doings, songs, and dances of Barry Lupino, Beatrice Holloway, Hugh Steyne, Marie Eaton, Billy Rego, Charlie Albert, and other favourites.

PLAYHOUSE.—PIE NO. 8, "LIES OF TRUTH."

At 2.30 to-day and again to-night Sydney James will present his No. 8 Pie, which reaches a laughter-provoking climax in the capital burlesque "Lies of Truth." In this travesty four different artists, Misses Cecil Hains and George De Lara, Messrs. Desmond and James figure as Gina Ashling, with the most ludicrous effect; and there are other novelties.

ORIGINAL ANZACS INVITED.

Messrs. Ben. and John Fuller are extending a cordial invitation to returning original Anzacs to attend any of their theatres in Australasia at any but Saturday night and holiday performances. The Anzacs may be accompanied by a lady friend. Tickets will be procurable from the entertainment bureau.

CHEER-OH'S WAR CHEST EFFORT.

In aid of the "S. M. Herald" and Sydney "Mail" stall on War Chest Day, the Cheer-oh Girls have organised an especially attractive entertainment. This will take place at the Repertory Theatre this evening, when various novel sketches, songs, and dances will be introduced under Mrs. Bennett White's direction.

CONSERVATORIUM OF MUSIC.

This afternoon at 2.30 the final choral and orchestral concert of the session will be given, under the baton of Mr. Henri Verbrugghen, and will include Bethoven's Ninth Symphony ("The Choral") and the "Emperor," Concerto for pianoforte and orchestra, No. 5, with Mr. Henry Penn as pianist.

On Wednesday next at 8.5 p.m. the final Lecture-Concert will present the plebiscite programme of the Dvorak Piano Quintet, the pianist being Mr. Henry Penn, and the String Quartet of Beethoven Op. 132 in A. Minor (posthumous) performed by the Verbrugghen String Quartet. Both plans at Nicholson's.

ELOCUTIONARY RECITAL.

Miss Gene Magnus, the recent winner of the senior gold medal, Trinity College of Music, London, will be introduced by Mr. Lawrence Campbell at St. James's Hall to-night, in a varied elocutionary programme. Miss Alma Berge, soprano, Miss Mary Bourke, contralto, and Mrs. R. Robinson, 'celloist, will assist. Plan at Paling's.

MOSMAN MUSICAL SOCIETY.

To-night and on Monday the Mosman Musical Society, under Mr. John Greene and Mr. John Wallace (stage-manager), will appear at the Mosman Town Hall in "Boccaccio," which tuneful and vivacious work is running smartly with Dorrie Ward in the name-part. The final repetition will be at Manresa Hall on Wednesday.

OPEN-AIR BAND MUSIC.

The State Military Band will play in Hyde Park at 7.30 p.m. to-morrow, under musical director, J. B. Tougher. Selections, "Pride of England" and "The Girls of Gottenberg" will be included.

WELSH CHORAL SOCIETY.

The Welsh Choral Society will render "The Messiah" at the Town Hall on Thursday night, December 19, under the baton of Mr. E. H. Jones, when the principals will be Miss Muriel Lorton, Miss Lilian Gibson, Mr. William Jones, and Mr. A. E. Y. Benham. Mr. Mowat Carter will lead the orchestra, and Mr. Vern Barnett will accompany on the organ. The plan will open at Paling's on December 2.

MR. CHARLES SMYTHE.

At the Conservatorium on Monday, December 9, a song recital will be given by Mr. Charles Smythe, assisted by his pupils. The plan opens at Paling's next Monday.

MR. REX DE CAIROS REGO'S CONCERT.

On Monday, December 9, the students of Mr. Rex De Cairos Rego will join in a vocal and pianoforte recital at King's Hall, when an attractive programme will be presented.

MADAME ADA BAKER'S CONCERT.

A complimentary concert will be tendered to Madame Ada Baker by her pupils, to be given at the King's Hall on Wednesday, December 11.

THE DING-DONG GIRLS.

The "Ding-Dong Girls" gave one of their bright and sparkling drawing-room "revues" at the Auburn Town Hall on Wednesday night in aid of the Auburn War Chest Fund. A crowded and appreciative audience gave these visiting girls from Burwood a hearty reception.

MISS LEAH MYERS' CONCERT.

At King's Hall on Tuesday evening next, Miss Leah Myers (from the studio of M. A. Goossens) will give an invitation song recital. Messrs. A. Goossens, Henry Penn, F. A. Mowat Carter, and Miss Vera Houghton will assist. A plan is at Paling's.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC MATINEE.

Mr. Oswald Anderson directed a fourth musical matinee of the Sydney Academy of Music and Dramatic Art at St. James's Hall on Thursday, when a central feature was the introduction of R. A. Long's one-act comedy "Jackie Takes a Hand." This brightly written scene was rendered with the author as Bob Everett, Miss Phyllis M'Donagh as Eileen, Bob's fiancee, and Miss Joyce Hunt as Jackie, an American Bunty who pulls the strings which bring estranged lovers together again. This happens at a rustic bungalow to which Bob has repaired away from New York, where his latest literary effort has failed. Jackie's motor car conveniently breaks down at midnight near the cottage, and her sister Eileen follows her to it. A happy reconciliation is the result after some smart talk and tender passages, at the close of which the three performers were warmly applauded. Mr. Montgomery Stuart, Mr. Warwick M'Kenzie, Mr. Arthur Simmons (duo-concerto and Phone d'Amour), and Lieut. Francis Blake (accompanist) were the assisting artists, and songs were contributed by the students.

MR. VOST JANSSEN'S CONCERT.

The violin students under Mr. S. Vost Janssen, assisted by singers from the studio of Signor V. de Giorgio, gave a concert before a crowded audience at King's Hall on Wednesday night. Ensemble numbers for violins played with volume of tone and good expression under the director's baton were his own graceful "Bagatelle," a theme from the "Rosamunde Entr'acte" of Schubert, and the same composer's "Moment Musicale." Mr. Charles Wentzel's true and steady tone in Senallie's vivacious "Allemande," Mr. Arthur Hancock's fluency in "L'Abeille," and the decided talent of Robert Acheson in Saint Saens' "Rondo Cappriccioso" should be especially mentioned. Miss Muriel Allen, who displayed a contralto of heavy calibre, rich in tone, and large in volume, made quite an impression in Haydn's "The Spirit Song," and should develop into an oratorio singer of note. Miss Marie Muir, a lyric soprano, sang with genuine feeling and power at the climax "Depuis le Jour." Mr. Norbert Wentzel was the accompanist of the evening.

MME. SLAPOFFSKI'S CONCERT.

"HEARTS OF THE WORLD."

D. W. Griffiths' latest film masterpiece, in which a tender love-story is carried on amidst the stirring scenes of the Western battlefields, is being screened by the J. C. Williamson management at the Theatre Royal to large audiences, both afternoon and evening. Robert Harron makes a fine manly hero ("The Boy"), a Lillian Gish a delightful heroine (the Girl). Fine is the comedy of "Cuckoo," and the French type of "Ole Bill," given by George Fawcett. The "Little Disturber" of Dorothy Gish is an especially good specimen of a refined screen comedienne.

UNION PICTURE THEATRES.

Clara Kimball Young in "The Savage Woman" will be shown to-day at the Crystal Palace; and on Monday Olga Petrova will be seen in "Tempered Steel," a 5-act feature produced by her own company.

At the Strand to-day and all next week the main attractions will be Alice Joyce in "To the Highest Bidder," a Vitagraph Blue Ribbon feature, and Pauline Starke in "Alias Mary Brown." "£500 Reward" will finish at the Globe this evening. On Monday Bert Lytell in the Metro photo-play "No Man's Land" will be screened. To-night is the last opportunity the public will have of seeing "The Sorrows of Satan" at the Lyric. On Monday its place will be taken by Clara Kimball Young in "The Savage Woman." "Confession" and Charlie Chaplin in an Essanay comedy will finish to-day at the Empress. Monday's change will introduce Gladys Leslie in "Wild Primrose" and Belle Bennett in "Ashes of Hope." Two Triangle features have been selected for the Grand's programme next week. They are Clara Williams in "The Market of Vain Desire," and Louise Glaum in "Golden Rule Kate." "Revelation" and "To-day" will finish at the Majestic this evening. On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday next week Mae Marsh in "The Beloved Traitor," and Lionel Barrymore in "The Flaming Sword" will be screened. "Ashes of Hope" and "More Trouble" are the attractions selected for West's Olympia next week. "The Service Star" and "Ashes of Hope" will conclude at the King's Cross this evening. On Monday Mae Marsh in "The Beloved Traitor" and Mary McAlister in "Young Mother Hubbard" will be screened.

PERSHING'S CRUSADERS.

"Pershing's Crusaders," the official United States motion picture, will finish a particularly successful season at the Town Hall this evening.

THE LYCEUM.

A 5-act Fox photo-play supreme, entitled "Cheating the Public" is the main attraction at the Lyceum to-day, and it will be shown all the week. It is supported by little Madge Evans in a 5-act world picture under the title of "Neighbours."

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

Although some easting had been made by the "high" and the following Antarctic disturbance, the movement of the former has resulted in its centre concentrating about Lord Howe Island, whilst the outer isobars still retained the pronounced tropical dips over Queensland, Northern Territory, and parts of New South Wales. There was still a good deal of cloud present on Friday morning in various parts of the eastern States, but it was more scattered than on Thursday. But with the change in the position of the centre of the "high," additional inducement is offered to the development of thundery conditions, though no definite rainstorm is yet in sight. Heat and sultriness should become more conspicuous features, with squally northerly winds, and local culminations in thunderstorms; also showers on the North Coast. The Antarctic disturbance now over the Central Bight is very extensive, and should bring unsettled weather to the SW districts of our State by about Sunday.

PETROL CASES WASHED ASHORE.

According to reports received by the Navigation Department in Sydney from officers stationed at Narooma, Port Kembla, and Bateman's Bay, several empty petrol cases have been washed ashore at those places. The cases were in a charred condition on the outside, but otherwise bore no marks by which they might be identified. It is probable that they formed part of the same cargo as that of the cases which were found ashore at Moruya a few days ago, and which were believed to have belonged to the missing schooner Handa Isle.

HEADACHES, BACKACHE, NEURALGIA, ETC.,

ARE THE CRY OF HUNGRY NERVES.

HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS THE REMEDY.

Nervous headaches, neuralgia, backache, loss of appetite, anaemia, insomnia, dyspepsia, brainfag, breakdown, rheumatism, and other kindred symptoms are the cry of starved, exhausted nerves. The remedy is obvious—nourish your nervous system. Don't make the mistake of taking dangerous drugs and poisons. Take something that will promote good digestion. Stimulate the liver and kidneys to normal action, and purify and enrich the blood, thus feeding the nerves and silencing their hunger cries. For this purpose you cannot do better than take a course of HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS. A quarter of a century's experience in the dispensing of nerve treatments has proven the efficacy of HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS, which have the added advantages of convenience for carrying and economy in cost. Boxes, which easily fit into the vest pocket, contain 12 days' supply, and cost only 3/, or six boxes for 17/3. You may obtain them from your chemist or store, or by post from

AT RANDWICK.
SUNNYSIDE.
A Superb Site and a surpassing outlook, a sequestered spot, easily accessible on the main road, overlooking the Racecourse, the Western Suburbs, the City, and Centennial Park, a panoramic wealth of variety both by day and at night.
Far back in the early days at the beginning of settlement at Randwick the late Walter Bradley selected for his home this and the land adjoining upon which to build his residence.
Some seven years ago the present owner purchased that portion upon which stands Sunnyside, a substantially-built House of Stone, containing Reception-room, Dining-room, Billiard or Smoke Room, 8 large Bedrooms, Dressing-room, 3 other Bedrooms, Servants' Dining-room, Kitchen, Pantries, Laundry, and other offices. Motor Garage and Stabling.
The Land has an area of close on two acres, and fronts Allison-road, Bradley-street, and Wansey-road, and small Reserve.
The Grounds are laid out in Garden, Tennis Court, and lawns, and its unique position prevents any buildings being erected, destroying the magnificent views. The drive to the City is along the main Randwick-road, or through Centennial Park, which is reached by Motor in 15 minutes, or by tram, which is close by, in 25 minutes.
FOR SALE, on extended terms, owing to the Owner's early departure abroad; or TO LET on Lease.
For further particulars apply to
J. E. O'BRIEN, Sunnyside, Allison-road, Randwick.

HOUSES AND LAND FOR SALE.

IF YOU ARE BUYING A POULTRY FARM, WHY NOT GET ONE YOU CAN CATCH FISH OFF?
"Fish and Poultry" looks a very natural combination on a menu, but you don't often get it "on the land."
This is one of the many advantages we can offer you on our BIGAREA BLOCKS ESTATE,
situated at Mortdale, and running down to George's River.
There are 38 Big Blocks, running up to 9 acres each, and of these 21 have absolute water frontages to George's River, which is here really a wide bay looking out towards Como.
There are Blocks here to suit everyone who wants elbow room. Some blocks are adapted for fruit-growing, and others for poultry or pigs, and some at the farther end have a value of their own as Camping Sites, and afford specially fine views.
The easiest access to the Estate is by train to Penshurst Station (10 miles from Sydney on Illawarra line), thence by Bennett's Motor 'bus (meets every train), fare 3d. Or you can take train to Mortdale Station, and walk to the Estate, about 1¼ mile.
The far end of the Estate may be reached by water from Como, less than 1¼ mile. This is a pretty trip. You can get right on to the Estate in less than an hour from Sydney. This is a "Business-and-pleasure combined" Estate, and the 38 Blocks will soon go. So get in early. Great Big Blocks, you could swing a whale on them. You can grow things on them and catch fish off them. Plans now Ready. Torrens Title, Easy terms. Remember the name, Bigarea Blocks Estate.

Post-war Trade Possibilities are no longer things of a distant day—they are here and now—demanding attention.
JERVIS BAY Must be the first great Port to feel that Progress, as being the finest Natural Harbour on our coast, the opening of which would serve such a great and rich hinterland.

AT RANDWICK.
SUNNYSIDE.
A Superb Site and a surpassing outlook, a sequestered spot, easily accessible on the main road, overlooking the Racecourse, the Western Suburbs, the City, and Centennial Park; a panoramic wealth of variety both by day and at night.
Far back in the early days at the beginning of settlement at Randwick the late Walter Bradley selected for his home this and the land adjoining upon which to build his residence.
Some seven years ago the present owner purchased that portion upon which stands Sunnyside, a substantially built House of stone, containing Reception-room, dining-room, billiard or smoke room, 3 large bedrooms, dressing-room, 2 other bedrooms, servants' dining-room, kitchen, pantries, laundry, and other offices. Motor garage and stabling.
The Land has an area of close on two acres, and fronts Allison-road, Bradley-street, and Wansey-road, and small Reserve.
The grounds are laid out in Garden, Tennis Court, and Lawns, and its unique position prevents any buildings being erected, destroying the magnificent views. The drive to the City is along the main Randwick-road, or through Centennial Park, which is reached by Motor in 15 minutes, or by train, which is close by, in 25 minutes.
FOR SALE, on extended terms, owing to the Owner's early departure abroad, or TO LET on Lease.
For further particulars apply to
J. E. O'BRIEN, Sunnyside, Allison-road, Randwick.

TEETH. TEETH.

WITH MY PAINLESS EXTRACTIONS.

I have my own special method for extracting teeth, and you will feel no pain whatever. There will be no pricking of the gums when you come to me. There will be no nasty festers, and no need to come back twice or more, as with some other methods. In short, my method of painless extractions is perfection. I have used it successfully on children of 3 and aged people of 80. It does not affect the heart.

£5 IF YOU FEEL ANY PAIN.
Even if you feel a single twinge during an extraction I will give you £5. Moreover, if you can find a patient whom I have hurt I will give you £10.

PAINLESS FILLINGS.
I have a special apparatus which enables me to drill and fill sensitive teeth quite pain-free. It costs no more to have these great advantages. You are assured of the most modern methods, together with the highest-class work, backed by my written guarantee. I will also arrange terms.

WRINKLES.
Wrinkles in general may depend upon an unnatural use of the muscles, but also upon a lack of their use, with the result that the muscles become flabby, sinking below their natural level, and allowing the skin to fall with them, thus causing hollows, furrows, and folds.
It is well known that exercise strengthens faculty, but care must be taken not to over-exert a muscle or a group of muscles. A muscle is built up by gentle, systematic massage, but can be rendered entirely useless by rough, unnatural manipulation. If you call I will demonstrate to you the right and the wrong methods.
SUPERFLUOUS HAIRS.
BE VERY CAREFUL ABOUT THE REMOVAL OF THESE BLEMISHES,
as it requires an experienced operator to do this work without scars or marks, and one who has a clear understanding of the skin and electricity.
SEVENTEEN YEARS I HAVE BEEN ESTABLISHED, and guarantee all my work. Come and have a chat. I will explain fully.
